POLICEMAN KILLS ROBBER AT WATER TOWER BANK

RUSSIAN SOVIET IS DEFENDED AT SOCIALIST HEARING

EFFORT TO RESEAT DEFENDANTS FAILS

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 22.—A defense of Soviet Russia was made today on the floor of the New York Assembly chamber by Seymour Stedman of Chicago, an attorney for the defense in the trial of the five suspended Socialist Assemblymen before the Assembly Judiciary Committee on charges of disloyalty.

Asserting, in connection with the charge that the Socialist party, at its convention in Chicago last summer, had expressed solidarity with Soviet Russia, and that the Assembly had condemned the suspended members because they were members of a party which expressed such approval, Stedman declared that expression of belief in the soviet system was not an offense in England, Germany, Italy or Norway, where it had become an issue, and that, in this country, it was not a crime for which a man could be tried and sent to the penitentiary, nor did it even afford the basis for a civil libel suit.

"Shot Some Ideas Into Them."

"We are not at war with Russia," he said. "It is true that some of our troops are over there and some of the troops of our associates. It was rather unfortunate for some of our associates' troops, for the Russians shot some ideas into their regiments."

Stedman, who said educational institutions were being developed in Russia, despite the fighting that was going on there, asserted feeling toward that country was changing, and cited dispatches to the effect that the allied governments were preparing to resume trade relations. This, he claimed, was political recognition of the Russian economic structure.

Arguing a motion to dismiss the charges, because they did not include cause for exclusion of the Socialist members, Stedman declared that "You specify no act that would justify the exclusion of these men."

"Can you say that, if we plead guilty to the first cause (adherence to the Chicago platform), it justifies our exclusion?" he asked.

Stedman declared the first charge was made on the assumption that conditions in Russia were "responsible," but he declared that information received from that country was mostly in the form of dispatches, and that what "was fully known" to the Assembly might not be "fully known" to the Socialists, and vice versa.

He declared that "it is news to us" that the Socialist party, as charged, had indorsed the Communist international in Moscow, which demands overthrow of organized government.

"Never Such Action Before."

"Never before have we regarded a person's opinion as to the economic or political fabric or the social institutions which apply to another country, as a condition of membership in a legislative body," he said.

"But the offense here is that these men have views on a foreign political system; no intimation, no declaration of fact, that they propose or even dream, that a system which naturally develops from Russia's material conditions is adaptable to a highly complex industrial system such as that of the United States.

"How do you know that these gentlemen who assume that Russia today stands for wild and disorderly anarchy are correct? People suffering for a half or more than half a thousand years dissolve an army of 12,000,000. They re-equip, in the face of that, an army of 2,000,000. They fight on 17 different points at a time, and on four great fronts. They develop an educational system. They start the building of six railroads in the midst of it all, with four armies attacking them, from the east and west and south. Is that the Russia that you are objecting to?

"This Chicago convention, by resolution, also expressed sympathy to those in Ireland who believed in self-determination and liberty; and did

"LITTLE CHANGE," PRISONER SAYS OF $4000 IN POCKET

In rounding up suspects in connection with the attempted robbery of the Water Tower Bank, detectives today arrested a little bald-headed man, who said he was John Shea, 44 years old, no home.

When they searched Shea they found in a trousers pockets $4000 in new bills wrapped in bands as they are wrapped at banks. Two of the bills were of $500 denomination, there were several $100 bills, 25 $20 bills and the remainder was in $10 and $5 bills.

"What's this?" the detectives demanded.

"That," replied the little man, "that's only a little change. That's nothing. If I haven't got $50,000, I'm broke.

"Where did you get it?"

"Well, that's a different question," was the reply.

He was arrested in the home of George Meyers, 1905 Blair avenue, with Meyers and another man, who said he was Charles Patrick, 22 years old, of Chicago, and who admitted, the police say, that he was released from the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary 11 months ago.

WOMAN'S [illegible] VOICE AND DAINTY REVOLVER GET $7000

Pittsburg Man Says Holdup Was Carried On in Quiet, Conversational Tone Near His Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 21.—"I beg your pardon, sir, but would you kindly stop just where you are? I have something important to say to you."

It was a low, musical voice that greeted Adam Eidenmiller, secretary of a loan association last night when he was passing through Sulsman street almost in sight of his home.

A few minutes later the woman bandit had disappeared and with her had gone $7000 in cash and checks and a gold watch.

With professional skill she had poked a dainty revolver against Eidenmiller's stomach and then extracted his wallet and watch, talking to him as she worked in an easy, conversational tone to "cover up" and prevent pedestrians from knowing that anything unusual was happening. Eidenmiller was forced to join in this quiet conversation, he said.

MANUFACTURERS URGED TO USE "MADE IN ST. LOUIS" STAMP

Advertising Club Says Such Action Is Civic Duty to Be Practiced "Religiously."

St. Louis manufacturers are urged by the Advertising Club to stamp "Made in St. Louis" upon their products and state the fact of manufacture in St. Louis in their advertising. The club declares such action is a civic duty to be practiced "religiously."

The occasion of the appeal is "common knowledge" that "certain" St. Louis manufacturers do not now clearly identify themselves with this city in this way.

Onions From Spain Stolen.

Six carloads of onions, valued at $200, traveled safely all the way from Valencia, Spain, only to fall into the hands of St. Louis thieves yesterday. A New York Central Railroad car, on which the crates had been sent to St. Louis, was broken open in the yards at Second and Biddle streets and the onions stolen. The thieves are supposed by the police to have used an automobile truck to haul away the crates.

NEGROES PURCHASE CHURCH AND HOMES ON ENRIGHT AVENUE

Sale of Stone Edifice at Corner of Newstead Followed by Other Transfers Between Sarah and Taylor.

RESIDENTS BLAME WHITE CONGREGATION

Declare Negotiations to Sell Building Brought About Movement on Part of Negro Buyers.

Sale of the First United Presbyterian Church, a stone edifice, at the northeast corner of Newstead and Enright avenues, to a negro congregation, in the face of protests from adjacent churches and white residents in the neighborhood, has been followed by the sale to negroes of several houses on Enright, between Sarah street and Taylor avenue, which was once one of the most attractive residence sections in the West End.

The fact that the church had been sold was confirmed yesterday by the pastor, the Rev. H. H. McConnell, who said the deal was closed several weeks ago.

Since that time, a negro Bishop, the Rev. Nelson Cleve, formerly of Memphis, has purchased one of the best houses in the 4100 block, and the Rev. W. J. Turner, negro presiding elder, has bought the house at 4459 Enright avenue, neither of which blocks has had any negro residents before.

Many houses in the four blocks cost upward of $10,000—some of them more than twice that much, and most of the owners have lived in them many years. They have strenuously opposed the admission of negroes to the street, but now, learning of the sale of the church, are offering their homes for sale to anybody who will buy.

Blame White Congregation.

Both they and the negro real estate dealers who are selling the houses for them charge the white congregation with opening the street to negroes. The Rev. Mr. McConnell said negroes had bought houses in the street before there was any talk of selling the church, but was unable to point out any of them.

The only negro known to have moved in so far is Harry Arnold, an attache of Judge Mix's division of the Police Court, who is occupying a house in the 4200 block. After he moved in, about three months ago, somebody threw a brick through his window one night, and police guarded the place for some time.

When it became known, in October, that the Board of Trustees of the church was dickering with a negro congregation, protests were made to the Church Federation by the First Presbyterian Church, at Sarah and Washington; the First Christian Church, at Delmar and Pendleton; St. George's Episcopal, at Pendleton and Olive, and the Seventh Day Adventist Church, at Washington and Newstead, all of which are within a few blocks. A conference was arranged by the Church Federation officers.

Cheaper for White Buyer.

Robert Rutledge, a real estate dealer, who is a member of the First United Presbyterian, represented it in the negotiations with the negroes. They had paid $1000 down, on the purchase price of $30,000. The trustees agreed, however, that if a white buyer could be found within six weeks, they would sell for $25,000. No buyer was found, the pastor said, and the deal with the negroes went through.

The Lane Tabernacle A. M. E. Church, at 3966 Fairfax avenue, is the negro congregation which bought the church. The terms are $9000 to be paid before the building is turned over next May, and the balance at $5000 a year.

Persons who own houses on Enright avenue told a Post-Dispatch reporter who visited the neighborhood yesterday that there was no talk of negroes buying houses on the street until the church was offered for sale.

Irvin Smith, who occupies offices with Rutledge, today told a reporter that he had more than a dozen houses in the four blocks for sale to anybody who would buy. He said the sale of the church had made the whites eager to get off the street and negroes eager to move in.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL CONTRACT IS GIVEN TO MAN IN COUNTY

Purchaser Has One Hog Farm at Bonhomme and McKnight Roads West of City; Will Get Another.

NEW FARM IS TO BE NEAR MISSOURI RIVER

Will Pay City 50 Cents a Ton for Garbage, Delivered, or Take $1 a Ton and Pay Freight Himself.

The awarding today of a contract to dispose of the city's garbage to Frank H. Heckmann, owner of a hog farm at Bonhomme and McKnight roads, in St. Louis County, three and a half miles west of the St. Louis city limits, does not mean that a hog farm large enough to consume all the garbage will be established there, Street Commissioner Slater said. Heckmann proposes to establish a larger farm on the Missouri River, he said.

The present farm comprises 80 acres, and there are 700 hogs on it. It is about three-fourths of a mile southeast of Olivette. The Ladue road, by which some members reach the St. Louis Country Club, passes within a a mile of it. The farm is one and a half miles northeast of the club.

Mayor Kerth of Clayton said today that complaints about the place were received last summer, and added that if it becomes a nuisance the city authorities of Clayton will take prompt measures to abate it. The State law permits a city Board of Health to regulate places within five miles of the city limits, when the health of persons in the city is affected, he said. The farm is a mile northwest of the old city limits, and half a mile from the new limit, which is in dispute.

Health Commissioner Eggers of St. Louis County also told of receiving complaints last summer, but said Heckmann had showed a willingness to keep the farm in sanitary condition.

Feeding 700 Hogs.

Commissioner Slater said that Heckmann has been feeding the 700 hogs with garbage collected in the West End, and hauled there in wagons. He has heard of no complaints, and the awarding of the contract will make no change in the situation, so far as St. Louis is concerned. He declared Heckmann had assured the city that he did not propose to enlarge the present farm.

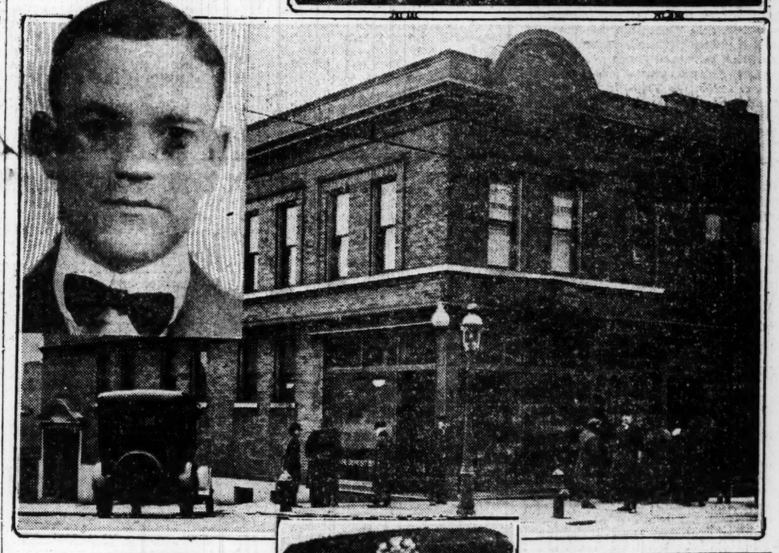

The city's garbage averages about 100 tons a day the year around, and about 5000 hogs are necessary to consume that amount. Heckmann intends to establish a large farm on the Missouri River, either on the Burlington or Rock Island railroads.

NINE PLEAD NOT GUILTY IN PROHIBITION CASES

When nine men charged with violation of the wartime prohibition act in September and October, 1919, were arraigned before him today United States Judge Faris began to read the informations against them.

The first, against Charles Horstkamp, a saloonkeeper at 6084 Maple avenue, required five minutes to read. The Judge also read one against John Cafferata, cafe owner at Delmar boulevard and Hamilton avenues. That required five minutes also.

"Do you want me to read the entire information against you," Judge Faris inquired of the third man, James Baugess, 6212 North Broadway.

"Oh, I guess you might as well, Baugess replied airily.

"I shall in due and ancient form," the Judge replied.

However, when he finished he turned over the other informations to a court clerk, who read each one of them to the man accused.

All pleaded not guilty. Their trials were set for Feb. 25 and 26. The District Attorney had been led to believe that Hugh McFarland, a bell boy in Hotel Jefferson, would plead guilty. However, he said today that friends had prevailed on him to plead not guilty. He is accused of selling a half pint of whisky in the hotel to a Deputy Internal Revenue Agent for $6.

ELZIE V. M'GINNIS INDICTED ON MANN ACT CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Elzie V. McGinnis of St. Louis, who served in France with the 128th (St. Louis) Infantry, was indicted by the Federal grand jury here today on a charge of violating the Mann act in bringing here Miss Esther Botts, 19 years old, of 3640 Russell avenue, St. Louis.

As has been told in the Post-Dispatch, McGinnis eloped last July with Miss Botts, deserting his wife, Mrs. Myrtle McGinnis, who resides with her parents at 1334 Temple place. McGinniss and Miss Botts were arrested last Saturday at San Francisco, where they had been living.

PROBATIONARY SHOT; MASKED MEN ESCAPE AFTER DROPPING LOOT

Raiders Balked After Lining Four Employes Against Wall and Putting $2000 in Sack—Slain Lookout Was Paroled From Penitentiary in 1917.

Probationary Patrolman Harry J. Shea of 2323 Hebert street, shot and killed one of a gang of bank robbers who were raiding the Water Tower Bank, 2100 East Grand avenue, at 9:50 a. m. today, and so disconcerted the rest of the gang that they dropped their plunder and fled without a penny of the bank's money.

Shea was wounded in the left hand and hip by the robber he killed, but was not seriously injured.

The slain robber was identified by detectives who knew him and by finger prints, measurements and photographs in the Bertillon gallery as Walter Fischer, 25 years old, who was paroled from the Missouri penitentiary Dec. 20, 1917, by Gov. Gardner, after serving less than nine months of a five-year sentence for highway robbery in St. Louis. He was restored to citizenship on May 22, last, by Gov. Gardner, upon the Parole Board's statement that he had "made a splendid record in France." He was once a telephone operator in the Police Department and was formerly a postoffice clerk.

$2800 in Cashier's Cage.

The Water Tower Bank is a neighborhood bank serving merchants and residents in a populous North St. Louis district. It is a block from the Water Tower circle. It has a capital stock of $100,000. An officer of the bank today said its deposits amount to $625,000 and it has total resources of $780,000.

The bank building, on a corner, has a frontage of about 30 feet on East Grand avenue and a depth of 60 feet on Twenty-first street. The entrance is at the intersection of these streets and sets at an angle to them.

There are two wire-inclosed cages in the bank. Louis Wellinghoff of 4955 Claxton avenue, the cashier, was in the cage nearest the door, sorting out packages of paper money and coin for the day's business. He had $2800 in the cage. The other cage was empty.

The doors of the vault were open and inside the vault was a globular manganese safe, the door of which was open. It is divided into two compartments, one of which, containing currency, was locked; the other, containing Liberty Bonds and deeds of trust, being open.

Handkerchiefs Over Faces.

In the banking room enclosure, about 15 feet wide and 30 feet long, behind the cages, were the only other employes in the bank, Edward Erbe of 4516A Red Bud avenue, and Fred. Kruse of 4800 St. Louis avenue, clerks, and Elmer Brine, 18 years old, of 6752 West Park avenue, a messenger.

All were busy with the morning routine when five or six men entered the bank through the corner door. Accounts as to the number vary. All wore tan raincoats and caps and had handkerchiefs over the lower part of their faces. One of the men, who seemed to be the leader, pointed a pistol at Cashier Wellinghoff and said: "Throw 'em up."

Wellinghoff thought there was a chance for resistance. He had a revolver on a shelf under his desk and he stooped to get it. As he did so he felt something pressing against his back. Turning, he saw another robber behind him. It was this robber's pistol which had pressed against his back.

Sack Filled With Money.

Cashier Wellinghoff saw that others of the robbers had passed through railing gates at either side of the cages and had entered the banking room proper and that they had the other employes covered. He called out to the other employes that it was no use to resist and advised them to keep their hands up.

The man who seemed to be the leader ordered Wellinghoff out of the cage and entered it himself. He took a gunny sack from under his raincoat and began putting the money into it. Wellinghoff and his three fellow employes were made to stand with their faces to the wall on the side of the room farthest from Twenty-first street and directly back of the cages, but before being forced into this position they saw two of the robbers go to the open vault in the rear of the room.

Policeman Balks Robbery.

Wellinghoff said he heard one of the robbers from inside the vault say: "They've got the money safe locked."

Then he heard another say: "There comes a copper." He heard a shot and a bullet whizzed behind him and went through a window opening on East Grand avenue at the side of the building farthest from the entrance. This shot was fired at Probationary Patrolman Shea, who had seen the robbers enter the bank and who was advancing on the lookout.

An instant later there were shots

POLICEMAN'S STORY OF KILLING ROBBER AND SPOILING HOLDUP

Probationary Shea Tells of Leaving Beat Across Street When He Saw Men Leave Auto.

Patrolman Shea, after being taken to his home, gave to a Post-Dispatch reporter his story of the attempted robbery and the shooting. He said:

"I was standing at East Grand avenue and Twenty-first street, opposite the bank, at about 9:45 o'clock, when I saw six men get out of an automobile on Twenty-first street and enter the bank. They had handkerchiefs over their faces. I crossed to the side of the bank building and as I edged up toward the front I heard one of the men inside say: 'Get that fellow on the corner.'

"As I rounded the corner the lookout pointed his gun at me and ordered me to throw up my hands. But I had told my mother when I left home this morning that I wouldn't throw up my hands for any man. My hand was inside my coat, reaching for my gun. I drew and we both began shooting.

"I am left-handed and I fired with my left side toward the lookout. After his first shot I felt a stinging sensation in my hip and knew that I had been hit.

Fired on By Others.

"We both continued firing. I fired five shots at him, but thought I had fired six and, supposing my gun was empty, I backed toward an automobile to get behind it. The lookout fell. The robbers came from the bank and while two or three of them were firing about 15 shots at me the others tried to get the lookout into the machine.

"I discovered that I had another bullet in my gun and fired at them. At the same time I slipped and fell. The men dropped the lookout and jumped into the machine and drove away."

outside. Shea had opened fire on the lookout and the robbery plot was balked.

The men who had been covering the bank employes turned to run away. Wellinghoff and his fellow employes turned around. They saw one of the robbers pulling and tugging at a large sack of coins which he had found on the floor of the vault. There were more shots outside. The robber quit tugging at the heavy sack and joined his companions in flight. Later it was found that the sack he tried so hard to get away with contained $50 in pennies.

The gunny sack, which one of the robbers filled with money in Wellinghoff's cage, was left there. It was found to contain more than $2000, which was the greater part of the money in the cage.

Policeman Shea, the boundary of whose beat was across the street from the bank, had seen several men get out of an automobile and go into the bank wearing handkerchiefs over their faces. He also saw a man, now known to have been Fischer, take a stand at the entrance to the bank. He noticed that this man wore a handkerchief about his neck in such a way that it could easily be drawn up and used as a mask. Certain that robbers were inside the bank and a lookout at the door, Shea stepped over the boundary of his beat and started across the street to break up the bank robbery.

Lookout Opened Fire.

Fischer opened fire on Shea. The bullet passed through the fleshy part of Shea's left hand and entered his left side near the hip. It did not disable Shea, who continued to advance and fired on Fischer after being wounded. He fired five shots. Two took effect, wounding Fischer in the right breast and the abdomen.

Fischer ran about 50 feet and fell. He was dead when picked up.

The robbers had left the bank by the main entrance at the corner, and escaped in an automobile in which they had driven to the bank, and which they had left standing on Twenty-first street near the rear end of the bank building. They drove south on Twenty-first street.

Henry Steinhoff, a city fireman, whose wife is a sister of Patrolman Shea, exchanged shots with the robbers as they fled. He was on the porch of his home at 2101 Bissell street, just back of the bank, when he saw them driving away. They returned his fire and two bullets went through a window of his home.

Auto Abandoned in Alley.

Detectives, who arrived at the bank in an automobile shortly after the robbery, took up the trail of the robbers' machine. They found it abandoned in an alley near Twenty-second and Madison streets, which is about 23 blocks from the bank. The engine was still running. They were told that the occupants of the car had jumped from it and had run.

In the machine they found a sawed-off shotgun, eight caps, two raincoats, several white handkerchiefs, a pink mask and several shotgun shells and revolver cartridges, and a white silk scarf.

The automobile was identified as one stolen last Thursday night from Andrew S. Ludwig, a druggist at St. Louis and Newstead avenues. Ludwig had left it standing at Fifteenth street and Cass avenue.

The engine of the car was running when the detectives found it. The machine did not bear Ludwig's license tag, but one which had been issued for a Ford and is believed to have been stolen.

Robber's Pistol Failed.

Examination of the revolver found near the body of the slain robber disclosed that one of two unexploded cartridges in it had been struck forcibly by the hammer of the gun. It is known that the robber's weapon failed to discharge the first time he pulled the trigger and fortunate presence of this defective bullet in the weapon enabled Shea to draw his own revolver and open fire.

Fischer's identification was completed by a comparison of his finger prints and measurements with the Bertillon record. From Dec. 10, 1912, to May 10, 1913, he was a police telephone operator at the Wyoming Street District. Recently he has been arrested several times as a suspect in robbery cases. On each occasion he told the police he was a collector and lived in the 2600 block on South Eighteenth street.

Police officials called attention to the fact that the robbery could not have been better timed to eliminate the chance of capturing the robbers, as Chief O'Brien, Chief Hannegan and many officers and detectives were attending the funeral of Sergt. James King, killed by highwaymen, and were in Calvary Cemetery when the robbery occurred. This caused delay in getting information to those officers who might have directed the chase after the robbers.

Shea Taken to Hospital.

Shea has been in the Police Department since last February. He is 34 years old, single, and resides with his parents at the Hebert street address. He is a son of John Shea, a veteran policeman, formerly of the Central and North Market Street Police Districts, who retired from the department several years ago on account of age. Prior to joining the Police Department as a probationary the younger Shea was a shoeworker.

After the arrival of other policemen at the scene of the holdup an effort was made to take Shea to a hospital, but he refused and insisted on being taken home so that he could explain the affair in person to his parents, who, he said, might become unduly alarmed as to his condition.

At 1 p. m., however, he was prevailed upon to go to St. John's Hospital for treatment.

When Police Commissioner Giraldin was informed of Shea's exploit in killing the lookout, he said: "Well, he won't be a probationary very long." This was taken at police headquarters as an indication that a promotion for Shea to the rank of patrolman might be announced at next Friday's board meeting.

Praised by Chiefs.

Chief of Detectives Hannegan, after learning of Shea's act, said:

"That's the kind of men I need in my department, the kind that are on the job always. I'll make a place for him if he wants to join the detective bureau."

"Shea can have any beat in the department," said Chief O'Brien. "He has proven his merit."

The crime of which Fischer was convicted was the robbery of a St. Paul (Minn.) man with whom he had struck up an acquaintance in a saloon, after which he held him up at Twenty-second and Wash streets, taking $40 and a check for $200. He frequently hung around "Spot" Regan's saloon on Market street, opposite the city hall, police say, and when questioned always said he was working for Martin Hyland, a commission man and a Democratic politician.

Fischer's Record.

Gov. Gardner restored Fischer to citizenship May 22 last, on recommendation of J. Kelly Pool, member of the Prison Board, who said that Fischer had "made a splendid record in France." Pool said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that Fischer was decorated for her ism, after being gassed. He gave no other particulars.

Fischer was paroled to James Baggot of 1432 North Garrison avenue. He tried to enlist in the army at Jefferson City, immediately after his release, but was rejected because of his criminal record. He went to Texas and enlisted there, Pool said.

Among those who recommended his parole were Assistant Circuit Attorney Reeder, who prosecuted Fischer and who wrote that he considered the sentence severe; George B. Ahrens, Louis J. Fillo, P. J. Kelleher, George Diebling and Oscar Franz.

Other Signers.

Mrs. Anna Crane, who wrote in the capacity of the "Woman's League of St. Louis," said Fischer had been a member of the League for two years, and was "active in its work," which she did not describe.

A number of residents of St. Louis and St. Louis County signed recommendations for Fischer's restoration to citizenship. Among them were William H. Short, 761 Westgate avenue; H. G. Hartman, 900 North Fourth street; Thomas J. Collins, 410 Morgan street; B. F. Dunnagan, 5967 Cates avenue, and Manley G. Richmond of Clayton.

Former Postoffice Employe.

At the time of his conviction, Fischer was employed as a clerk at the postoffice, and worked up to 9 o'clock on the night of the robbery, which occurred at 1:30 a. m. Assistant Circuit Attorney Reeder said Fischer was a first offender. Fischer tried to establish an alibi, but the jury rejected it. The five-year sentence was the minimum penalty which could be given him under the charge, that of first degree robbery.

Two suspects were arrested at Eleventh and Penrose streets about 15 minutes after the robbery. One is said to be a police character. They were taken to the Angelica street police station where they refused to make statements.

New York World Proposes Hoover for President Regardless of His Politics

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

HOOVER FOR PRESIDENT.

In the judgment of the World the best equipped and best qualified man to succeed Woodrow Wilson as President of the United States is Herbert C. Hoover.

We should be glad to support Mr. Hoover as the Democratic candidate for President on a platform that represented the historical principles of the Democratic party. We should be glad to support him as an independent candidate on a platform of progressive liberalism. We should not hesitate to support him as the Republican candidate on a platform representing the kind of government which Mr. Hoover has exemplified in his public career.

Among the Democratic politicians the chief objection to Mr. Hoover is that he has been successively a Republican and a Progressive, but has never affiliated with the Democratic organization, although he was appointed to office by President Wilson and was the most distinguished of all the President's lieutenants during the war.

Among Republican politicians the chief objection to Mr. Hoover is that he never was an organization Republican and that in the fall of 1918 he had the independence and courage to urge the election of a Congress that would work harmoniously with President Wilson. If the country had followed Mr. Hoover's wise and practical advice it would not today be the victim of a deadlocked government which is virtually unable to function.

Battle a Fictitious Conflict.

The partisan objections to Mr. Hoover are arguments in his favor. The American people are tired of professional politicians and disgusted with party politics. The old party lines have broken down so far as the rank and file of voters are concerned, and in respect to principles both parties are bankrupt. Although the spirit of partisanship has rarely been more bitter or more brutal, and never since secession has it been more inimical to the welfare of the country, the battle of these warring politicians is a fictitious conflict.

Mr. Taft was Mr. Wilson's opponent for the presidency in 1912; yet in so far as fundamental questions of government are concerned it would be difficult to detect any important differences between Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson. Mr. Hughes was Mr. Wilson's opponent in 1916 and it would be equally difficult to detect any important differences between Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wilson. They might disagree about this policy or that policy, but in so far as their public utterances of the last three years are an index to their political principles, these differences would be personal rather than partisan in any true sense.

And if one wished to carry the parallel further he might well ask what there is to distinguish a Democrat like Attorney-General Palmer from a Republican like Speaker Sweet of the New York Assembly. Both of them have set forth to establish a new doctrine of Prussianism which is a veritable crucifixion of the spirit of American institutions.

Abraham Lincoln declared in his first inaugural that—

"This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it."

The Palmers and the Sweets are seeking to set up a wholly opposite theory, which is that the Government no longer belongs to the people, but that the people belong to the Government, and have acquired a subject status under which their most elementary rights and liberties can be denied whenever the Government itself undertakes to regard those rights and liberties as seditious or inimical.

Party Labels Established.

It is needless to say that when Democrats and Republicans can unite in the advocacy of such a construction of the powers of government under free institutions and when Democrats and Republicans can unite in resisting such an invasion of American traditions, party lines have become artificial and party adherence has degenerated into a mere matter of prejudice, habit, self-interest and cynicism.

This is not a year for partisan candidates in any sense in which that term has been previously employed in politics. Party labels there must be, because party label has been established by law; but when the Republican National Committee is forced to offer a prize for a platform, it is ridiculous to pretend that there is anything which resembles a genuine cleavage of public opinion along party lines on the questions that confront the country. What is going on is merely the maneuvering of ambitious politicians, who are waiting to see which issues are expedient and which are not.

Although the two parties are destitute of principle, they still retain some of their former characteristics, and Mr. Hoover combines the best of these characteristics in both parties. The Republicans boast, and not without reason (if the record of the Sixty-sixth Congress can be ignored for the time being) that they represent efficiency in the administration of government. Mr. Hoover has proved himself one of the greatest administrators of all time. His achievements are among the miracles of the war, and when Europe speaks of efficiency it no longer speaks of it in terms of Germany, but in terms of Hoover.

If the Democrats cannot successfully challenge the Republican claim to superior administrative ability, they can honestly claim that except for the brief period when the party organization had become a chattel of the slaveholding oligarchy, the Democratic party has been the great champion of individual rights and of the liberties of the people. It is essentially the party of the Bill of Rights and of the Constitutional guarantees of freedom, the uncompromising assertion of which was never more needed than it is today.

Party of Common People.

In spite of the Southern prohibitionists and the reactionary practices of Attorney-General Palmer and Postmaster-General Burleson, the individual Democrat who is a Democrat on principle, has not lost these characteristics. The instincts of the great mass of Democracy still tend to keep it a party of the common people, not in the sense of the demagogue, but in the sense of Thomas Jefferson. They are struggling whenever the opportunity offers and a free play of democratic sentiment is permitted by party organization, against those centralizing tendencies that are turning the Government of the United States into an autocracy of bureaucrats.

If Mr. Hoover is a Republican in respect to administrative capacity, he is a Democrat in respect to decentralization and human rights.

The argument for his nomination does not stop here. One of the great organs of British Liberalism, the London Nation, recently declared that Mr. Hoover was the ablest man that the war had produced. Of the men who were without high reputation when the conflict began there can be no question that he is the most commanding figure that emerged out of this welter of the nations. Such ability is not to be held lightly at a time like this. The American people are going to need it and need it badly.

Most of the candidates who have thus far announced themselves, Democrats and Republicans alike, estimable gentlemen though they may be, are so inadequate, in view of the issues that the next President must meet, that their aspirations are little short of ridiculous. Men who have no conception whatever of what is going on in the world and no understanding of the problems that must be met are boldly offering themselves for an office for which even the best mind and the strongest talents are hardly adequate.

Of all the men whose names have been mentioned, the World believes that Mr. Hoover alone measures up to the presidency in the fullest sense.

"Blood Impoverished."

It is not a happy state of affairs in which the American people find themselves, but it is an inevitable state of affairs in view of the political practices which they have tolerated during the last 20 years. They allowed Mr. Bryan to club every Democrat into submission who was not at heart a Populist and they allowed Mr. Roosevelt to put the Wall Street brand on every Republican who would not meekly indorse "my policies." The result of it is that the blood of both of the political parties has been impoverished, and in the course of the contests between the right wings and left wings of both organizations, men of ability who might well have aspired to a political career have sought some other means of service.

Woodrow Wilson, of course, was a political accident. He obtained the Democratic nomination in consequence of the bitter conflict between the Bryan Democrats and the Ryan Democrats, and slipped into the White House because Theodore Roosevelt was determined to destroy William Howard Taft for the offense of insubordination. He has maintained himself not because of the love and affection in which he is held by the politicians of the Democratic party, but by the sheer power of the most penetrating and dominant intellect ever known in the White House. When a venomous partisanship that could not deal with him on a plane of mental equality succeeded in breaking him down, nervously and physically, the American people suddenly discovered that they were without leadership and that their Government had ceased to operate.

Unless his successor is equally capable of achieving the leadership of the country by force of ability, character and conviction there will be no leadership and throughout the period of reconstruction we shall have nothing better than an imitation Government manipulated by the managing politicians of the party that happens to carry the elections.

The fundamental rights and liberties of the American people are menaced today as they have never been menaced before. On the one hand radicalism is pushing its theories to the very verge of anarchy, and on the other hand conservatism has joined hands with Bourbonism to destroy liberty in order to maintain the extreme individualistic theory of property rights. Between these two greedy groups of fools and fanatics, there is a great middle ground which is held by the vast majority of Americans and which they will continue to hold under competent leadership, but competent leadership there must be, and no man better embodies it than Herbert C. Hoover.

Has Worked With Hands.

He has worked with his hands and he knows from personal experience the point of view of the man who works with his hands. He has been a director of labor in great enterprises and he knows from personal experience the responsibilities and difficulties of the director of labor. He knows the economic condition of the world better, perhaps, than any other American, and economic understanding is now a vital element in Government. He knows the diplomacy and the politics of Europe as few Americans have ever known them. Moreover, he knows them at first hand, as he knows conditions in the Far East at first hand, and such a knowledge has become essential to any intelligent direction of the foreign affairs of the United States.

Those Americans who want a business man for President can find him in Mr. Hoover, who has brilliantly managed one of the most successful business undertakings known to history. Those who want a progressive in the White House will find in him an instinctively democratic progressive. Those who want administrative ability will find in him administrative ability of the highest order which has proved itself on three continents. Those who want an unyielding champion of human rights and a responsible Government under law will find in him a candidate about whom they need have no misgivings.

Presidency Varying Office.

The presidency of the United States is a varying office. Its constitutional qualifications are fixed and rigidly defined, but its other qualifications change with circumstances. After this war it can never again be safely made a refuge for a parochial politician of negative character who owes his nomination to the fact that the managing politicians of his party think well of him as a dispenser of patronage and that so far as the rest of the country is concerned, there is nothing to be said against him.

In point of ability, in point of experience, in point of capacity to deal comprehensively with the new problems of reconstruction, Mr. Hoover towers above all the candidates who have been brought into the contest. There are no arguments against him except the arguments that are spawned out of the stagnant waters of professional politics. For itself, The World does not care whether Mr. Hoover calls himself a Democrat or a Republican or a Progressive or an Independent. He is the kind of man that ought to be President of the United States, and he is the man The World intends to support for President of the United States regardless of all the artificial barriers of a debased and discredited partisanship.

66 NEW INFLUENZA CASES HERE IN 24 HOURS UP TO 10 A.M

Some at City Hospital Said to Be of More Serious Nature, but None Is in Critical Condition.

Sixty-six new cases of influenza were reported here for the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m. today. This is the largest number reported for one day this year, but is not comparable to the number this time last year. Nineteen patients were taken to the city hospital during the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today.

Since Oct. 1, 182 influenza cases have been reported by physicians and 13 deaths have resulted. During the corresponding period a year ago 32,244 cases were reported, and 2098 deaths resulted.

Anybody can get a free injection of serum that is a preventive against influenza, pneumonia and catarrh by going to room 25 Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets.

More Serious Cases.

Physicians at the city hospital said that some of the recent cases are more serious than those received Monday and Tuesday, but none of the patients is in critical condition.

To make room for the influenza patients it has been necessary to partition off and quarantine parts of certain wards. Of the 34 patients under treatment, 20 are men, eight are women and six are children.

Because of lack of room it was necessary to take five men suffering from other diseases out of one of the wards and temporarily place their cots in a corridor.

Dr. Rolla Henry, manager of the hospital, today said that to meet a possible emergency he would ask for 100 additional beds, though he does not believe influenza has become epidemic in St. Louis.

Six Ill in One House.

Mrs. Martha Mathews, a widow, 43 years old, and her three children, August, 14; Edward, 10 and Insee, 8, and Mrs. Naomi Alloway and her daughter, Marie, 8 years old, were taken from their home at 1121 Tower Grove avenue to the city hospital last night after all but Mrs. Mathews were said to have been found suffering from influenza. Mrs. Mathews, doctors said, had bronchitis and was threatened with influenza.

Loretta Stanley, 29, of 3107 Washington avenue, a prisoner in the Matron's quarters at Central District, was taken to the city hospital, said to be suffering from influenza. She had been arrested earlier in the day in a downtown department store.

Dr. E. E. Brown and Dr. N. Dykstra of the city hospital staff had symptoms of incipient influenza today and were confined to their rooms.

6000 IN CHICAGO HAVE INFLUENZA; 35 DIE IN 24 HOURS

Pneumonia Deaths Reach 47 in That Period — New Cases Show Decrease From Yesterday's Record.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Predictions of Health Commissioner Robertson that the influenza epidemic had reached its peak yesterday were borne out today when the number of new cases reported showed a slight decrease.

The death toll during the last 24 hours, however, was the heaviest since the disease assumed epidemic proportions. Thirty-five influenza deaths and 47 from pneumonia were recorded.

New cases of influenza during the last 24 hours numbered 1725 as compared to 2514 during the previous 24 hour period.

More than 6000 persons in Chicago are ill with influenza, figures show, and reports were the contagion has appeared in cities and towns throughout the Middle west. Pneumonia also is reported epidemic, and proportionately has caused a larger number of deaths. Influenza continues to appear in a mild form, and the death rate is low.

A shortage of trained nurses has handicapped the efforts of the Chicago health officials to control the influenza situation. During the last 24 hours new cases were reported at the rate of 50 an hour. Of these 300 could not be given even temporary supervision by trained nurses. Fifteen hundred additional nurses are urgently needed at once, the Health Commissioner announced.

Reports to Illinois State health officers indicated the epidemic was subsiding at Camp Grant, where only two deaths occurred in the last 24 hours. At Rockford there were 1800 cases, but only one person had died. At Great Lakes Naval Training Station a total of 886 cases and seven deaths were reported. At Fort Sheridan 132 cases were reported and there had been no deaths.

Mild Form Reported.

Wherever the malady has appeared in Middle West cities and towns it invariably has been in a mild form and the death rate proportionately has been far below that of last winter's epidemic. Health authorities of all towns suffering from the epidemic report the situation well in hand.

Presence of grip germs in a number of influenza cases examined here by Dr. E. O. Jordan of the University of Chicago was reported by Dr. Roberston.

"The known effect of the grip germ would bring about just such an epidemic as we are having now," Dr. Roberston said. "It causes a much milder illness than the influenza."

Eight Influenza Deaths at Auto School in Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 21.—Health officials today stated there was no occasion for alarm in connection with a recurrence of influenza here. Twenty-two cases of the disease and eight deaths were reported yesterday. It was announced that every precaution was being taken to keep the malady localized at an automobile school, where all of those who died yesterday were students.

48,232 STUDENTS VOTED FOR UNQUALIFIED RATIFICATION

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, administration leader in the treaty fight, called the Senate's attention again today to results of the intercollegiate vote on treaty questions. He said that of the 158,000 votes cast, less than one-tenth were in opposition to ratification and that less than one-fifth were in favor of the Lodge reservations.

The final returns as received by Hitchcock were said by him to be more complete than those previously published, including results from eight additional colleges. The returns as placed by him in the Congressional Record follows:

For unqualified ratification, 48,232.

Against ratification, 13,933.

For Lodge reservations, 27,976.

For compromise reservations, 61,494.

For Knox plan, 6449.

RUSSIAN SOVIET IS DEFENDED AT THE SOCIALIST HEARING

the same with respect to Egypt and India. Do you believe it a crime to stand for Irish independence?

Stedman declared that, if a great, powerful country in Europe and Asia, meaning Soviet Russia, and the United States reach friendly relations in the next few months, "it will have to be attributed to work done by men such as are here with me today."

Referring to assertions that the Socialistic party was a "secret organization," he declared that it was quite otherwise and more open than the other parties.

In answering Stedman Littleton declared that the defendants were not charged with being "political philosophers" but with being "citizens not of the country which maintains them, but citizens of an invisible empire which projects itself as a revolutionary force into other countries and menaces their institutions.

"An Invisible Empire."

"It is to that alien State that the charges say these men belong," continued Littleton. "It is not a Geographical State, it is not bounded by oceans, seas or territories. It is an 'invisible empire' using sometimes the pretence of persuasion, at others the threat of revolution."

Asserting that it was to this "empire" the Socialists had pledged allegiance before entering the assembly, Littleton added that its voice was heard in churches, public forums and even in the assembly. Challenged on the word "revolution," he said its "citizens" asserted that they merely meant by it changes to be brought about by persuasion and argument.

Motion for dismissal of the proceedings was denied, as motions challenging the committee's fitness, or that of certain members, to serve as judges had been.

Gilbert E. Roe, associate counsel for the defense, moved that the quintet be reseated during the investigation. Chairman Martin announced the motion to reseat the defendants pending trial had been denied.

"Could Have Suspended Fifty."

Continuing, Roe said: "Constitutional Government cannot survive, representative Government cannot survive, if the power of suspension is to be exercised as it was exercised in this chamber on the seventh of this month. Of course, it was only five Socialists who were suspended, but you could just as well have suspended 50 members, you could just as easily have suspended any minority."

He argued that examination of the Smoot, LaFollette and Newberry cases in the United States Senate showed it never even had been suggested that the members under investigation should be suspended.

"The power exercised in this House on the seventh of this month," he continued, "was a revolutionary power, an unconstitutional power. It was the exercise of a power that would destroy representative Government in your State."

Will Be Tainted Judgment.

Roe declared that any judgment which the committee might make "will be a tainted judgment—tainted with the illegality of the original proceedings which will not be accepted by the people."

Announcing he was seeking the "origin of the mistake," Roe declared it was not true, as Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet was quoted as saying, that the five Socialists could appear "to prove their rights" to their seats. It is a fundamental principle, he added, that men are presumed innocent until proved guilty, and the burden of proof in this case does not rest with the ousted members.

John B. Stanchfield, associate counsel for the committee, followed Roe. He asserted that, with an investigation in progress into the loyalty of members, it would be beneath the dignity of the Lower House to let the five Socialists retain their seats pending the trial. He declared committee counsel would prove that the charges against the defendants were true—that they were members of a party whose doctrines threatened "the utter and complete annihilation of the power of the State."

Assembly Told Ouster of Socialists Will "Let Loose Revolution."

Morris Hillquit, chief counsel for the suspended Assemblymen, declared yesterday at the opening of the trial, that if the Assembly permanently ousted the defendants, the act "will leave loose the violent revolution which we Socialists have always endeavored, and are endeavoring, to stem.

He added this "one word of solemn warning," after asserting that the Romanoffs and all instruments of oppression in Russia had been destroyed after the Government had tried to outlaw the Socialist movement, and that "we are not afraid of suppression at the time one-half of

ALLIED COUNCIL LEAVES ADRIATIC ISSUE OPEN

Disbands Without a Settlement —Nitti Gives Jugo-Slavs Hours to Accept Italy's Offer.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The supreme council disbanded last night without settling the Adriatic question, Signor Nitti, the Italian Premier, left afterward for Rome and David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, will depart for England this morning. M. Clemenceau indicated last night that he would turn over the affairs of the council tomorrow.

Premier Nitti of Italy, after the council disbanded, declared he stood by his ultimatum that if the Jugo-Slavs did not accept Italy's terms last night he would withdraw his compromise offer and that Italy will demand that France and Great Britain execute purely and simply the treaty of London of April, 1915.

Prior to the breaking up of the council, the Jugo-Slav reply to Italy's demands had been presented. Signor Nitti declared the terms unacceptable. The Jugo-Slav note said it constituted "the supreme effort" of Jugo-Slavia to bring about an agreement with Italy. This fact, taken in connection with Premier Nitti's statement apparently leaves the situation a tense one. The Jugo-Slavs offered to accept internationalization under the league of nations for Fiume and Zara, concede to Italy the Islands of Lussin and Pelagoza and agree to the demilitarization of the Adriatic Islands with the condition that the Islands of Lissa remain Jugo-Slav.

The right of the Italians in Calmatia to choose Italian nationality without leaving Jugo-Slavia is recognized by the Jugo-Slavs, who also agree that Italian national rights in Dalamatian industries shall be guaranteed by an international convention. They refuse to make any alteration of the line drawn by President Wilson. The note says that desire of the Albanians for independence will be respected, but if necessary the Jugo-Slavs will accept all the proposals.

the world is under Socialist control."

The "warning" was later interpreted by Martin W. Littleton, associate counsel for the committee, as "a warning to the country, a threat to the committee and an admonishment to the Assembly, that they do not dare deal with the gentlemen he represents unless they wish to invite revolution to this country."

Hillquit denied that his remarks were intended as a "threat," and said instead he had "made a sort of love offer," and "we Socialists are ready to see the thing through in a constitutional manner and by peaceful methods."

"I was merely imploring you to be as good and peace loving as we Socialists are," he said, "and not to be high-handed in your procedure. That was an entreaty and it was intended to be."

SENATE ASKED TO CONDEMN SIMS FOR REVELATIONS

Resolution by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Censures Admiral for Telling of Instructions About British.

LODGE PREVENTS ITS CONSIDERATION

Major-General Barnett, Commander of Marines, Disagrees With Sims as to Need for Medals Policy.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—A resolution declaring that the action of Rear-Admiral Sims in making public "official instructions of the most confidential character," affecting international relations deserved the condemnation of all Americans, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, a member of the Naval Committee. His request for immediate consideration was denied on objection of Republican leader Lodge.

The resolution quoted from the letter read by Admiral Sims last Saturday before the Senate committee investigating naval decorations, in which the Admiral said that before he left the United States for Europe in March, 1917, he was told by a high naval officer not to "let the British pull the wool over your eyes; it is none of our business pulling their chestnuts out of the fire; we would as soon fight the British as the Germans." Admiral Sims must have, and did, consider these instructions, if they ever were given, to be of the most highly confidential character, the resolution said, adding that his action in making them public deserved universal and unqualified disapproval.

Must Receive Disapproval.

"I cannot but believe that whether the above admonition was or was not given to Admiral Sims the disclosure under almost any circumstances must receive the disapproval of every American," said Senator Walsh.

Senator McCormick, Republican, Illinois, declared the resolution affected a matter that was to be later investigated by a subcommittee, and Senator Lodge objected to consideration of the resolution on the ground that it contained grave charges against one of the most prominent officers in the American navy, without giving him an opportunity to defend himself.

Before the subcommittee investigating the award of navy war decorations, Major-General Barnett, commandant of the Marine Corps, took issue with previous statements by Admiral Sims to the committee that the controversy had arisen because Secretary Daniels had not promulgated a well defined policy to govern awards.

There was "no need for a policy promulgated by the secretary regarding medal awards," he said, because the law authorizing the decorations was sufficiently explicit to guide commanding officers in submitting their recommendations. His own recommendations as to marine officers who served in the United States were not followed in the majority of cases, Gen. Barnett said, and he had expressed regret to Daniels who told him "that the line had to be drawn somewhere if the value of the medals were not to be depreciated."

Renewed his Recommendations.

Gen. Barnett has renewed his recommendations for reconsideration by the Knight Board, he said.

Every marine who served in the northern aerial bombing group who was recommended for a D. S. M., by him, received the award, Gen. Barnett told the committee, while only two or three of the marines recommended for their service on this side were approved by the board and the secretary.

"I made my recommendations so conservative that anyone who received one of the medals on my recommendation could feel he got something worth while," Gen. Barnett said.

"I do not feel that the Knight Board should have consulted me before changing my recommendations."

Rear Admiral A. W. Grant, who commanded the battleship force No. 1, of the Atlantic fleet during the war, told of the fate of his medal recommendatitons, most of which, he said, were disapproved by Secretary Daniels.

The Senate probably will act today on a resolution introduced by Chairman Hale of the subcommittee, authorizing the employment of counsel and a clerical force to aid in the investigation, final action on which was prevented yesterday by lack of a quorum.

Charges Broaden Investigation.

During discussion on the resolution, Senator Lodge declared the charges made by Rear Admiral Sims, who precipitated the controversy by declining to accept a Distinguished Service Medal, had made the investigation virtually an inquiry into the conduct of the war by the navy.

Rear Admiral Mayo, commander of the United States fleet during the war, completed his testimony yesterday before the committee. He disagreed with Rear Admiral Sims in two of the leading points involved. Admiral Mayo declared he did not believe sufficient credit had been given to officers who served at sea during the war and that in cases where commanding officers of ships sunk by submarines or mines had rendered meritorious service proper awards should be given.

Miss Zoe Akins, Here, Says She Is Writing New Play

MISS ZOE AKINS.

Author of "Declassee" States She Is "Talking It" to Her Friends, and Later Will Write It Down.

Miss Zoe Akins, playwright and poet, whose play, "Declassee," is one of the chief successes of the present New York stage season, is at the home of her parents, former Postmaster and Mrs. T. J. Akins, 4918 Washington boulevard, for a two days' visit, after more than two years' absence from St. Louis.

Amy Lowell for President, on a free verse platform, is the latest idea that has emanated from New York's literary and artistic community, Miss Akins reports. She further declares that reports of gloom, and of the paling of White Way lights, because of prohibition, are unfounded.

"Everybody seems to have stocked up for 10 years, and to be trying to drink it up in 10 weeks," she remarked. "The gloom will come later, perhaps. It was amusing to hear the envious comments that were made in New York on the reports, printed there, that St. Louis was to have a wet New Year's eve.

Comment in New York.

"Did you know?" she continued to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "that Gov. Gardner of Missouri became quite a hero in New York, by putting men to work in the coal mines in this State? People from St. Louis have told me that his action did no particular good to St. Louis, as its coal comes from Illinois, but what the New York people saw was that the Governor of Missouri actually got the mines opened, while other states were talking about it."

Miss Akins, when asked how soon St. Louis would see her play, in which Ethel Barrymore is starring, replied that she hoped St. Louis, and all the rest of the country, would have to wait a considerable time yet for it.

"You can't blame me for hoping that it will stay on Broadway, when it is doing so nicely there," she said. "And I don't want it to be sent here without Miss Barrymore, and without the splendid company that is with her in the production now.

Discusses Road Shows.

"It is sometimes said, as an excuse for sending cheap casts out on the road, that the members of original New York casts will not go on the road as long as they can get engagements in New York. They will go on the road if they are paid to. In the cast of 'Declassee' is one young man, who speaks three lines, and who gets $100 a week. Some managers think $100 a week is enough to pay the leading man in a road show. Since I have been somewhat on the inside in theatrical matters, I have seen Broadway successes turned into road failures in that way. Then those very managers talk of lack of dramatic appreciation in the cities whose people refuse to pay for that sort of thing.

"I can't be very stuck up about the success of my play," Miss Akins continued, "because I realize that the acting of Miss Barrymore, and her reputation, have had a very large part in it.

Writing Another Play.

"I am writing another play, in the way that I write plays, by talking them over with my friends, until the friends have heard quite enough about them, and then I put them down, and don't rewrite them. The playwright who has to have his work made over to suit a star, or to build up one part at the expense of another, or to satisfy a manager who doesn't think the motive is just right, does not have a very happy time. I suppose it is worth while to get plays accepted, even in that manner, as it gives one a start, but I am glad that my play was not rewritten.

"I have no doubt, though, that my next play, very likely my next two or three plays, will be failures. If not, I shall be quite willing to give the credit to the very lively demand for plays, and the very flourishing state of the theater business in New York at this time.

"Before I had sold 'Declassee,' I accepted an offer of $1500 for the moving picture rights to a short story entitled 'Two Starcrossed Lovers,' which I think is the best story I have written. It seemed like picking up money then. Now it does not seem so much."

Connection with Stage.

Miss Akins' first connection with the stage was in her appearance as a member of a stock company which played in the Odeon for a few weeks, in the season following the World's Fair of 1904. She was then a recent graduate of a girls' school, and her father was chairman of the Republican State Committee and United States Sub-treasurer here.

Only a few seasons ago, Miss Akins produced short plays of her own, and of other authors, on an improvised stage in a West End cafe. She wrote "Papa," which was produced unsuccessfully in New York, but was played with success in Los Angeles. "The Magical City," a later New York production, was artistically successful, but did not have a long run. Miss Akins is known as a lyric poet, and a new volume of her verse is to be printed by the Century Co., she said today.

She has an apartment in New York, and has her own automobile there, having begun to visit Automobile Row as soon as the first royalties from "Declassee" came in. She still has the delight of the Western sojourner in New York, in its bus rides, its sounds and its Sound; its easily available literary and artistic folk, and its possibilities of isolation when isolation is desired; and in its facilities for enjoyment, even for those who must live cheaply. "Except," she noted, "that no one, rich or poor, can get any sort of a place to live in New York at present."

POLICE HONORS AT FUNERAL OF DETECTIVE SERGT. KING

The funeral of Detective-Sergeant James King, in charge of Detective Bureau B, who died at St. John's Hospital Sunday from wounds suffered Jan. 12 when he was shot by two highwaymen who attempted to hold him up at King's Highway and Aldine place, was held this morning with police honors from the family residence and thence to Blessed Sacrament Church.

Assistant Night Chief of Police Patrick Kirk, King's former detective partner, was in charge of the pallbearers, King's former comrades on the force, Detectives John Finan, William Aylward, William Holtman Charles Gerlach, Lieut. Frank Nally, Sergt. Thomas Hagerty and Patrolman Patrick Lynch. An honor escort of 16 detectives and policemen in charge of John M. Shea, Superintendent of Bertillon System, accompanied the body from the church to Calvary Cemetery. Chief of Police O'Brien and Chief of Detectives Hannegan attended the ceremonies.

King is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie King, and four children. Mrs. King next Friday will receive $1800 from the Police Board—a year's salary for the slain detective. She also will get $2000 from the Police Relief Association and $2000 from the Knights of Columbus, of which Detective King was a member.

TEACHERS TO GET MORE PAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Substantial increase in pay was promised to teachers in the Chicago schools yesterday by Dr. Edwin S. Davis, president of the School Board.

From 5000 to 15,000 pupils are placed in consolidated classes daily because of a shortage of teachers.

MANY IN WEST END REFUSE TO ANSWER CENSUS QUESTIONS

Fifth Floor of Buckingham Hotel Causes Enumerator Much Trouble, Doors Being Slammed in Face.

WOMAN REFUSES TO STOP BATHING DOG

Another Asks, "Were You Announced?" — Work Is Completed in More Than Half of Districts.

Supervisor of the Census Burke said today that an "astonishingly large number of St. Louisans have refused the information desired for the census, that he was preparing a list of those persons and that the United States District Attorney had assured him of full prosecution of census slackers. This offense is punishable by a fine of $100.

Burke, in previously discussing his difficulties, has said that more trouble was being experienced in the West End residential district than in the sections inhabited by persons of foreign extraction and language. Few calls for interpreters have been received, so eager has been the co-opration of this element of the population.

A Post-Dispatch reporter, accompanying enumerators in the West End yesterday, found evidence to support Burke's statements.

One of the enumerators spent the entire day at the Buckingham Hotel, King's highway and West Pine boulevard. It was her seventh visit to the hotel to obtain a correct listing of the permanent guests. All sorts of subterfuges and alibis have been given and resorted to for withholding the information desired.

One night last week the enumerator waited at this hotel until 11 o'clock to obtain the information needed concerning several families on the fifth floor, who persistently refused her admittance. Several times the doors were slammed in her face.

In one suite the woman who answered the knock at the door said, "You will have to wait until I finish bathing my dog. He always has his bath at this hour and I will not be interrupted during this time."

Another woman told the enumerator that she had no desire to be counted, saying, "It's all nonesense."

Still another said, "I really cannot be bothered. My name will be found on the list of guests in the office. Any other information you will have to supply for yourself."

Elevator Girl Waits.

An elevator girl waited after she had taken the enumerator to an upper floor. The enumerator was denied admittance and when she returned to the elevator the girl said:

"I knew I might as well wait for you. I just knew she wouldn't let you in. Why, if one of her maids happens to be in the elevator she won't ride up or down with her."

Another woman said: "I certainly shall not humiliate myself by giving this information to a person of your class. If they wish this information why did they not select someone of our own set to obtain it?"

Several persons living in the Buckingham said that they did not wish to be classed as residents of St. Louis, saying that they made their temporary home here, but that their real residence was in New York.

One of these was asked how long she had lived here. "I have been in St. Louis two years," said she, "but I am not a resident of this city."

"Did you come announced?" asked a woman in another family hotel when the enumerator was admitted by a maid. The woman was entertaining a bridge whist party.

Persons conducting boarding houses, particularly in those West End districts in which boarding houses are forbidden by city building restrictions, also are reluctant to the point of refusal to tell how many persons reside with them. This attitude is the more disastrous to a complete count of the city, because the number of persons in boarding houses often is greater than 10.

Enumerators yesterday had completed 330 of the 597 districts in the city. The check to determine how thorough their work has been now is proceeding.

$50,000 ALIENATION TRIAL BEGUN

Husband Wo Married Girl, 17, Sues Father-in-Law.

The trial of William A. Murphy's $50,000 alienation suit against his father-in-law, Henry C. Pohlman, began today in the Circuit Court. Murphy alleging that his father-in-law alienated his wife's affections. Murphy is a machinist and lives at 3507 North Eleventh street, and Pohlman, a coal inspector, lives at 3808 North Eleventh street.

Mrs. Murphy, with three young children, is living at 3826 Blair avenue. She married Murphy in 1914, when she was 17 years old and he was 22. They separated two years ago, and Murphy alleges that his wife went to live with her father. In Pohlman's answer he denied any attempt to win away his daughter's love, but said he sheltered her when she told him her husband had failed to provide for her.

NO INCREASED PAY BEFORE FALL FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS

PROPOSES REDUCING SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Proposes to Turn Over Amount Saved, With Surplus From Other Funds to Apply on Salaries.

President Jesse McDonald of the Board of Education, following a conference yesterday with Lon O. Hocker, attorney representing the Grade Teachers' Association and the High School Teachers' Association, today announced that it would be asolutely impossible for the board to grant the teachers an increase in salary during the present school year, which ends in June.

He added, however, that he believed he had found a way to grant the teachers financial relief at the beginning of the 1920-1921 school term, which begins next September. He pointed out that if his plan is adopted the teachers will have four months of higher income than they would have if they were compelled to wait until January, 1921, when the increased revenue from the higher school tax rate authorized at the election Nov. 11 becomes available.

McDonald's plan includes reduction of summer school activities, which cost an average of $120,000 a year, and the turning of monies left in other funds at the end of the present year over to the teachers' payroll account.

About $6,500,000 now is spent annually in the maintenance of schools, of which $4,500,000, or 69 per cent, is paid for teachers' salaries. Nearly $1,250,000 a year will be added to the revenue of the board by the increased school tax voted recently. How much of this increased revenue will be applied to teachers' salaries has not been determined, but it has been said that the proportion will be in keeping with the proportion of teachers' salaries to present revenue, which is 69 per cent. If this is true, then teachers will receive 69 per cent of the $1,250,000 of added revenue or $862,500, which would be approximately 19 per cent more than they now receive.

There are 2500 teachers in the St. Louis schools of whom 350 are high school teachers. The present salaries are $1400 for head assistants $1250 for first assistants, $850 for second assistants, $1450 to $2550 for principals and $1450 to $1950 for substitute principals. The greatest percentage of teachers is in the classes designated as head, first and second assistants.

The budget for next term's expenses, including the estimate of conducting summer school activities this year, will be submitted to the board by the Superintendent of Instruction and the heads of other departments of the school system in July. Last July $120,000 was appropriated for summer schools, and of that amount $119,547.40 was spent, leaving a balance in the summer school appropriation of $452.60. To what extent summer school work might be curtailed to provide additional funds for teachers' salaries has not been made known, but McDonald has incorporated suggestions regarding that subject in a statement which he submitted to the teachers' attorney.

Propose to Turn Over Surplus.

Of the total of $6,509,587.52 appropriated last July from the general fund for the maintenance of schools, $2,252,482.70 had been paid out up to Dec. 1, when the last monthly financial report was made, leaving a balance yet to be spent of $4,257,104.82.

Just how much of the appropriation will be left at the end of the present fiscal year is not known, but whatever it amounts to it is planned to turn it over to the teachers' salary account for the term beginning next September, provided McDonald's plan is adopted by the board.

Hocker will submit McDonald's proposition to the teachers at a meeting tomorrow afternoon at Central High School.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL CONTRACT IS GIVEN TO MAN IN COUNTY

Predecessor Had Trouble.

The previous purchaser of the garbage was Guy Caron, who had a hog farm near the city limits of Belleville until citizens forced him to remove it. One coal mine in the neighborhood was closed by an examiner because the air that came down the ventilating shaft was so laden with odors from the hog farm. Caron also met legal obstacles when he tried to establish a farm near East St. Louis.

Heckmann will pay 50 cents a ton for garbage delivered to his farm, or will take $1 a ton for it, and pay the freight from the foot of Chouteau avenue. Caron paid 25 cents a ton for garbage delivered to his place, and the freight cost the city $1.30 a ton.

Teachers Begin Advertising Campaign for Pay Increase

ST. LOUIS public school teachers today began their campaign of advertising, decided upon recently, in which they are seeking to impress upon the public and the Board of Education their need of immediate salary increases to meet advanced living costs. The first advertisement, published today, was an "open letter," the text of which follows:

"ST. LOUIS, Mo.

"To the Board of Education and the Citizens of St. Louis:—

"For several years past the public school teachers of St. Louis have been trying to secure a salary schedule which would give justice to the teachers, and at the same time enable St. Louis to uphold its high standard in the field of education. In spite of these efforts, the teachers' salaries have fallen far behind in the race with the cost of living. One result of this has been the loss of many valuable teachers from the school system.

"The Board of Education, while not denying the reasonableness of the teachers' requests for higher salaries, has never managed to meet them satisfactorily, usually basing its action or its refusal to act on the ground of 'insufficient funds.' However, no action to increase the school funds was taken by the board until the election of November, 1919, at which time the voters of St. Louis granted a substantial increase in the rate of taxation for school purposes.

"After the election the teachers asked for an increase in salaries. It is true that the election did not bring to the Board of Education an immediate increase in school funds, but it did give assurance that public opinion will support the board in any measure which it may adopt to meet the present serious situation by means of funds available now.

"The Board of Education states that the present salaries are inadequate, but so far it has not seen its way clear to any action in response to the latest appeal of the teachers. It has often been observed in the past that the Board has been able to find the funds which its members considered necessary or highly desirable. The teachers of St. Louis believe that the present members of the Board are equally capable of solving a difficult problem.

"The City of St. Louis cannot afford the loss of teachers which will inevitably result from delay in this matter. We consider the present situation an open challenge to the resourcefulness of the Board of Education, acting in its capacity as a servant of the people in one of the vital interests of the city.

More Sidelights on Work of Census Takers

Young Married Woman Says Her Home Is in Northwest Missouri With Her Parents, and She Is Just Boarding Here.

A young married woman in the Georgian Court apartments told a census enumerator that this was not her home, that she lived in a town in Northwest Missouri.

"But," said the enumerator, "do not you and your husband sleep here and maintain this apartment?"

"Oh, yes," replied the woman, "but my folks live elsewhere and my real home is with them. I feel that I am only boarding here."

One woman kept the enumerator standing in front of the house in a drizzling rain while she called down the answers to questions from an upstairs window. The enumerator suggested that it was difficult to write the answers under such a handicap, to which the woman answered:

"That is not my fault. If the Government does not see fit to provide you with better facilities, it is up to you to do the best you can."

There were nine in that family.

An elderly couple sent in blanks giving their residence as the Buckingham Hotel. Clerks at that hotel and the other employes say that they have never heard of this couple and cannot locate them. Nevertheless they gave their residence as the hotel and are so listed.

In the district bounded by King's highway and Newstead, Chouteau and Laclede avenues, 1400 names were obtained. This enumerator was one of the first to complete his work.

One enumerator who has been working in the district along King's highway, near Delmar, was invited to lunch eight times during her 12 days' work. On two occasions she was asked to return for dinner.

Most persons have been surprised that there are not more questions to be answered. Some apparently thought that the taking of the census was a direful ordeal and were astonished at its simplicity.

At a rooming house on Westminster place names of boarders were refused. There has been a protest against a rooming house being maintained in that district and the landlady was afraid that the enumerator was someone sent by the neighbors to obtain information.

"My husband is a teacher," said a woman on Forest Park boulevard.

"What does he teach?" asked the enumerator.

"He is an educator of animals," replied the woman, "teaches parrots to talk, dogs to perform tricks and so on."

A minister's wife forced an enumerator on King's highway to show her credentials before admitting her to the house.

"I am taking no chances," said she, "with all these reports of robberies and burglaries."

Spectators Shiver in Overcoats While Students Parade on Campus, Paying Homage to Patron Saint.

Forty men students of the Washington University architectural school, clad in the filmiest of gauze, today paid homage before the towers of University Hall to their patron saint, Queen Fatima, while undergraduate observers shivered in their overcoats.

The ceremony, observed annually, opened with a parade in which the queen, impersonated by Dan Carroll, was carried on her palanquin through the quadrangle. She was highly rouged. Alfred Norrish, the high priest, and Jerry Wolf, as King Omar, Fatima's consort, were in charge of the rites.

While a "Turkish Jazz Band" of violins and tin cans played, Saint Fatima, inspired by her consort's kiss, prayed to Allah in the tower. He promised a shock to the faculty, in grading examinations. The schools of the University were represented by students in track suits carrying saws, teeth, near beer and dice to caricature their characteristics. "The Spirit of Fatima," a barrel labeled "Dina-Might," exploded when tapped by thirsty architects.

BLIND MAN, 77, KILLED BY FALL

COMMISSION VOTES FOR METHODIST UNIFICATION

General Conferences Now Will Act on Proposal Outlined at Louisville Conference.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—Merger of the Northern and Southern branches under a new constitution and assuming the name of the Methodist church was agreed on by the commission of unification of the Methodist Episcopal churches in joint session here last night. The recommendation, if adopted by the general conferences, would eliminate the breach which came about nearly 75 years ago over the slavery question and which has kept the approximately 6,000,000 members of the Northern and Southern churches at differentials.

Included among the recommendations of the joint commission was a proposal that the reunited church have a supreme general council of 800 members chosen from the seven regional conferences. Six of the regional bodies would have approximately 1,000,000 members each, while the seventh would comprise the negro membership of 303,000. In three of these conferences the northern branch would predominate and Southern congregations would control three others.

The Northern church will vote on the merger next May, it was said, and if the merger is approved, the Southern church will call a special session to act on the proposal.

LOUISIANA DEMOCRATS NAME JOHN M. PARKER FOR GOVERNOR

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21.—John M. Parker of New Orleans, on the face of incomplete returns, was nominated for Governor of Louisiana at the regular Democratic primary yesterday by a majority estimated at from 5000 to 10,000. He was Progressive candidate for Vice President in 1916.

Supporters of Col. Frank P. Stubbs, opposing candidate, today conceded the nomination, which is equivalent to election. Hewitt Bouanchaud of Pointe Coupe Parish, apparently received the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

Parker's candidacy was based mainly on a fight to destroy the political organization in New Orleans headed by Mayor Martin Behrman, now serving his third term. Parker cut the organization's majority to 3728 in New Orleans.

Four years ago, when he opposed Pleasant, Parker was defeated by 14,000 in this city. One of Parker's first moves will be to have the Legislature pass a law making it unlawful for a Mayor to succeed himself in New Orleans. This would eliminate Behrman from running for a fourth term in September. Woman suffrage also entered into the campaign, Parker promising women the vote and Stubbs refusing to commit himself. The regular Democrats also claimed that Parker was a Republican at heart. Parker denied this.

MRS. JULIUS FLEISCHMANN GETS DIVORCE AND $25,000

Mentions Another Woman in Testimony—$2,000,000 Reported Settled on Her.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Lily Fleischmann today obtained a divorce from Julius Fleischmann of New York, former Mayor of Cincinnati, in the Court of Domestic Relations.

Fleischmann did not contest the suit, only two witnesses besides the plaintiff testifying relative to allegations of neglect and statutory cruelty. In her testimony Mrs. Fleischmann referred to a "Mrs. Hemingway." Mrs. Fleischmann obtained $25,000 a year alimony and the summer home in New London, Conn. The reported settlement of $2,000,000 on his former wife by Fleischmann was not announced in court.

SIMS DEFENDS ATTACK ON NAVY'S OPERATION

Admiral Says Officer Who Won't Criticise When Needed "Isn't Worth His Pay."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Justifying his recent criticisms of the Navy Department, both in the matter of the award of honor medals and the manner in which operations were directed from this side of the ocean while he was on active service on the other side, Rear Admiral William S. Sims, speaking at an Army and Navy Club dinner at the Waldorf-Astor last night, declared that any officer who did not offer criticisms of his branch of the service when he felt such criticisms were for the benefit of the nations, "is not worth the pay the Government gives him, and is not worth the powder to blow him to hell!"

Admiral Sims stood pat on his action, and declared that his letters to Secretary Daniels were in the line of his duty as he saw it. The regulations provide, he asserted, that both army and navy officers should criticise things that are wrong—although, of course, they should not publish these criticisms.

Officers Cheer Speech.

Admiral Sims' speech, which was punctuated with cheers from 500 officers of both land and sea forces (the dinner was in honor of the flag and general officers of New York and vicinity) was not very long, but it had a "punch" in nearly every paragraph.

"I am somewhat embarrassed by the title bestowed upon me by a clever correspondent," he began, "who said I was the 'most prominent British Admiral in the American navy.' Another correspondent just now asked me for the manuscript of my speech. I never wrote a speech—and that's been my trouble.

"But I usually know what I want to say, and somehow manage to say it. If I get away with this speech tonight I shall be much pleased. I think I know what is in your minds. You'd like me to tell you what is the matter with the navy.

"There are two separate and distinct rows on at the present time. One is a difference of opinion concerning the award of medals. The impression has been that in this I was the aggressor. That is not so. The fact is that I saw the trouble coming a long way off, and did everything I could to avert it. There is nothing in my letters, which you probably have seen, that had not been previously presented in official and unofficial correspondence.

Denies Insubordination.

"I want to correct the impression that there has been an act of insubordination on my part. There has been nothing of the kind. The regulations of the navy provide that any officer who thinks he can helpfully criticise the department is in duty bound to do so. The same holds good of the army. Of course, it would not be proper under our regulations to publish such criticisms of the departments without permission.

"The Secretary of the Navy himself recently issued an order requesting criticisms on the lessons of the war. Some officers, because of their especial duties, were better informed on such matters than others.

"In cases where errors were committed that were not followed by disastrous consequences, though they might have been with altered circumstances, it is the duty of an officer to comment upon them, though it may interfere with his personal comfort. If you have ever been before a Senate investigating committee you will know what I mean. An officer has to consider what will be the benefit of his criticism if he has future trouble—and contrast this with the benefit it will be to the nation and the first defense of the nation, the navy.

"If, after revolving these things in his mind he decides in favor of his personal comfort and does not criticize, then I say he is not worth the pay the Government gives him and not worth the powder to blow him to hell!"

Cheers greeted this utterance, the diners all standing and waving their napkins. The Admiral's next few remarks brought a howl of laughter.

Medals "Almost Valueless."

"As to the first of the so-called rows—concerning the medals—that doesn't amount to much. The marked and acrimonious differences of opinion expressed has made these medals almost valueless now. No navy officer wants his grandchildren coming to him in future years, lifting up the medal from his old breast and asking: 'Granddaddy, what ship did you lose during the great war?'"

This, of course, referred to the award of D. S. M. to Commanders whose ships had been sunk by the enemy—an act which Admiral Sims strongly opposed.

"As to the second row," the Admiral went on, "I want to make it clear that everything in connection with my letter was perfectly proper and in accord with the regulations. No one saw it save the recipient and those to whom he chose to show it, and my personal staff—which includes my wife. There was no 'pipe line from Newport.'

"I want to emphasize that there was nothing in it of a personal nature in the way of criticism. The criticism was directed at the navy department, because I believe that certain administrative features were not in accordance with the proper principles of warfare. I don't know who was at fault—that was none of my business. But there were faults.

"The public had felt a great pride in what the navy did and that pride is amply justified. The navy itself—take it from me—is sound to the core. The differences of opinion were administrative, not operative.

"The words I have recently heard—'there's another Sampson-Schley controversy coming'—are not justified. There never was a Sampson-Schley controversy for that matter, save in the public press. The support the navy officers on the other side received from the navy officers here was complete and perfect. There was nothing wrong about the operative side.

"The principal part of the navy is the directing head. No matter how efficient the ships, a navy cannot be successful unless it is directed according to the immutable principles of warfare. The letter I wrote dealt with cases where such principles were violated.

"The public thinks everything the navy did was all right. Many things that were done were all wrong—and navy officers know that, and it was bad for their morale. The man who does not criticise, knowing these things, is not a good officer.

"It is an undemocratic regulation we have—that which prohibits officers from publicly commenting upon their service. That regulation does not obtain in any other country in the world, even the monarchies.

"If in this last dozen years we had not had this rule we would not be in the position we are now, with a row on our hands. If the ablest men had been free to tell us what was the matter with the navy, we would be better off. I refer particularly to the toastmaster here, Rear Admiral Bradley Fiske. If he had been permitted to write of our errors we would not have had this trouble."

"Every American—and every navy man—ought to have fair play. But the navy officer hasn't got it now, and won't have it until you civilians ask for it."

Announcing the February Sale of FURNITURE

Beginning Monday, January 26th

TOMORROW, Friday and Saturday you are invited to inspect the display of Furniture which will be offered in the February Sale, at special prices. During these three days, known as Courtesy Days, the entire stock will be marked with the sale price, and your selections may be made at leisure and reservations indicated, the final transaction to be completed after the sale opens, Monday, January 26th.

Special Prices Have Always Featured Our February Sale

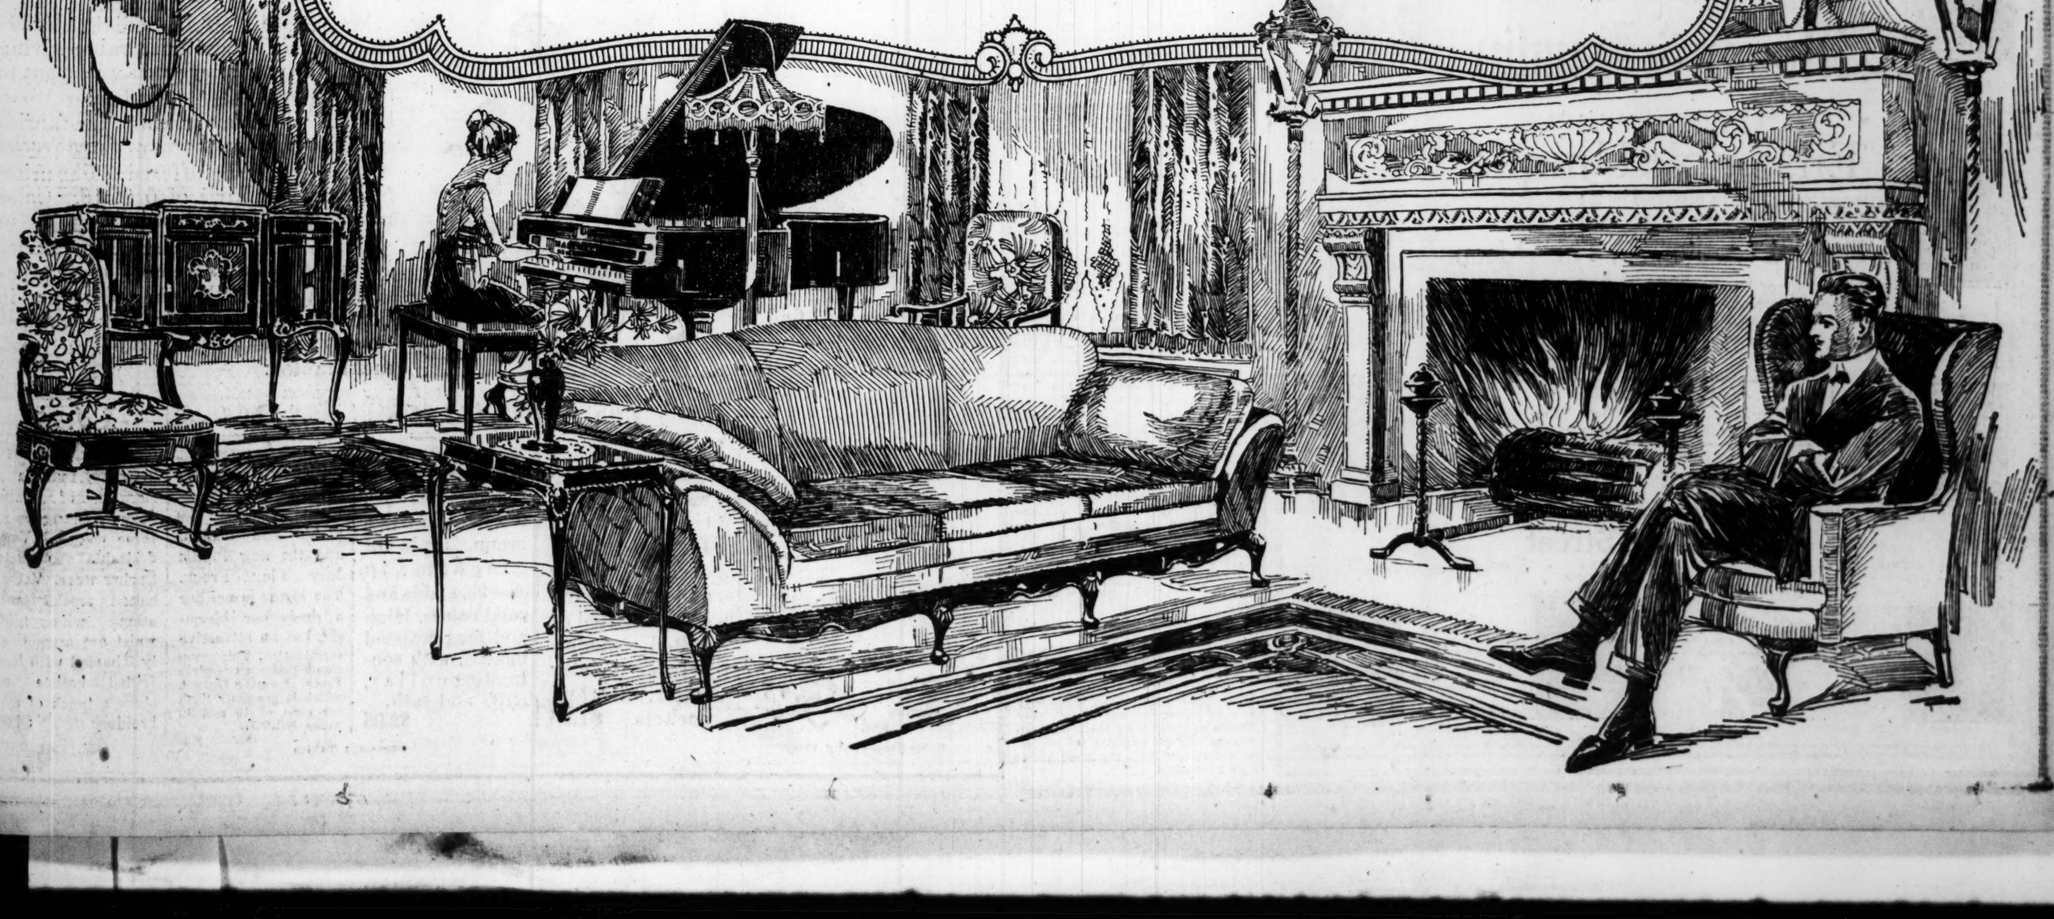

The 1920 sale will not differ from its predecessors, but we must tell you conditions frankly. The tendency of Furniture prices for the Spring of 1920 is decidedly upward, and it is an indication of unusual values to find Furniture offered in the February Sale at prices that prevailed during 1919 and 1918. We have a reputation to maintain in the February Sale of Furniture. It is a Stix, Baer & Fuller institution in St. Louis, having been founded fourteen years ago. Its basis, then as now, was extremely attractive prices, to induce early Furniture buying. During this time the sale has grown in magnitude, and has come to be a watched-for event. Its growth and success are due to the fact that the values are truly attractive and that the Furniture offered is of excellent quality. What you find here is of the master-built quality, charming to look upon and durable in use.

Furniture plays an important part in every home—in every room it is a silent but most expressive background, reflecting the culture and refinement of the occupants. A home is not dressed frequently, then surely good taste should be used on these rare occasions. Our staff is thoroughly competent and conversant with the simplest, as well as the more elaborate schemes, and will be of material help in Furniture and furnishing selections. The February sale provides values which may not appeal to you at once as being unusual, or out of the ordinary, but closer study of the unusual market conditions prove them to offer extraordinary opportunities for substantial savings. The spirit of economy will be maintained in the 1920 February Sale of Furniture. We assure you of quality, we assure you of splendid designs and of most attractive prices.

GRAND-LEADER

NEGRO "JES FOUND" CHICKENS

Seven headless chickens and a roast of beef are being held by the police for identification following the arrest at 5 a. m. today of Tilman Aldridge, a negro of 1306 Chestnut street, aboard a Grand car at Florissant avenue. The negro said he "jes found" the basket "side of a fence" and was carrying it home.

The conductor of the car called the police. He said he noticed blood dripping from the basket when the negro boarded the car in front of the Magnolia avenue police station at Grand and Magnolia avenues and instead of awakening the negro, who wanted to get off at Market street, he carried him on to the terminus, where he knew he could find a policeman.

NEGRO PULLMAN THIEF CAUGHT TRYING TO SAW HIMSELF FREE

Uses Piece of Saucer on Straps of Bed at City Hospital; Was Caught in Chase Yesterday.

Daniel Wormack of 3039 Morgan street, the negro thief who was captured on a Frisco train near St. Louis yesterday, when he tried to rob a sleeping car berth, attempted to saw off the straps by which he was held in bed at City Hospital No. 2 this morning. A policeman discovered the effort, in which he was using a fragment of a saucer, and he was fastened up anew.

The police think Wormack may have been connected with some of the Pullman car robberies which have been reported in the last two weeks, on several roads leading into St. Louis. Before he was caught by one passenger on the Frisco train, he had taken a purse containing $180 from another berth, and the owner of the $180, who was still sleeping, was awakened for the return of the money, which he did not know that he had lost. The negro was wearing a Pullman porter's uniform, and had moved from car to car all the way from Dallas, the crew of each car thinking he belonged on some other car.

He was guarded, on the trip into St. Louis, by a Pullman conductor and an army Captain, but he broke away from them when the train was approaching Tower Grove Station, and leaped through a closed window, inflicting deep cuts in his scalp. He was caught in a lumber yard, after a chase in which shots were fired.

NEGRO FLEEING FROM HOLDUP IN A POOLROOM IS SHOT

Dempsey Faulkner, 23 years old, a negro of 722 Bogard street, East St. Louis, was shot through the lung and body at 7 p. m. yesterday when he attempted to run out of a poolroom conducted by Nick Pevea, an Italian, 1405 North Eighth street, when three masked robbers entered the place and ordered seven white men and negroes to line up against the wall.

Faulkner dived for a rear door and one of the robbers fired two shots at him. One of the bullets entered his back and went through the body. Faulkner was taken to the City Hospital No. 2, where doctors said his condition was critical. After the shooting the robbers lined up the rest of the men and searched them. From Pevea they took a watch and chain, from Peter Alogua, 1428 North Eighth street, $10 and a watch, from Leo Spano, 1434 North Eighth street, $4.50 and a watch and from Jeff Bell, 1321 North Eighth street, a negro, a watch.

Pevea told the police the leader of the robbers spoke in Italian as they entered the poolroom. "Stop everything," he said the leader commanded. Faulkner, after being shot, ran through an alley and thence to Eighth and O'Fallon streets where he fell. The robbers escaped.

FATHER SAYS MRS. HEINRICHS EXPECTED TO ATTEND THEATER

Edward Devoy Says Daughter Joined Party at Dickmann's Invitation—Never Met Others Before.

Edward Devoy of 5837 Cates avenue, father of Mrs. Alice Heinrichs, 30 years old, a widow, who was killed in an automobile collision at Cates and Goodfellow avenues at midnight Saturday, requested today that it be made known that his daughter joined Bernard Dickmann, Richard H. Waltke and Mrs. Helen Garrison, the other occupants of the car in which she was riding, earlier in the evening under the impression she was going to attend a performance at the Orpheum Theater.

An attorney, who attended the inquest into her death yesterday, at the request of relatives, brought out the statement from Dickmann during the latter's testimony that Mrs. Heinrichs had never met Mrs. Garrison or Waltke prior to Saturday night and had joined the party at Dickmann's invitation to attend the Orpheum performance.

NO INDICTMENT IN CASE OF MAN WHO SHOT HAMMOND

No indictment was voted by the grand jury in the case of James Mellios, 23 years old, of 3121 Olive street, whose story of why he shot and killed Dan Hammond, 23 years old, a bartender, at Mississippi and Chouteau avenues, Jan. 5, was investigated yesterday.

Hammond served overseas with the machine-gun company of the 354th Infantry, 89th Division, and was cited for gallantry in action near Remonville, Nov. 1, 1918, for delivering ammunition at the front under heavy enemy fire.

Mellios, who told the police that he was a baker by occupation and gambled as a recreation, said that he shot Hammond after the latter had beaten him and threatened to kill him. He insisted that he acted in self defense.

Wife of Jack Ryan Dies.

Mrs. Julia Ryan, wife of Jack Ryan, former clerk at the old Southern Hotel, died Monday at her home in New York City, according to dispatches received here last night. The Ryans took up their residence in New York about a year ago.

Ryan had quite a reputation in St. Louis as a story teller. He has a large acquaintance with travelers throughout the country.

This Sale of Vandervoort's Entire Stock of Silks and Velvets

—has seemingly attracted the attention of nearly every man, woman and child in Saint Louis. A goodly number of them have been in to buy Silks and Velvets at these remarkable savings, but as it would have been a physical impossibility to serve the entire population on the first or the second or the third day we are glad that many have waited for tomorrow, the fourth day to make their selections.

At 25% Discount

¶ It will be gratifying to know that stocks tomorrow will more than meet your approval, for you will have the entire Vandervoort selection to choose from, and that, for "Quality Silks" is unsurpassed. For more than 69 years this store has been widely known for Quality Silks, and in this sale we will uphold that reputation in all respects.

¶ With the market prices of Silks going up, there is added incentive to buy now at 25% discount.

¶ Thousands of yards of the New Spring Silks are offered at the sale discount, for not a single yard of any kind of Silk or Velvet has been reserved. Cost and profit has been disregarded in this event—our one object is to win for the Silk Shops and for the store thousands more loyal friends like the thousands we already enjoy.

¶ Only three days of the sale remain, so come tomorrow, and the earlier in the day the better.

The Clue in the Air

A Detective Story by Isabel Ostrander.

"I am sure he did not even see me, for I had sunk back instinctively in the triangular niche between the piano and the wall, and terror had constricted my very breathing. Everything went around before my eyes and it seemed an hour that I clung there, praying that I might not faint, with that terrible music jingling on insensately, and from somewhere directly underneath the screams of a woman rising.

"It could not have been more than a minute, however. My first thought seemed to be to stop that piano, and mechanically I found the spring and switched it off. I put my free hand against the wall to steady myself, and my fingers came in contact with the electric-light button. I pressed it to turn out the light and then fled—fled for my very life down that hall!

"For a minute that seemed a perfect age I fumbled with the lock and chain. The door opened finally and I stumbled through, closing it after me, and rushed to Tony's, beating upon it with all my might.

"When he came I threw myself into his arms, but I did not give way utterly. After my momentary faintness my brain seemed to clear, and to work with lightning-like rapidity. In a few broken sentences I told him what had happened to the poor creature in the other apartment, and why I had come to him. He had been at the window, attracted by the screaming, when I came to his door.

"We realized instantly what a trap we were in. The house would be searched almost at once, the tenants questioned, and if I was found there, my stepfather would claim me, and take me away, and this time he would run no chance of my slipping through his grasp.

"If Tony left with me, he would be suspected of the murder, and the whole country searched for him; we could not escape together. He must stay and play the part of a disinterested witness, at least until the efforts of the police were definitely turned in some other direction and his absence would not start a hunt for him, and I must go away somewhere alone. But where?

"Then I became conscious of a heavy weight pulling my arm down. I was still clinging to the poor dead girl's suit-case. Her purse was inside, with the ticket to Chicago; I would take her place!

"I explained hurriedly to Tony, and he had to agree, for it was the only way out, and already there was a commotion throughout the building, and a crowd was collecting below. We arranged for me to hide in some little hotel in Chicago near the station until he could come to me.

"It was the most difficult moment in my life when I bade him good-by and forced myself to walk calmly down those echoing stairs, push my way unnoticed through that throng of people in the lower hall and past the door of the doctor's office and what I knew lay behind it.

"How I succeeded I cannot imagine, but I found myself somehow out on the street and beyond the fringe of the crowd. It was very late, but there was still a bare chance that I could catch the train if I made a prompt subway connection. I dreaded the very thought of it, but it was the only way.

"I rounded the corner and far down the block I saw a little car drawn up at the curb under a street-lamp. It looked familiar, and scarcely daring to hope, I walked toward it. It was dear, good Luke, waiting faithfully to know that all was well!

"I explained breathlessly that I had to make the train, and he rushed me down to the station; I had only time to tell him that a terrible thing had happened, and a girl was dead who would be thought to be me. I warned him that he might be dragged into the investigation, and he said he would have an alibi ready.

"I reached the station just as the gates were closing, and boarded my train. I tried to get a compartment, for I felt that I must be quite alone, but none was to be had. I collapsed as the train, started, but after a time forced myself to think of the immediate future, and what remained to be done.

"Poor Ivy Collins had mentioned the name of the people to whom she had meant to go in Chicago, and searching through her suit-case, I found a letter from a Lavinia Platt, saying they were expecting her, and would meet her at the station. Fortunately the address was given, and I sent a wire ahead from the next stop, saying that my plans were changed.

"I pretended to be too ill to write it myself, and induced the porter to do it for me, so that no specimen of my handwriting would be left for the police to trace me, if a hue and cry were raised over my disappearance. You see, it never occurred to me that the substitution would not be discovered, and that poor creature's body buried for mine. You can imagine my sensations when I saw the papers later on.

"What I suffered on that journey, no one can ever know. I can't talk about it even now. I was afraid that some one might come to the station to meet Ivy Collins, after all, and recognize the clothes I wore, so I put on a quieter gown which I found in the suit-case and tied a dark veil over the garish hat. When we arrived I slipped into the waiting-room, and managed to drop the coat, which had been purchased there in Chicago, without being observed.

"Once out on the street, I realized that I was faint from hunger, for I had eaten scarcely anything since the sandwich poor Ivy Collins had made for me and I must keep my strength until I had found shelter. I came upon a quiet little restaurant, and the waitress recommended me to a small hotel near by, which her relatives conducted.

"I went there and registered from Boston, the farthest point east which came to my mind. I used the name Wilkes, suggested to me by a thought of our old seamstress, Miss Wilkinson. I had no sooner reached the room assigned to me than I fainted, and for a week I was desperately ill. A neighbor on the same floor—a kind-hearted woman who was the buyer for some out-of-town shop—nursed me and through her I managed to send a telegram to Luke, signed with her name, just giving the address of the hotel. He would understand, and get it to Tony. As a matter of fact, he gave it to him just after the inquest.

"I had told her of an elopement and she was romantic, and willing to do everything she could to help me. I said that my people would probably send detectives after me and she vowed that if they did, she would throw them off the track. No one around the hotel, she least of all, suspected that I had taken the place of the girl for whom the whole country seemed to be searching.

"Tony left the Glamorgan on Sunday. He told me later that you had never connected him in any way with the murder, Mr. Terhune, and you readily gave him permission to leave when he spoke of the western automobile manufacturers he was compelled to see. My stepfather and aunt had recognized him at the inquest, but they made no move, for, of course, they believed me dead, and waited for him to declare that I had been his wife, and demand my property.

"Tony waited about New York for two days and then secure in the belief that he was safe from being followed, he boarded a train to join me. It had scarcely started, when he found Mr. McCarty at his heels, together with another man, but he soon saw they had not discovered him. He had wired to me in my friend's name before starting, and again on the train when he recognized Mr. McCarty. My friend replied that she would meet him at the station.

"As long as Tony escaped their notice he meant to follow them and see where they were going, but they separated on arrival at the station. My good friend met Tony, and while he followed Mr. McCarty in a taxi, she tried to engage his companion in conversation and learn their destination, but she wasn't successful.

"I don't know how they had found my hiding place, but when Tony—after losing the trail of Mr. McCarty—came to the hotel, he found they had reached there before him. The next morning my friend, dressed in the clothes which had already changed hands so tragically, attempted to lead them off on a false scent, while Tony and I made our escape in a motor car to his brother's little farm, out in the country.

"But they were too clever for us three; they tracked us down, and when Tony and I fled again in the night in a borrowed machine, they halted us in the road."

She paused with a deep sigh, and added:

"Of everyone connected with this whole terrible affair, Mr. McCarty alone had discovered the truth. When I realized that we were caught and further effort to escape would be useless, I cried out that he must want me for the murder of Marion Rowntree.

"'No, ma'am,' he said. 'It's Marion Rowntree I'm talking to this minute. I want to know how Ivy Collins came to her death!'"

CHAPTER XVI.

THE next day Terhune and McCarty saw the Foxe's.

"I—I will tell you anything I can, of course," Mrs. Foxe said. "It won't be of any use, though, for my husband is right; a frightful mistake must have been made! Let me see, I have known Ivy for 10 years. She was a child performer then."

"On the stage? I have had the records of theatrical bureaus and organizations searched, and none carry the name Ivy Collins."

"She was known as Mme. Yvonne, and she was never on the stage," Mrs. Foxe paused. "Ivy was a circus performer."

"Ah!" Terhune shot a quick side glance at McCarty. "And you met her"——

"I was an animal trainer in the same show." Mrs. Foxe raised her head. "It was the biggest three-ring circus in the West, and I'm not ashamed of it. I told you before that I was an actress because, well, it looks more dignified on Grafton's account. He's getting on splendidly and soon he'll be a well-known playwright. It wouldn't look well if people knew his wife had been in a circus. I have been on the stage, too, for afterward I showed my cats in vaudeville in a big star act. Grafton had written a sketch which was on the same bill, and that's how I met him."

"'Cats'? repeated the detective.

"Leopards. They were beauties, too. I was known as La Belle Leola. Perhaps you heard of me a couple of years ago.'"

Terhune nodded mendaciously, thinking that she was not unlike the creatures she had ruled, with her sullen tawny eyes and glorious little body.

"I don't know where Ivy came from, or who her people were. She was one of a troupe of acrobats and later she appeared alone in a star number. She was so strong and clever and daring! She risked her neck in a thousand crazy stunts and never thought of danger. Fear or nerves didn't exist for her. Oh, I cannot believe that she has gone!"

"She still followed her profession, up to the time of her coming to visit you?"

"She finished last season out with the show—the Frawley & Wells'; they close down in the winter, you know. Ivy went back last spring, and just before they opened, she—she had an accident.

"What sort of an accident?"

"I—I believe a gun exploded or something." Mrs. Foxe bit her lip.

"Please be more explicit! Surely you know the details!"

"It was a mistake that has not been fully understood." Foxe himself interposed smoothly. "The starter's pistol for the chariot races was accidentally loaded with cartridges that were not blank. One of the other performers picked it up and it went off, a bullet grazing Miss Collins' side. It was not serious, a flesh wound, a mere scratch, but the management thought she had better rest up a few weeks, so she came to us."

"I see," said Terhune slowly. "Are you sure Miss Collins herself believed it to have been a mistake? Not an hour before her death she is known to have said that the only accident about it was that it did not do for her."

"She—she said that?" cried Mrs. Foxe. "To whom, Mr. Terhune? Oh, it must have been to that other girl. You have found her!"

"And you'd far better ask her how Ivy came to her death, than to hound us!" her husband exclaimed. "She knows! If she didn't kill her herself, Ivy was killed in her place! Her precious family were glad enough to claim the body as hers, and hustle it underground before it was cold!"

"Mr. Foxe, you will gain nothing by trying to balk my investigation." The detective spoke sternly. "We know that Ivy Collins was in a desperate state of fear; fear for her life! We know that she anticipated an attempt upon her and did her utmost to escape it. She was killed by a man in this room, flung from that window, and we have an eye-witness to the murder!"

Dyspepsia and Business

They Don't Hitch—To Be Fit and Yet Eat What You Like. Follow Your Meals With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No Gas, Sourness, Nor Heaviness of Indigestion.

Business men and women are apt to fall for the peculiar theories advanced by food faddists. But it isn't what you eat, but what you digest and assimilate that should command thought and attention. You may eat fried eggs, sausage, ham or bacon for breakfast, and feel tip-top at lunch time if you follow the meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. Or if your stomach is full of gas, sour, or has a gnawing sensation of heaviness instead of the keen sense of appetite, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve these distresses and introduce you to the next meal or a day's work with a quiet, restful stomach.

Many physicians prescribe these tablets for indigestion, dyspepsia, and other digestive disorders, as they contain harmless properties that work with an alkaline effect just as the stomach does when in perfect health. They are particularly adapted for business men and women, who are often called upon to discuss important business matters at a luncheon or dinner.

Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store, eat all you want of what you like with no gassy stomach, no sour, belching, bilious distress, no coated tongue nor heavy, drowsy feeling after eating.

COURT ORDERS U. R. TO PAY $2,396,321 TAX

Company Accepts Judgment in Circuit Court, Which Will Be Filed With Judge Faris.

A court order, declaring the United Railways back mill tax, $2,396,321.92, and $143,779.31 interest, a total of $2,540,101.23, to be due and immediately payable to the city treasury, was issued today by Circuit Judge Falkenhainer.

This action was taken on the motion of City Counselor Daues, following a conference between Daues and Thomas E. Francis of counsel for Receiver Wells and corporate counsel for the company. Francis admitted the liability and said the company would not oppose a motion for a judgment in full. The city does not expect to obtain the money immediately.

Daues said, before filing his motion for the court order, that he would file the judgment of the Circuit Court with Judge Faris of the United States District Court, who has jurisdiction in the receivership. This, he said, would establish the city's claim in such a way that it would be certain to receive the amount due in full at the termination of the receivership, or upon the reorganiaztion of the company.

The reason for asking judgment for the full amount was that the company Jan. 14 defaulted in payment of an installment of $239,632.19, with interest at 6 per cent.

The city a year ago entered into an agreement with the company by which the accrued mill tax was to be paid in installments extending over 10 years. It was stipulated in this agreement that if there should be a default in any installment payment, or if the company should go into the hands of a receiver, the entire amount of the accrued tax should automatically become due.

POLICE MANUAL BEING REVISED TO APPLY TO POLICEWOMEN

Airplanes, Autos and Telephone Girls Other Factors Not Included in Book of 20 Years Ago.

The Police Manual, which has served for 20 years to guide St. Louis policemen in the performance of their duties, is being revised to apply to policewomen, telephone girls, automobiles, flying machines and a few other things that were not factors in police affairs when the manual was written.

It was written in 1899 when Harry B. Hawes was president of the Police Board and has always been known as the Hawes manual. It consists of 112 pages and is supposed to inform policemen what to do and what not to do under all exigencies of police duty. Few changes have been made in it. The revision is to bring it up to date.

There is nothing in it about the duties of policewomen and Police Department telephone girls and nothing about the regulation of automobiles and flying machines. There is no great need for directions about the regulation of flying machines yet, but it is intended to take time by the forelock with reference to them. It is presumed that jurisdiction of flying machines will be reposed in the "fly cops."

John T. Fitzsimmons, an attorney who helped frame the original manual, is working on the revision. He says it will be a month before it is completed.

31 REASONS GIVEN FOR NEW TRIAL OF MISS HALLEN'S CASE

One Is That Politicians Shook Hands With Defendant's Attorneys in Courtroom.

An allegation that politicians, including ward and precinct committeemen, entered the courtroom and shook hands with the defendants in the jury's presence, is one of 31 reasons stated in a motion filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Randolph Laughlin and Frank H. Haskins, attorneys for Miss Hildegarde Hallen, asking Judge Hartmann to set aside the verdict of the jury in her $65,000 damage suit against John S. Leahy, an attorney, and former Detective Chief James H. Smith, alleging false arrest and imprisonment.

The motion alleges that the Court erred in not permitting counsel for Miss Hallen to question the jurors as to their religious and political beliefs. It expresses the opinion that the cordiality of politicians to the defendants during the trial was calculated to influence the jury in favor of the defendants.

The jury returned a verdict Saturday in favor of Leahy but could not agree on Smith's liability in the matter, and a mistrial as to the latter was ordered by the Judge.

OFFICERS FAIL TO BUY LIQUOR BUT SEIZE ALL IN SALOON

Prohibition enforcement officers, visiting the saloon of Charles Garavelli, 3606 Olive street, yesterday, failed in an effort to purchase drinks containing more then one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol, but did find on the premises the following liquors: Four quarts of gin, two bottles of fernet, four one-half pint bottles of whisky, four quart bottles of whisky and two quart bottles of sherry wine. The confiscated the liquor and reported the fact for instructions.

Instructions also have been asked in the case of Goggio & Pagetta, saloon keepers at 3561 Olive street, who yesterday called at the enforcement office and declared that they had in the saloon 90 cases and two barrels of beer of more than one-half of one per cent alcoholic content. They said that they had no intention of selling the beer, but that a truck they had hired to remove it had broken down.

TRY MAKING YOUR OWN COUGH REMEDY

You Can Save About $2, and Have a Better Remedy Than the Ready-Made Kind. Easily Done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HEAD OF NEGRO ASSOCIATION IN ARKANSAS RIOTS ARRESTED

President of "Progressive Farmers and Housesold Union" Is Caught at Topeka.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 21.—Robert L. Hill, president of the "Pregressive Farmers and Household Union," the negro organization which is said to have been responsible for the negro uprising near Elaine, Ark., is under arrest at Topeka, Kan.

The uprising, which occurred about three months ago, resulted in the deaths of six white men and many negroes.

Gov. Brough today issued requisition papers for the return of Hill and telegraphed Gov. Allen of Kansas and the Chief of Police at Topeka urging that Hill be denied bail. Hill has been indicted at Helena on charges of accessory before the fact of first degree murder and night riding. Twelve companions of Hill are in the penitentiary under death sentences while more than 50 others are serving prison terms.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 21.—Robert L. Hill, negro, wanted on a charge of murder at Helena, Ark., is under arrest here. He admits his identity and declares he will resist extradition. He asserts he is innocent of the charge of murder. Hill was arrested by Topeka officers, who traced him through a letter he had written to his wife asking her to meet him in Topeka.

January Graduates:

YOU ARE NEEDED!

One Day's Record:

On January 5, 1920, our Employment Department received 30 calls for RUBICAM TRAINED stenographers and bookkeepers.

One Week's Record:

During the week of January 12th, our Employment Department received 91 calls for RUBICAM TRAINED stenographers and bookkeepers; salaries ranging from $60.00 to $125.00 per month.

We Were Able to Fill Less Than ⅓ of These Calls

WHY?

Because the continuous demand for RUBICAM TRAINED help keeps the supply constantly exhausted.

Every line of business is putting forth extra effort to make up the dreadful waste caused by the war; this is why our Employment Department must meet not only the steady, regular demand for office help, but must also try to supply the great additional demand created by thousands of new business enterprises.

WILL YOU DO YOUR PART? LET RUBICAM PREPARE YOU, within a few months, to hold one of these high-salaried positions.

Alkali in Shampoo Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED AT CARD PARTY TODAY

MURILLO PORTRAIT.

MISS GROSCHAN TO WED BARRETT WEBER

Engagement Announced at Bridge Party Given by Miss Madeline Scott.

MISS MADELINE SCOTT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott of 5851 Pershing avenue, entertained with a bridge party today in honor of Miss Florence Groschan, to announce Miss Groschan's engagement to Barrett Weber has been announced. The wedding will take place in April.

Miss Groschan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Goschan of Madison and Clay avenues, Kirkwood, Mo., and is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent at Maryville. Mr. Weber, who is a graduate of Washington University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weber of 6911 Washington boulevard.

Social Items

AMONG the nuptial events of interest is the wedding this evening of Miss Jeanette Klein and Clark Robinson Gamble, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gamble of 5736 Pershing avenue, at the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. Dr. Tadlock of the Centenary Methodist Church will perform the ceremony at 8 o'clock, in the presence of relatives of the couple and a limited number of friends. A small reception will follow. The house will be decorated in roses and smilax.

The bride will wear a gown of white georgette crepe embroidered in silver threads, the only trimming being the train and girdle of silver cloth. Her veil of tulle will have a band of orange blossoms across the front of the headdress and will be caught to the cloth of silver train with a motif of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Miss Eleanor Klein, a sister of the bride, will attend her as maid of honor. Her frock will be of an apricot shade of georgette, trimmed with crystal beads, and she will carry a bouquet of ophelia roses tied with blue tulle.

Ross Gamble of Chicago, a brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man.

Miss Klein is the daughter of Mrs. J. S. Klein of 6377 Pershing avenue. She was graduated from Miss Bennett's school at Millbrook, N. Y., and was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet's ball in 1916.

Mr. Gamble served as First Lieutenant in the Twenty-third Infantry, with the Second Division, and saw 15 months' service in France. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre.

Some of the out-of-town guests here for the wedding are the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder of Chicago, and Mr. Gamble's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Burton of Joplin. The couple will spend their honeymoon in the East.

Mrs. Paul B. Jamison of 6349 Washington boulevard was hostess today at a luncheon in compliment to Mrs. Stuart Jamison of 5841 Ninapl ace. The guests included Mmes. Samuel Tittman, Charles G. Petrie, John C. Roberts, Robert M. Warmack, Wiley Keil, C. L. Johnston, D. E. Woods, R. L. Jordan, G. B. Simmons, Harry Noel, Le Roy Bush, Bert Barnett, Farrar, C. C. Williams, J. M. Adams, Frieda Travis, Robert Lund, Edwin Strassburger, E. C. Gibson, Frederick Hume, C. A. Moreno, Heller, T. C. Wolfer, J. E. Webb, F. L. Stiegell, B. White Williams, McCann J. T. Pettus, Sutcliff, W. H. Moulton, Burford, Hite Bowman, Henry W. Peters, Harry Blodgett, J. W. Ferguson, William Ferguson, H. J. Hooker, Colin M. Selph, Theodore Moreno, Marion Cronner, T. Malden, Beverly Jones and her two guests, Mrs. Edward Hurst and Miss Knaffle, Mrs. Stuart Jamison's mother, Mrs. John Bodger of North Dakota, and Miss Laura Waters. The decorations were in pink and white.

The Corona Catholic Club will have a Tacky Party at Queens' Daughters' Home, 3730 Lindell boulevard, tomorrow evening.

Mrs. P. Chouteau Scott and her young daughter, Marie Louise Scott of 53 Vandeventer place, have departed for their annual visit to Havana, Cuba.

Mrs. John Trigg Moss and Mrs. R. A. Burns will be hostesses tomorrow at a tea which they will give to the Missouri Society, Daughters of 1812, at Hotel Statler at 2 o'clock. A special musical program has been arranged.

An illustrated lecture on Religious Art During the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries will be given by the Rev. F. X. Mannhardt, A. J., at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Taylor and Maryland avenues, Sunday at 3:30 o'clock. Teachers are invited to attend.

Mrs. George V. Steffens and children departed Sunday for Thomasville, Ga., for the remainder of the winter.

Make-a-Will Day

How long since you and your lawyer had a conference about your will?

Are you subjecting your loved ones to needless risk by putting this big question off from day to day?

Today is "Make-a-Will Day" in the Y. M. C. A.'s National Thrift program. Could you do a better thing today than make an appointment with your lawyer to draw your will? If you die without one you leave your estate to be divided according to general laws, which may not suit your wishes, to be handled by an administrator, whom the court must appoint without knowing your wishes in the matter.

By making a will you can give your wishes as to your estate the force of law, and you can put the management of your estate into strong hands.

By naming this Trust Company executor or trustee, you get trained, responsible, careful service at a cost certainly not greater and probably less than if you appointed an individual.

POOL TABLES MOVED BACK TO CAMPBELL'S

No Guard at Forest Home on Arrival—Richmond Heights Council to Meet Tonight.

The Richmond Heights town council, at its meeting tonight, will consider the situation at Campbell's Forest Home, notorious gambling resort, which is within the town limits as recently extended, and which has given indications of preparing to reopen. Mayor Jensen said today that plans for placing a continuous guard on Campbell's premises would be considered, in view of reports that the watch now kept by Deputy Sheriffs is only intermittent.

Two pool tables were moved into Campbell's yesterday afternoon. At that time, no representative of the Sheriff's office was on guard, though Sheriff Bopp has announced that the place would be kept guarded day and night. Last night, a Post-Dispatch reporter visiting the premises saw no Deputy Sheriff. There appeared to be few persons about the place and only one automobile was standing near.

Sheriff Bopp said today that he had given orders that no gambling should be permitted at Campbell's but that he had not ordered that no one be permitted to enter the place. "Somebody might want to go there to play pool," the Sheriff said, "and that would not be gambling."

George McCready, Marshal of Richmond Heights, and Deputy Sheriff, who was named by Bopp to look after Campbell's, said he was working downtown, and that he was depending chiefly on another Deputy, Floyd Fennell, to act as guard. He said the only way to keep Campbell's closed would be to keep a continuous guard and admit no one.

Action on Gambling Must Wait on McAllister.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 21.—Assistant Attorney-General John T. Gose, in charge of the Attorney-General's office, told Gov. Gardner today that no action could be taken on the St. Louis County gambling question until the return of Attorney-General McAllister who is in St. Louis.

Gov. Gardner yesterday referred to the Attorney-General's office the letters of St. Louis County officials on the situation there. McAllister is expected to return here within a day or two.

U. R. PLANS TO RE-ROUTE FOURTH STREET AND TOWER GROVE LINES

New Arrangement Will Be Submitted to Tower Grove Improvement Association.

Plans for rerouting the Fourth street and Tower Grove car lines to eliminate congestion at the "Y" at Grand avenue and Arsenal street, where the two lines now intersect, will be submitted to the Tower Grove Improvement Association at its meeting at Grand avenue and Arsenal street Friday evening, and, if approved by that body, the United Railways will ask the State Public Service Commission to permit the company to put the proposed routes into effect immediately.

The new route proposed by the company follows:

Tower Grove line—Westbound: From Fourth, and Pine south on Fourth to Chouteau, west to Eighteenth, south to Park, west to Mississippi, south to Lafayette, west to Grand, south to Arsenal, west on Arsenal to Columbia and Tamm. THREE REGULAR REGIMENTS ALLOCATED TO MISSOURI

War Department Puts Into Effect Plan Recently Adopted of Localizing Units.

The St. Louis army recruiting station, which is seeking 1898 recruits from this district by March 31 for the regular army, has received notice from the War Department that the Fourth and Seventh Infantry Regiments and the Eighteenth Field Artillery, Regular Army, have been allocated to Missouri, and that all recruits obtained here will be assigned to those units, now stationed at Camp Pike, Ark., except where special assignment is requested.

The allocation of these regiments to Missouri is the result of a plan recently adopted whereby various regiments are to be localized whenever possible.

The campaign for recruits will be carried on in co-operation with the American Legion, National Guard and civic organizations. Meetings, war exhibits, tank exhibitions and trophy displays will be utilized in the campaign.

JOHNSON'S FREEZE-PROOF

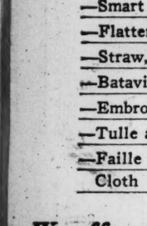

is easy to use—is non-inflammable—inexpensive and guaranteed. It does not evaporate so one application will last all winter.

Read This Guarantee

We guarantee that Johnson's Freeze-Proof has no more effect than water on the metals of the radiator or on rubber.
If Johnson's Freeze-Proof is used according to the simple directions in the proportion shown on our scale, it will absolutely protect your radiator against damage from freezing.
We do not guarantee Johnson's Freeze-Proof when used in cars with aluminum manifolds, although it has been used satisfactorily in hundreds of such cars. Water alone often has an injurious effect on aluminum.

Directions Must Be Followed

Johnson's Freeze-Proof will give perfect satisfaction if used according to directions on label. It requires just a little time and care to comply with these instructions—then your worry is over for the whole winter.

1st—Clean all dirt, scale, sediment etc., from the cooling system by using a boiling solution of ordinary washing soda. Flush out thoroughly.

2nd—Repair all leaks. Unless hose connections are new, replace them. Tighten all packing and gaskets.

$1.50 Protects Your Ford

One package of Johnson's Freeze-Proof (Cost $1.50) will protect a Ford to 5° below zero, and two packages to 50° below zero. For larger radiators or to protect to a lower temperature, use additional Freeze-Proof according to the scale on the package.

KAHN ASKS THAT EXCESS PROFITS TAX BE LIFTED

New York Banker Advocates Substitution of Levy of One Per Cent on All Purchases Exceeding $2.

LAYS HIGH COSTS TO PRESENT PLAN

Proposed System Would Net U. S. From Two to Four Billions a Year, He Tells Credit Men.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 21.—Abolition of the excess profits tax and substitution therefor of a tax of 1 per cent on all purchases exceeding $2, to be paid by the purchaser, was advocated by Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, here today in an address before the Association of Credit Men.

Kahn characterized the excess profits tax as "freakish" and "baneful in its influence," and blamed its operation in large measure for the high cost of living, industrial and economic dislocation and social discontent.

Would Not Spare Wealth.

"I always favored a progressive income tax," said Kahn, "and would not advocate any scheme of taxation which would spare wealth. The upper scale of our surtaxes is, however, so extreme that it has defeated its own purpose by driving capital into tax-exempt securities. The result is that our investment market has largely ceased to function, which fact is in considerable part responsible for our present strained money and credit position, and is a menace both to our domestic and foreign trade."

Kahn declared the only hope for the necessary financing of European industry lay with private capital, and that unless the present surtaxes were removed private capital could not provide the funds. He characterized as "a delusion" the current belief that mere ratification of the peace treaty by the United States would set in motion a free flow of American credits to Europe.

Employed in Civil War.

Discussing the proposal for a tax on purchases, Kahn recalled that the scheme was employed successfully during the Civil War and estimated that such a tax would produce from $2,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 a year, according to whether it were applied to wholesale transactions as well as retail purchases. In the event it was applied only to the latter, he said, a graduated scale should be put into effect ranging from 1 per cent on small purchases to perhaps 10 per cent on large ones.

He expressed the belief that such a tax would produce sufficient revenue to permit abolition of the income tax on incomes under $4000 a year.

Colver Says Abolition of Tax Would Bring Prices Down.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Describing the excess profits tax as "one of the foundation stones" of "the present intolerable price structure," William B. Colver, a member of the Federal Trade Commission, in a paper read last night before the Purchasing Agents' Association of New York, declared that "if you knock the whole thing out the price structure would come down two or three stories at least."

For every dollar that gets into the public treasury through the excess profits tax, Commissioner Colver estimated that between $4 and $5 was taken from the ultimate consumer in excess prices. Admitting that repeal of the excess profits tax would result in a big revenue loss to the Government, the commissioner asserted "that plenty of other devices have been suggested by which to raise money." As an instance, he proposed "a reasonable small direct tax that everybody can see, evidenced perhaps by a stamp on gross sales."

The excess profits tax was not intended as a revenue device, Colver contended.

"The excess profits tax was created as an equalizer in cases of price fixation, and for no other reason," he added, "and since prices are no longer being fixed, even that reason for its continuance is gone."

JUNIOR CHAMBERS MEET TO FORM NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

Representatives of Junior Chambers of Commerce from 27 cities met at Hotel Statler today to form a national organization. The meeting was arranged by the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is credited with being the first Junior Chamber in the country.

Today's program included a luncheon meeting with members of the local senior Chamber of Commerce, with addresses by H. L. Hammet, vice president of the Young Men's Business Club of New Orleans, La.; W. R. Simmons, secretary of the Dallas (Tex.) Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Paul H. Young, president of the local organization. Tomorrow at noon the delegates will be guests of the City Club at luncheon.

An Open Letter

St. Louis, Mo.

To the Board of Education and the Citizens of St. Louis:-

For several years past the public school teachers of St. Louis have been trying to secure a salary schedule which would give justice to the teachers, and at the same time enable St. Louis to uphold its high standard in the field of education. In spite of these efforts, the teachers' salaries have fallen far behind in the race with the cost of living. One result of this has been the loss of many valuable teachers from the school system.

The Board of Education, while not denying the reasonableness of the teachers' requests for higher salaries, has never managed to meet them satisfactorily, usually basing its action or its refusal to act on the ground of "insufficient funds." However, no action to increase the school funds was taken by the Board until the election of November, 1919, at which time the voters of St. Louis granted a substantial increase in the rate of taxation for school purposes.

After the election the teachers asked for an increase in salaries. It is true that the election did not bring to the Board of Education an immediate increase in school funds, but it did give assurance that public opinion will support the Board in any measure which it may adopt to meet the PRESENT SERIOUS SITUATION by means of funds available NOW.

The Board of Education states that the present salaries are inadequate, but so far it has not seen its way clear to any action in response to the latest appeal of the teachers. It has often been observed in the past that the Board has been able to find the funds which its members considered necessary or highly desirable. The teachers of St. Louis believe that the present members of the Board are equally capable of solving a difficult problem.

The City of St. Louis cannot afford the loss of teachers which will inevitably result from delay in this matter. We consider the present situation an open challenge to the resourcefulness of the Board of Education, acting in its capacity as a servant of the people in one of the vital interests of the city.

JAPANESE TROOPS TO BE WITHDRAWN FROM SIBERIA

AGREEMENT WITH U. S. TO BE ADHERED TO

Arrangement Made in 1918 Provides That Sovereignty of Russia Shall Be Left Completely Unimpaired.

TOKIO, Jan. 21.—Japan's object in agreeing to co-operate with the United States in supporting Czecho-Slovak troops in Siberia has been attained and the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia will follow, it was decided at a meeting of the Advisory Diplomatic Council Monday, according to newspapers here.

It was asserted at the meeting, it is said, that Japan has no territorial ambitions in Siberia and that troops now being sent to that country are merely to replace losses. It was declared that fundamental policies will not be affected by this step. The council is reported to have indorsed the Cabinet's decision not to interfere further in the internal affairs of Siberia and to adhere strictly to the Government's declaration when it entered into its agreement with America in 1918.

In the agreement between Japan and the United States, announced in Tokio Aug. 4, 1918, the Japanese Government declared its desire to promote relations of enduring friendship with Russia and affirmed its avowed policy of respecting the territorial integrity of that country as well as of abstaining from all interference in Russia's internal politics. It was further declared that upon the realization of its objects Japan would withdraw all her troops from Russian territory and leave unimpaired the sovereignty of Russia in all its phases.

U. S. Notified of Japan's Purpose to Withdraw Forces From Siberia.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Official advices from Tokio received here have indicated the purpose of the Japanese Government to follow the example of the United States in withdrawing its military forces from Siberia.

Discussions in the Japanese press and utterances by political leaders have developed that probably a large majority of the Japanese people are averse to entering single-handed into such a vast enterprise as the invasion of Siberia.

All of the other foreign elements have been withdrawn from Siberia. There remain now only about 8000 American and perhaps 30,000 Japanese troops, in addition to the Czecho-Slovaks whose number has been vaguely placed at somewhere between 20,000 and 40,000. It is planned to remove all of these Czecho-Slovaks by Feb. 16 and the American troops should be out by March 1.

Although their lines extend much further to the westward than those of the Americans, the Japanese have only a short voyage from Vladivostok to their own country so that their invasion of Siberia may be completed early in the spring.

As retreats are always highly dangerous to an army, involving sacrifice of life and material in rear guard actions, it is possible an effort may be made to obtain protection for the retiring troops by an agreement with the Bolsheviki leaders in Siberia.

Gen. Semenoff, with his 14,000 Cossack irregulars, would be left to face the steady eastward advance of the Bolshevik forces. At present he holds a considerable portion of the line of the Siberian Railway, but it is expected unless he is prepared to make terms with the Bolsheviki, he will be obliged to withdraw his forces to the steppes and conduct a desultory warfare indefinitely.

Gen. Semenoff Assumes Rulership of Siberia.

By the Associated Press.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Saturday, Jan. 17.—Gen. Semenoff, Commander in Chief of the All-Russian armies, has issued a proclamation declaring that he has assumed the supreme rulership of Siberia. According to Gen. Semenoff's representatives here, his assumption of supreme power is only temporary and is due to the fact that the whereabout of Admiral Kolchak is unknown.

NURSES IN SIBERIA ARE SAFE

Red Cross workers from St. Louis on duty with the Siberian Commission of the Red Cross are safe, according to the latest cable received from Vladivostok, which reads: "Uprisings have not as yet endangered American Red Cross personnel or institutions, according to best advices."

The following St. Louisans are with the Siberian Commission of the Red Cross as nurses: Miss Helen Bridge, former head of the school for nurses at Barnes Hospital; Miss Florence Brandt, 4461 Olive street; the Misses Kathryn and Mattie Duguid, 5123 Cates avenue; Miss Norman Jones, 4461 Olive street. Miss Helen Sullins, 5630 Pershing avenue, is with the commission as a nurses' aid.

Why We Sell Union Electric Preferred Here at Home

Some folks have asked us why Union Electric sells its preferred stock only across its counters, and only to Union Electric customers and members of their families.

Here are the reasons:

1. We save money selling this way.

2. Every dollar of selling cost is spent in St. Louis and the St. Louis industrial district.

3. Every dollar of dividend is paid out in St. Louis and the St. Louis district.

4. Every customer who becomes a stockholder has a natural interest in helping promote and protect the business.

When the remainder of this $1,000,000 issue is sold, every dollar of Union Electric's $3,000,000 of preferred stock will be owned by Union Electric's customers, or members of their families. The $210,000 of yearly dividends will be distributed among them — $52,500 every three months.

We may not be able to finance Union Electric's growth entirely in this way. The Company will need many millions of new capital in the next few years, to meet rapidly increasing demand for its services. We may have to open the subscription privilege to everybody resident in the St. Louis district. We may even have to go East for a part of the new capital. But so far as possible we shall get the money and distribute the dividends here at home. THIS ISSUE WILL BE SOLD ONLY TO UNION ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS AND MEMBERS OF THEIR FAMILIES.

Skin troubles need immediate and proper attention

Don't wait thinking they will disappear in time. Perhaps they will, but in the meantime you are suffering from the burning and itching, and allowing your nerves to become badly effected, when a little Resinol Ointment would doubtless relieve it all.

Unless the skin affection is caused by some internal disorder, Resinol Ointment usually clears it away because it contains harmless, and soothing antidotes for such conditions. It can be used easily for it is so nearly flesh-colored it does not attract attention. At all druggists.

Resinol

Lift Off Corns!

Doesn't hurt! Lift touchy corns and calluses right off with fingers

Apply a few drops of "Freezone" upon that old, bothersome corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off, root and all, without pain or soreness.

Tiny bottles of "Freezone" cost but a few cents at drug stores

for cuts and bruises

NO cut or bruise can resist the cooling, healing effects of Turpo. The turpentine in Turpo instantly draws out the pain and sterilizes the open wound. The menthol and camphor soothe and assuage the pain.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Woman's Faith Helps Husband

"I owe my good health to my wife, who had faith in a newspaper ad she saw of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I was down so badly with stomach and liver trouble after 15 years of suffering and trying every known remedy that I had no faith in anything. This medicine has certainly been a 'God-send' to me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Winter

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the winter term. These things which clog the pores, tend to aid wind and weather in roughening and coarsening the skin. Ordinary mercolized wax will do more for the complexion, and without encouraging the skin to chap, crack or become harsh and leathery. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of scarf skin which have been spoiled by winds or temperature. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and soft, it does more toward perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will completely renovate the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

DON'T FUSS WITH MUSTARD PLASTERS!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Easier, Quicker

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole, is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, combined in the form of the present white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, broncnitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

PLUMBING HOUSE TO DISBAND

Abel & Gerhard Co. Forced Out by Rising Costs.

The Abel & Gerhard Plumbing Co., 911 North Sixth street, which was founded in 1865 by Frederick Abel, will be dissolved within a few weeks, and Abel's sons, Charles and Louis, the active partners in the business, will go into private enterprises.

"We decided to get out while we were still ahead of the game," Charles Abel said. "Materials are hard to obtain, high in price and uncertain of delivery. Wages are constantly rising and we found it hard to get things done our way. Given definite instructions, the men would sometimes say, 'We can't; the union says to do it this way.' Father is out of the business actively, being 76 years old and not in good health. This, and our desire not to be left holding the bag caused us to make our decision." Abel & Gerhard have had plumbing contracts for many of the largest buildings in St. Louis, the most recent large job being the new Bevo plant. The firm has few employes now.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

CAT EATS TWO PIGEONS WORTH $100 AT POULTRY SHOW

Escapes After Rich Breakfast in Madison Square Garden, Where There Are 14,000 Birds.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A stray tom cat projected himself into the annual poultry show in progress today in Madison Square Garden and had a $100 breakfast on two carrier pigeons on exhibition by a Baltimore fancier.

The cat squeezed into the garden and feasted his eyes on the 14,000 birds, finally tearing the muslin slips off the crate housing the pigeons. Only a few feathers were left to tell the tale. The cat escaped.

TRIED TO KILL CHILD, SHE SAYS

Woman Goes to Police Headquarters and Asks to Be Locked Up.

Mrs. Lilian Crawford, 42 years old, of 4153A Shaw avenue, was taken to the city hospital last night after she had walked into the office of Assistant Chief of Police Gillaspy and announced she wanted to surrender. She said she had attempted to kill her child at the Shaw avenue address and then had tried to end her own life. Failing in both, she said, she wanted to be locked up.

The Chief detained her in his office pending an investigation. At the Shaw avenue address policemen learned Mrs. Crawford had been a patient at St. John's Hospital until yesterday evening, when she departed unknown to the nurses. She was under treatment for mental trouble.

Supreme Council Tribute to Clemenceau; His Reply

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The Supreme Council decided this morning that the new conference of Ambassadors would be inaugurated on Monday, Jan. 26. This conference, taking up part of the work of the Supreme Council, which virtually concluded its labors last night, will be entrusted with the task of ensuring the carrying out of the treaty of Versailles and the discussion of current routine matters connected with peace affairs. The great questions of international policy, however, will be reserved for settlement at conferences in which the heads of the allied Governments will sit.

M. Clemenceau presided over today's sessions of the council for a short time, giving way to Premier Millerand. The others in attendance were Earl Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary; Signor de Martino, for Italy; Baron Matsui for Japan, and Ambassador Wallace for the United States.

M. Clemenceau, as former Premier and Minister of War, handed over the Ministry of War to Andre Lefevre, the new War Minister, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Immediately after turning over the portfolio to his successor, M. Clemenceau left the ministry.

M. Clemenceau also turned over his powers as President of the Council of ministers to Premier Millerand and all the ministers and under-secretaries installed their successors.

Tribute to Clemenceau.

Before the Supreme Council was finally adjourned, last night, David Lloyd George asked that the following statement be entered upon the minutes of the Council:

"Conscious of the inestimable services which Monsieur Georges Clemenceau, president during more than a year of the peace conference, has rendered the cause of peace, and grateful to him, as we are, for the dignity, impartiality and wisdom with which he has conducted our deliberations, we, his colleagues, desire to express to him our unalterable esteem, as well as our hope that, in the calm of his retirement, he may live long enough to see his incomparable work bear fruit for the glory of France and the renewal of the prosperity of the world."

Hugh C. Wallace, the American Ambassador, who followed Lloyd George, said:

"Mr. President: It is a deep regret for me not to have been able to be present longer in these deliberations and to profit by your great wisdom and your incomparable good temper. I have learned to know you and that is to say to love you, and President Wilson already had told me how deeply attached he was to you. I want to express to you the sentiment we feel for you and to wish you a long and happy life."

M. Clemenceau, in thanking the Council for its expressions of esteem, said:

"If Great Britain, the United States, Italy and Japan remain united, there is a guarantee of peace which exceeds all those guarantees which can be put on paper. If one day these nations are separated, I dare not think of the misfortunes which may result."

"We arrived here somewhat disconcerted by the gravity of the problems set and the difficulty of settling them. When fighting the enemy all necessarily were in agreement, each joyfully giving his life for his country. But it is not necessarily the same when one meets to calculate and realize the fruits of victory and to settle each one's share.

"We have, however, tried to accomplish that difficult task, and it may be truly said that I have never presided over your meetings. They were not presided over. We exchanged thoughts, strictly speaking. We never experienced difficulties in our discussions and the President never had to exercise his powers. We have been friends charged with a great duty."

In conclusion M. Clemenceau said: "I shall not lose sight of the peace we are completing and shall continue to follow its progress until my last breath. I shall try by all good wishes at least to do all in my power for the solidity of that peace, for, indeed, if by misfortune the elements of discord should arise among you, how terrible the thought that the best blood of the civilized world, the blood of our soldiers, should be shed in vain for hopes that would not be realized.

"I won't believe that such an eventuality is possible. I know the sentiments of my friend, M. Millerand. I know that he, as I, is convinced that an alliance for a lasting understanding must be maintained between all the peoples represented here."

After shaking hands warmly with all present, M. Clemenceau, with tears in his eyes, left the Foreign Minister's private office, where daily for more than a year he has toiled for the greatness of his country and peace of the world.

UNITED STATES TAKES NO PART IN ALLIED DEMAND FOR KAISER

Cannot Join Effort Because Treaty Is Not Operative So Far as America 's Concerned.

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—As the German treaty is not yet operative so far as America is concerned, the United State it was stated officially today, has not joined in the demand upon Holland for the extradition of the former Kaiser, nor can it do so ever, if it desired.

As head of the commission on responsibilities of the peace conference, Secretary Lansing took the ground that there was no law under which the former Emperor could be brought to trial and punished. In its final action upon the treaty, however the conference designated the Kaiser's acts as in violation of international morality and provided for his indictment and trial by his accusers. Accepting the view that this proposes a political and not a criminal trial, the American commissioners signed the treaty. There's the official view is that while the United States may not now participate in the effort to extradite and try the former Kaiser became of nonaction by the Senate upon the treaty, it is possible that if the document is finally ratified as it stands America may have a member upon the court which will conduct the trial as required by the treaty.

It Digests All Your Food

Eat what you need. Don't diet or starve. Simply help out your stomach with Eupepsia Tablets.

Then you will never know the misery of indigestion and its accompanying ailments.

Every meal you eat puts a tax on your stomach. Sometimes it gets overworked. It then sends out a signal for help in the form of Heaviness, Nausea, Biliousness, Headache, Gas on the Stomach, etc.

Indigestion, dyspepsia, or worse, will follow.

Euspepsia Tablets will save all that suffering.

For Eupepsia takes the strain off the stomach. It enables it to rest. At the same time it starts the digestive juices flowing. Eupepsia completely digests every bit of food in your stomach, and it restores healthy conditions in the stomach. The result is complete relief.

Give your stomach Eupepsia Tablets now. Don't wait until sickness demands it. After the first dose you wouldn't be without this wonderful digester for one thousand times its cost.

OUR GUARANTEE

Go to your druggist today. Get a 60c treatment of Eupepsia. If you're not relieved of dyspepsia or indigestion in any of its forms, after taking this treatment, we will at once pay you the full cost of the treatment. We will not let you risk one cent when you put to the test this positive guarantee that Eupepsia will make you well.

If your druggist does not carry Eupepsia, send 60c to us direct. Our guarantee holds good, however you purchase. A trial treatment and booklet on Stomach Trouble mailed free.

Dandruffy Scalps Ruin the Hair and Make It Fall Out

Parisian Sage Keeps the Scalp Clean, Quickly Stops All Itching and Stimulates New Hair to Grow or Nothing to Pay.

See the Bald Spot—That Shows What Dandruff Can Do

If you have dandruff you must get rid of it quickly—it's positively dangerous and will surely ruin your hair if you don't.

Dandruffy heads mean faded, brittle, scraggly hair that finally dies and then you are hairless and nothing can help you.

The only way to abolish dandruff for good is to destroy the germ that causes it. To do this quickly and at little expense, get from your druggist some Parisian sage and follow the simple directions for home use.

It is guaranteed to banish all dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, and promote a new growth, or the cost, small as it is, will be refunded.

Parisian sage is a scientific preparation that supplies hair needs—an antiseptic, delicately perfumed liquid, neither sticky nor greasy, easy to apply, and guaranteed not to color the hair or scalp.

Good looking hair is half the battle in any man's or woman's personal appearance. Neglect means dull, thin, lifeless hair and finally baldness, while a little attention now helps insure thick and lustrous hair for years to come.

No matter what your hair troubles, try a Parisian sage massage tonight—you will not be disappointed.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

ANXIOUS SON.—You had better consult a lawyer in Chicago.

ANXIOUS.—The landlord can sue you for rent at any time after it has become due.

G. L. A.—You can marry. Your relationship is not close enough to make any difference.

W. Y.—The same tax is paid on exported whisky as on other whisky. It is $6.40 per gallon.

MRS. SMITH.—If she owes you money, you can sue her for it in a Justice of the Peace Court.

MRS. H. L. K.—Your husband can not sell your dower interest in the property without your consent.

M. K. T.—Parents are not compelled by law to pay their son's debts after he is 21 and married.

J. C. T.—If the landlord agreed to repair the hot water tank and failed to do so, you can deduct the amount.

WORRIED.—She can not get a divorce. He can withdraw his petition for divorce or not, as he pleases.

FRANK V.—You can vote even if you did sell firearms to a boy under age and were arrested for it.

E. C. M.—On his death without a will his widow is entitled to one-half of his property, subject to his debts.

BROTHERING.—If the will is made in your favor, your husband's brothers cannot break it after his death.

A READER.—We have not heard of any oil wells in Montana. There are oil wells in Wyoming and the Dakotas.

CONSTANT READER.—He will be arrested on his return, if he disappeared before his trial. You can get a divorce on the ground of indignities.

IGNORANT.—If a girl pays her parents $5 board a week, the parents do not have to report the $5 on their income tax return unless they make money by the arrangement.

MRS. LANG.—You do not need to muzzle your dog unless there is a special order of the Health Commissioner to that effect in force at the time. The orders are published in the papers.

E. K.—The largest bank in St. Louis is the First National Bank, the second largest is the Bank of Commerce. You cannot open a checking account at the Federal Reserve Bank.

MARGARET.—Consult a lawyer, if you have good ground for divorce.

M. L. B.—Your husband cannot have you arrested if you leave him, but he might sue you for divorce on the grounds of desertion.

BOYDS.—The area of Detroit 10 years ago was 40 square miles, now it is 79.62 square miles. The area of Cleveland was 45 square miles, now it is 56.6. Boston was 42 2-3 square miles, now it is 47.8.

ADELE E. FELDMAN.—We know of no local organization that is sending relief to Hungary. Address the Secretary of the State, Washington, D. C.; he might find some method of assisting you.

G. C. H.—We understand that a silk handerchief flying loosely will stop a bullet. However, we have never made the experiment. You ought to be able to get a good silk handkerchief in any department store.

GEORGE H.—There is no German Consul in St. Louis at present. Under ordinary conditions if you have been left property in Germany you would probably hear of it in course of time. But under present conditions there is no certainty about anything.

J. E. P.—If you are able to draw why not develop your talent by going to art school. Write to the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, Washington University, for a catalogue. If you cannot take the complete course you might be able to take the Saturday course offered.

Z.—Your grandfather would naturally be of the same nationality as his father no matter where he was born. The New York World compares with the Post-Dispatch in the matter of ads. There are so many department stores in New York that it is impossible to say. "If he were" is the correct form.

HARD LUCK.—If you wish to obtain a patent you will have to write to the United States Patent Office, Washington, D. C. It all depends on the device you wish to have patented where you would go to find out if it was practical or not. For instance, if it is some sort of an automobile device some automobile company could tell you if it was practical or not.

D. H. SCHMITT.—The following is a coating for damp walls: Thirty parts of tin are dissolved in 40 parts of hydrochloric acid, and 30 parts of sal ammoniac are added. A powder composed of freestone, 50 parts; zinc oxide, 20 parts; pounded glass, 15 parts; powdered marble, 10 parts and calcined magnesia, 5 parts, is prepared, and made into a paste with the liquid above mentioned. Coloring matter may be added. The composition may be used as a damp-proof coating for walls, or for repairing stonework, or for molding statues or ornaments. If only the walls in the kitchen and of the rooms near it are damp, perhaps it is just from the steam created while cooking. Furred walls are walls that are provided with furring so as to form an air-space between the wall and the plastering. Nailing strips of wood to a solid wall on which to lath is called furring.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(The answers given under this heading are prepared by a physician of standing, who for ethical reasons does not permit the use of his name, but who is willing to make this contribution to public health.)

COLORED.—Yes, there is a colored ward at Barnes hospital. If you would inquire at the hospital you can obtain further information.

T. R.—If you have been to competent physicians and they have failed to help you, you could not expect us to suggest a "simple" remedy that would.

MARIE.—Any collection of pus in the body may affect the body generally, including the eyes. Pus is likely present in and about decayed teeth. The upper canine or eye tooth is the third from the medium line on each side of the upper jaw.

H. G.—Many claims have been made for medicines that will dissolve gall stones. But their efficacy is very doubtful to say the least. Many persons however live, a long life with these stones without discomfort. Consult your physician.

JOHN BRENNAN.—Use enough bran to answer your purpose. Each person differs in the amount needed. Take as much as you need, it is harmless. Mineral oils are good but if you can correct constipation by diet such as bran, it is better to do so.

L. A. J.—This condition is a concentrated urine, not enough water in it. Urge the child to drink freely of water. An examination of the urine is desirable. This will be done free of charge at the office of the city chemist, Municipal Courts Building.

WORRIED MOTHER.—Epilepsy is extremely difficult to relieve and generally impossible to cure. We do not know of any doctor in this city who treats epilepsy only. The remedies you mentioned are useless. We would advise you to continue the treatment at the clinic.

'PROF X.' RECALLS HIS WEDDING 40 YEARS AGO

Visit of Wife Brings Back Memories to Amnesia Victim Who Wandered Three Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—With tears in her eyes, Mrs. John L. Brand, a frail little woman, yesterday greeted as a man raised from the dead her husband, whom the public has been reading about as "Prof. X." She arrived from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and found her husband who had been lost in a maze of amnesia for three years, fully able to recognize her and in possession of his memory.

The meeting took place in the home of their son, Lieutenant-Commander Charles L. Brand, and the actual presence of the woman "Prof. X." had arried 40 years ago in a church in England brought memories flooding back to the mind of Dr. Brand.

As the family sat talking, Brand toyed with a pencil and soon began to draw.

"Why, it's a church," cried the younger Mrs. Brand, his daughter-in-law.

The doctor smiled lovingly at his wife.

"Yes, dear," he said quietly, "my mind takes me back to the days when we were married, and I have been drawing the church as I remember it, in order to make the picture clear in my mind. You see, I have to be patient with my poor mind, for it has played tricks with me."

Then the conversation drifted to thrilling incidents of their life in England.

"You know, I remember a black velvet coat trimmed with sable," he murmured. "Did you ever have anything like that, mother?"

"Mother" Brand smiled. The coat he described was one in her wedding trousseau.

Commander Brand said his father was gradually regaining his memory.

"I have accounted now for his entire three years of wanderings," the son said. "The first year was spent in Brooklyn, the second in New York as an auditor in the Hotel Manhattan and the last in Camden."

K. OF C. CONCERT AT ODEON

Choral Club to Present Cantata, "Before the Dawn," Tonight.

The Knights of Columbus Choral Club at its concert at the Odeon tonight will present as principal offering "Before the Dawn," by W. Frank Harling. This cantata, which is described as a Persian idyl, is full of brilliant color and incidentally is one of the largest undertakings thus far essayed by the club.

Another number, on which there has been careful preparation, is the W. G. Hammond setting of Walter Scott's poem, "Lochinvar." The club will be assisted by Louis Torti, tenor, and H. Max Steindel, leader of the violoncello section of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. William Theo. Diebels will preside as director and Venor Henshie will play accompaniments. N

American Boys Visit Melbourne.

By the Associated Press.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 21.—Forty American boy tourists were entertained at the Parliament House by members of the Federal ministry today. G. F. Pearce, Minister of Defense, said the Government regarded the visit of the Americans as a "happy augury that the link between the great American republic and the Australian Commonwealth, which was forged on the battlefield, would not be likely torn asunder."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Abeken's Valuable Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I read with consuming interest your editorials of Jan. 7, entitled "The Road to Success," dealing with the most recent appointment of a Republican city committeeman to a quite remunerative position in our city administration—namely, Mr. Pape for Park Commissioner.

Please don't construe what I have to say as being in any manner a refutation of Mr. Pape's abilities to fill the chair. That is far from my thoughts. And, anyway, how could I, a mere outsider, in any way attempt to discredit Mr. Pape since John Schmoll already has admitted that Mr. Pape will make an excellent Park Commissioner.

Did not Mr. Pape restore harmony in the ranks of a very dissatisfied group of our dear city Republicans? Anyone capable of successfully performing such a stupendous task must, indeed, be quite qualified to fill any vacancy in our city government.

But if Mr. Schmoll had not so eagerly seized upon an opportunity to reward one of the faithful, and had investigated the qualifications of other men, there is no doubt in the minds of our best citizens that he would have made a wiser choice.

We have, working through the Park Department, one man who undoubtedly would make an excellent man for the place. With limited powers and meager financial backing, he has made a brilliant success of his work. He is none other than Director of Public Recreation Rodowe H. Abeken.

Since the department of recreation was originated by Dwight F. Davis, Abeken has steadily increased the use of his department, until it now stands out as the greatest of its kind in the United States. To prove this one needs only to know that every city in the country which is delving into municipal athletics and other forms of public recreation, such as public baths, swimming pools, playgrounds and community social centers, is following closely the plan of Mr. Abeken.

Thus I cannot understand why Mr. Schmoll does not recognize ability other than that of the successful organizer of mere political machines. But I suppose, as long as the voters of the city continue to permit the Republican City Committee to retain its leech-like hold on our civic affairs, they can expect nothing better than to have the City Committee members continuing to fill the most remunerative positions in the city hall.

CIVIC PRIDE.

For a Clean-Up at Clayton.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your expose of gambling in St. Louis County must meet with the approval of all decent people of this county. If the Attorney-General of Missouri will conduct an inquiry into gambling in this county he will be given some valuable information that will lead to the indictment of a few gentlemen.

The ring at Clayton has its slate all fixed up for this fall's election, but they are going to be sadly mistaken if they think they are going to elect anybody. Already several organizations of voters are being formed and when the proper time comes we will present a ticket for the voters that will be a credit to our citizenship.

This gang jumps from one office to another, and some of them have decided to run again, after serving two terms. The levying of contributions of $80 each on road bosses is also being investigated.

VOX POPULI.

Life After Death.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When such men as Crooks, Conan Doyle, Meyers, Stead, Lodge, Maeterlink, etc., have been convinced of survival after years of study and investigation, it seems that the average man could well afford to investigate the matter before saying "bosh!"

I certainly could never take any interest in any form of religion until I was convinced of survival and now I take a very keen interest in the right kind of religion, that is, religion backed by scientific facts.

Of course, there is a great deal of fraud perpetrated under the name of Spiritualism, but why condemn the genuine because there is counterfeit? We don't condemn all doctors because there are "quacks."

JOHN SHAW.

Pies for the White Wings.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In the Globe-Democrat we find an article with the headline "Street Cleaning Force May Be Cut." But we find an article in the Post-Dispatch with the headline "More Pay for Park Employes Provided in Alderman's Bill." The poor street cleaners in many cases are old men trying to earn an honest living and many are not able to do any other wok, but still they do all that is expected of them by the city, for which they receive the enormous sum of $2.40 a day; hardly car fare these days. Still they would cut the pay of these men in order to fatten the salary of those who already make a fair living wage of from $1500 to $3000 a year. Seven increases amount to exactly $5880 and yet they reduce the street cleaning force to reduce the city's payroll.

"CAN YOU BEAT IT?"

THE SCHOOL EMERGENCY.

It is gratifying to note that President MacDonald of the School Board and Mr. Hocker, attorney for the public school teachers, will thoroughly survey the resources of the school revenues and funds to determine what can be done to meet the emergency in the matter of teachers' salaries. That is the first step toward a clear understanding of the situation and the possibility of immediate betterment of teaching conditions.

The emergency is a real one, not only for the teachers, who face a great increase in living expenses without a corresponding increase of incomes, but for the city, which is confronted with the probability of losing competent teachers now in the schools and of discouraging talented young men and women from entering the profession to fill future needs.

If we do not have an adequate corps of trained, competent teachers the school system must be a failure. The level of the city's educational standards will decline. This corps is a fundamental necessity to meet the educational needs of the children of the city. Not only must we have now a trained, competent corps of teachers, but adequate additions to the teaching force must be attracted to the profession and to the work of our schools every year. It goes without saying that this cannot be done without adequate pay for those now in the schools and promise of adequate pay to meet all the reasonable requirements of teachers for immediate living costs and prospective rewards.

At a time when there is pressing need for an expansion of educational opportunities and a higher standard of public education we are confronted with the menace of diminishing opportunities and a declining standards. It is a menace the people of the city and their official representatives cannot afford to ignore. The life and progress of the community are threatened.

A promise of a definite adequate increase at the beginning of the next school year, the means for which, President McDonald says, may be found would help, but there is a present emergency which should be met with a fair increase of pay if possible. No effort or sacrifice of less essential ends should be spared to meet the fair demands of the teachers. Ways and means should be thoroughly searched. The possibility of having the money advanced on increased future revenues, without violating law, should be canvassed.

If the people of St. Louis and the people of Missouri do not awaken to the necessity of saving their schools, immeasurable disaster is inevitable.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR TEACHERS.

Speaking about the school teachers who are leaving that profession for more lucrative callings, let no one say that there is lack of opportunity for them in other honorable and profitable avenues of endeavor.

Take the hodcarrier profession, for instance. Professional hod carriers are not among the top notchers when it comes to salaries, but at that they get more than professional school teachers. Professional plumbers, blacksmiths and bricklayers get a great deal more than the hod carriers, but the teachers should not expect too much at once. They should remember that in devoting their lives to teaching they have failed to fit themselves for the better-rewarded hod carriers' calling. It is a start, and they may aspire to reach later on the more aristocratic levels represented by the plumbers, blacksmiths and bricklayers.

In Evenden's "Teachers' Salaries and Salary Schedules" there is a chart which shows what possibilities lie out before the school teacher who leaves off teaching for the love of teaching and reaches out for the rewards of more gainful industry. It is a comparison of the salaries paid teachers with the union scale of wages in other occupations. It shows that the salaries of elementary teachers in a section comprising Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin are $800; those of intermediate teachers a little less than $900 and those of high school teachers a little more than $1100, while the average wages in Cleveland and Chicago of bakers, hod carriers, carpenters, plumbers, glaziers, English compositors, printing machine tenders, blacksmiths, structural iron workers, inside wiremen, bricklayers, lathers and machinists, mounting in the order given, range from a little less than $1200 to about $1950.

In Missouri the salaries of teachers in the high schools and in the elementary schools of the medium-sized cities and of the small towns are far less than the low salaries of teachers shown on the chart. The salaries of rural teachers in Missouri, it is stated, average less than $500, or less than two-thirds of the average salaries of the elementary teachers in the section comprising Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

When the profession of teaching has been abandoned for more lucrative callings the condition of American society will be ideal. We'll not be bothered with school taxes or education. We can turn the schoolhouses into dance halls and movie shows.

THE PUBLIC EXCLUDED.

The Judiciary Committee of the New York Assembly, which is to try the five suspended Socialist members of that body, has refused to permit the public to be represented in the proceedings. It has slammed the door in the face of Charles E. Hughes, who appeared as spokesman of the New York Bar Association. It defended this ruling on the ground that it would recognize the presence of no delegations except as counsel for the defendants.

If the New York Assembly were a private club and the Judiciary Committee a board of governors to pass judgment on the conduct of certain members, such procedure would be entirely proper. But since the Assembly is an elective body, created by the public and responsible in every function to the public, its high-handed deportment is incomprehensible.

The whole affair is without a parallel in our history. It is condemned by all shades of opinion. Yet in the face of the nation's indignation at the outrage the Assembly appears determined to persist in its violation of justice and defiance of public sentiment. It does not know how to retract.

In support of its latest position it files an indictment against the defendants and proceeds on the assumption that accusation is proof of crime. The charges made against the five suspended assemblymen could be made against any other five members of the body, with the same humiliation and disgrace. The one essential difference in the unfortunate premises between the defendants and their accusers is that while the defendants are charged with conspiring to overthrow constitutional government, the New York Assembly has overthrown constitutional government and set up its own tyrannical verdicts instead.

It was not the injustice to the defendants, grave as that is, that brought Mr. Hughes to Albany. It was the assault upon one of our fundamental principles that brought him there. He was there, in truth, as attorney for the people, a defender of the American faith.

The American faith needs defenders.

REED-ING THE TREATY.

Senator Reed must be disappointed in his friends. To be sure, they observe the amenities. When he comes here they dutifully pay their respects. They arrange banquets in his honor. When he talks they applaud. But they don't believe what he says.

Here are good friends of the Senator—Reed appointees, in fact—who declare they cannot approve his opposition to the League covenant. If he insists on rejecting it, then it is the parting of the ways. They want the treaty ratified, and without further delay.

And it cannot be said of those friends that they "have not read the document." They have read it. But they refuse to Reed it.

NO FLU EPIDEMIC HERE.

There is no flu epidemic in St. Louis, and if we act on the excellent advice of Dr. Jordan, Assistant Health Commissioner, there isn't likely to be any.

Dr. Jordan says flu epidemics are mostly mental. We believe he is right. Anyhow, the public mind can easily be stampeded into believing the scourge is here. A few sensational reports and the thing would be done. The story of the hotel manager who phoned that his house was full of flu cases is in point. Investigation showed four persons suffering from flu. The other patients had ordinary colds. If that story had not been nipped in the bud we should have had the foundation for a flu epidemic. Anxiety and gossip would have done the rest.

It should be reassuring, too, to remember, as Dr. Jordan points out, that we are in far better shape to fight this disease this year than we were a year ago. There was then a serious shortage of physicians and nurses, so many of whom had not yet returned from overseas service. Undoubtedly, many persons died last year because it was impossible to get proper treatment and attention. The doctors and nurses are back now.

The thing to do is not to lose our heads. The usual health precautions should, of course, be observed. Avoid taking cold, if possible. But if you do catch a cold, get rid of it. Don't imagine you've got the flu. But take all possible precautions to avoid the development of the cold into pneumonia.

FREE VERSE.

THE other night I went out to the West End in a jitney.

This was the usual Ford in the inevitable state of collapse.

Had anything run into it there would not have been a sign of it left.

Or had it run into anything there would not have been a sign of it left.

Nevertheless, four of us piled into it, and the persistent vehicle headed into the west.

Some ride—that.

One of the passengers thought that because the radiator spouted steam there must be something frozen and we probably would not get very far.

Nothing to that.

You know one of those things will run as a jitney when it will no longer run as a Ford.

That is what jitneys are.

They are scrapped, or that is, jitneyed, Fords.

You get that, I take it.

Very well.

It was a grave mistake to think we would not get very far.

We went further than any other machine going west.

Not farther—further.

You know farther relates to distance.

Further relates to something else.

You see the distinction?

We ran most of the time on the left side of the street, getting back on our side only when we had to.

We exceeded the speed limit every inch of the way.

We threaded our way through them and went on.

There was a truck coming on that side.

The man on the truck stood on his brake, the truck shuddered and slid—and the jitney slipped through a hole a weasel would stick in.

We wondered if there was not a traffic cop ahead who would stop us.

We saw none.

It struck me that this driver had probably killed them all on his last trip east.

Someone asked him what his hurry was.

He said nothing.

Others thought he ought to be arrested.

He still said nothing.

Everybody was exasperated, and one man in getting out said he was glad to get out of a car driven by a crazy man.

Even then the driver said nothing.

He had a case, but there was no time to explain it.

I thought of it afterward.

You see his car was very old.

If you know physics, you know why, when he ran it at all, it was necessary to run it like hell beating tan bark.

That was what kept it from coming apart.

So, after all, this driver was not trying to kill us.

He was the very opposite of reckless.

He had probably been an aviator.

He knew what would happen if that old jitney went into a tail spin, and he never let that end of it sag once.

Most of us, though we seem not to know what we are doing, really do.

SIC SEMPER.

AT HOME WITH THE BRAVE.

THE threatened collapse of local government, which has been considered to be our best safeguard against tyranny, probably follows the exhaustion of human patience. Thus, St. Louis County, which is permitted to run her own police affairs, is unable to suppress gambling. County officers pass the buck from one to the other until the people of the county weary of chasing it. Then someone appeals to the State. The county won't—maybe the State will. So perishes, because of its inefficiency, the thing without which, so we are told, no truly democratic form of government can exist. Since the Interstate Commerce act of 1887 one centralizing law after another has passed Congress and stood the test in the United States Supreme Court. The states won't—maybe the Federal Government will. So it is with the League of Nations, to which so many of us are indisposed to surrender any part of our independence. The individual nations won't—maybe the world will. Is it any wonder that we have just had to deport a few people who do not believe in any government at all? One must be of stout courage to be braver than that. Fortunately, most of us are of stout courage. We work hard for more laws, and then seek to repose responsibility in some incorruptible quarter. This, of course, is some faraway place, just as in spiritual recourse we have always reposed responsibility with gods whom nobody could get at. It is a great life, if you don't weaken. If you weaken, you are deported. That seems not to be very much of a life. You are landed in a cold place and have to make the first part of the overland journey in sleighs. Let us stand steadfastly with those good people of St. Louis County who still believe the county is able to set its own house in order. We have not heard of any such people, but there are always a few idealists about.

Someone intimates that the gulf opened in the last presidential election between East and West is going to widen in the next presidential contest. He thinks the West is for the League of Nations, and only waits to express its opinion that Mr. Wilson has stood upon much higher ground than those who oppose him. Another very good observer asks us to recall with what reluctance the West yielded to the demand that we enter the war—a demand from the East. Nor have we forgotten how little sympathy there was in the East four years ago for Mr. Wilson's patience with Mexico, whereas the West steadfastly forebore with him. From all of which it seems that the peace spirit in America is much stronger in the West than it is in the East. What appears likely is that in the forthcoming campaign the Republicans will covertly stand for war with Mexico. If they do, and the Democrats run anybody who can beat a fat man up hill, the election will turn out exactly as the last one did—that is, the Republicans will win up to about midnight, when we shall begin to hear from the West.

It looks as if the flu were to catch us high and dry this time.

IF—

IF ALL our thoughts were kindly ones,
And every breath a prayer,
If every tongue would utter praise;
If every heart were fair;
If every eye would see but light,
As down life's path we go,
If every mind would grasp the truth,
Each friend would firmer be.
This world would be a paradise
For you, my dear, and me—
For thoughts, like seeds, take root and live.
We reap them as we sow.
Then let us scatter flowers the while,
That thistles may not grow.

OVERCOATS FROM TWO WARS.

From the Home Sector.

FOLKS who can look back into the early '70s without suffering from the astigmatism of too distant reminiscence—you have to be at least 50 to do it—will tell you of the municipality of blue service overcoats that used to appear annually as soon as winter bared its tooth. They were particularly affected by hackmen, who permitted the capes to stream behind and trail splases of light blue, red or yellow for the edification of the pedestrian populace. Thousands of models of those overcoats are still in existence, for one of them generally drapes the bronze figure at parade rest atop the Soldier's Monument in the center of the village green.

Moth and rust have done their bit; the taxi has supplanted the coach; the hackmen have gone the way of all flesh. A new era dawned, a new war broke, a new peace blessed the earth (in a manner of speaking), and a new crop of army overcoats, O. D. and not blue, was demobilized at a propitious moment.

The physically fit American manhood of this winter of 1919-1920 may be divided into four groups: (a) hardy souls who do not wear overcoats; (b) fortunate souls who have overcoats left over from 1917; (c) J. P. Morgan, Charles M. Schwab and John D. Rockefeller Jr., and (d), those who still wear the government issue.

How many persons are comprised in the last category there is no means of telling. Some of the garments are camouflaged under blue dye, flossy nonregulation belts, fur or near-fur collars. Most of them, however—and their number is hundreds of thousands—retain unaltered and undisguised the cut, shade and fit which the quartermaster corps gave them. Even the Old Abe, with his claws full of arrows and olive branches and his beak hard-a-starboard, still beams dully forth from their fronts. And, overcoats costing what overcoats do, long may he beam!

"THE THUNDERER" SPEAKS SPANISH.

From the Chicago News.

NEXT to Americans the British have been known as the people least inclined to cultivate the language of foreign nations as a means of promoting foreign trade. Over Britain, however, has come a change. The London Times has learned Spanish and proposes henceforth to speak it in a monthly supplement devoted to trade between Great Britain and the Spanish-speaking nations. When such an intensely British institution as the Times makes such a concession and puts itself in the vanguard of trade promotion with Latin-America, there can be no doubt that Great Britain intends to maintain her trade and prestige in that field.

The first issue of this supplement shows that the Times speaks very much to the point in Spanish. It does not "thunder," according to its historical traditions; it attempts to inform, persuade, understand. It publishes special articles about British products and particularly those calculated to appeal to the Latin-American trade. There are reviews of finance and market quotations. There is an article pointing out the chance Latin-Americans have to make money in the development of manufacture and export of oil-bearing products. There is a special article on the commercial development of Venezuela, written by a distinguished diplomat of that country, and the promise of a series devoted to other Latin-American nations.

Lord Northcliffe prides himself on ability to see and seize the dominant thought and trend of British ambition. When he puts such emphasis on Latin-American trade, it is well for American merchants and manufacturers to realize that it will not do to lag in the competition in that fruitful field.

Women's Gowns Are to Be Cut! Low in Front, Low in Back And All the Arm Showing

The National Wholesale Dry Goods Association Confesses That Lack of Labor, High Prices of Materials and Exportation Will Be Responsible for Milady's Scanty Frocks.

By FAY STEVENSON.

JUST because you notice they're wearing 'em low in front, low in back and all the arm showing, don't cry "Paris!" Because women's gowns are to be cut at both ends, because they will not only be abbreviated at the bottom but have a great "cut" also at the other extremity—the neck and sleeves—for once don't credit this to gay Paree but rather to lack of labor, high prices of material and exportation.

According to the opinion of members of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association in convention in New York, the shortage in production of materials in accordance to demand, the high prices and the labor troubles will make it necessary to show much, yes, a great deal, and the chief plan of designers will be "every little bit helps, every inch skimped from one dress helps to make another!"

Perhaps even our strictest New England grandmothers would not object to Dame Fashion this year—no matter how ultra she may prove—if we go upon the principle of saving every "scrap" of cloth. At any rate, this is just what we are going to do, according to H. Clay Miller, president of the Jobbers' Association of Dress Fabric Buyers.

"Yes, indeed, every inch of cloth counts this year," declared Mr. Miller. "While it is true England and France are sending some materials, it is also true that we never had such demand for exports as this year. Our production has doubled since 1914, but so have our exports! Therefore, one of the best ways to make material meet the demands of America and Europe is to abbreviate.

"In fact, there will be practically no sleeves, there being placed in the armholes of garments only a slight band extending a few inches downward. Likewise, the necks will be lower, and although some folk may gasp at what fashions which have prevailed in the way of 'low neck' will be considered quite conservative before the summer is over. Low in front, low in back, and all the arm showing seems to be the watchword, and in this way thousands of yards of material will be saved.

"Of course, I am more interested in the textures themselves," continued Mr. Miller, "than the designing end of it, but from what I have heard there will be practically no sleeves, exceedingly low necks and skirts are going up in price as well as in the number of inches from the ankle."

"But we have been told that prices are going down," I insisted, more interested in the rise of prices than the rise of skirts.

"No sane man can reason that these unconscionable prices can endure," replied Mr. Miller, "and yet no juggling of figures can justify the fact that the prices of textiles are relatively higher than any other commodity. We have hopes of prices coming down eventually, but for 1920 and 1921 I cannot say much. At present textiles are higher than any other staple. Foods advanced from pre-war prices on an average of 100 per cent, building materials, 40 per cent; furniture, 100 per cent; shoes, 150 per cent, but the price of textiles advanced 300 to 500 per cent.

"Of course it is the labor question which is really making dress fabrics soar, and when you combine that with the present export demand there is little hope for change in prices at once," continued Mr. Miller. "But there is one consolation!"

"And that is?"

"Milady can be clothed in silk far cheaper than she can in woolen. Silk looms in the country are weaving more silk cloth for women's dresses than woolen for the same purpose. Never has there been such a demand for silk as in the last three years. The reasons assigned for this are that silk is cheaper than wool, that it is more adaptable to design and to color effects, and that it can be made over more readily. The report from dress manufacturers indicated that the number of silk dresses now being made is half again as large as the number of woolen dresses. Many of the tailored spring suits are to be made of silk instead of wool.

"And what about the colors of these silks? Are they to be gay or gray?"

So there you are, ladies!

No doubt a number of you wouldn't think of wearing such shocking clothes if merely Fashion so decreed, but, of course, if an inch from your own adds an inch to some other woman's gown that alters the condition entirely.

THE LIFE OF A DEBUTANTE TOLD IN PICTURES.

By Marguerite Martyn.

ON Monday nights just anybody who has the price of admission plus the war tax may gaze upon those favorites of fortune, the choice new buds upon the floral stem of society, the debutantes. For exclusive as are the other diversions, the debutante set patronizes the theater upon the opening night of the week's engagement of the best play or musical comedy in town. Either Monday night or Saturday night, for sometimes, as in the case of this winter, where festivities have been so numerous, the social calendar so crowded, the busy buds must wait until the off night at the end of the week and bring up the rear with the theater. Thus has it come about that Saturday night's audience is almost as fashionable as Monday night's at the theater.

Anybody may look upon the debutantes, also anybody sitting within a radius of several rows can hear them, willy nilly, whether or no he desires to do so, for nowadays the fashionable theater party does not confine itself to the boxes, where its gossip and repartee might prove less distracting to the rest of the audience, but for some reason, perhaps because it believes itself safer from the stares of the unelect, is usually occupies a row of seats in the parquet.

Presumably the debutante needs to keep in touch with progress in the theater. It is necessary to be conversant with the newest play and with the musical comedy, by way of which so many of the newest smart phrases, costumes and dances are introduced.

The observer well may wonder how the debutante absorbs the knowledge she does of these matters in the short time she is present and with attention seemingly never on the stage. Her party arrives after its dinner party elsewhere, somewhere in the midst of the first act, and departs, escaping the jostling crowd, somewhere in the midst of the last act, and in the interim conducts a continuous counter entertainment to the performance on the other side of the footlights.

In the women's dressing room, the still uninvited observer may behold her, with an array of toilet articles, produced from some mysterious source, engaged upon a toilet, as if, at this hour, she were anticipating a still more important engagement.

And indeed she is just starting upon another lap of her day of dancing. Across the way at the hotel or at the club farther away, a supper party is in prospect, after which dancing, or it may be a formal ball, awaits her.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALLMENTS.

Philip Maxwell captures a fugitive who has killed a guest at the Maxwell home and who discloses that the dead man, known as Vincent Lee, was in reality Maurice Dubois, over whom Maxwell and his wife parted. Maxwell thinks his wife dead but learns from his prisoner that she is alive and wants him.

AFTER all, it was a lighter task than he had feared. There were many invitations, mostly hailing from Bohemia, a few bills, and several letters from women. These he felt justified in destroying, with a brief note of their addresses. But there was one over which he lingered. It was signed Maud, and at the sight of the name his heart gave a sudden throb. He read it through eagerly. The handwriting might be hers—at any rate, there was a similarity! At least he would soon know. Some one must tell her of this awful thing—he would go himself. It would be only ordinary humanity. And if it should, indeed, be his Maud—well, who could tell? Maxwell was a proud man, and the separation from his wife had been the one great blow of his life.

For the first time the thought of reconciliation and forgiveness assumed a definite place in his consideration. She must have been terribly tempted, she must have bitterly repented. Who was he after all so immaculate as to stand aside forever from a woman who had sinned, if, indeed, she were repentant?

CHAPTER III.

MAXWELL, for an unemotional man, found himself curiously disturbed as he walked along Bloomsbury street a week later, towards the address of the letter which he had found upon the dead man a week ago. He was in a part of London of which he knew nothing. The secrets of those tall, gloomy rows of closely-built houses were hidden from him. He only knew that in one of them dwelt the woman who had written this letter, the woman who had been living in close association with Maurice Dubois, and whose handwriting had brought to him that sudden rush of old memories.

He had not written to her—he had undertaken this journey at the first possible moment. If he had written, there was a risk that he might have learned nothing. Afterwards he wondered at the eagerness which he undoubtedly felt to visit this woman. Was it destiny, he wondered, which had provided that the events of this day should change the whole tenor of his life?

He had not arrived in London until 2 o'clock, and it was barely 3 when he reached his destination. The door was opened after a few minutes' delay by an ill-dressed, untidy-looking servant, who answered his inquiry glibly enough. Yes, the lady was in! He could come upstairs. She was sure to be disengaged. He followed her up the stairs onto a stuffy little landing, and into a room which bore many signs of feminine occupation, such as Maxwell was not accustomed to see displayed. After that first swift glance around, he knew that the likeness of this woman's handwriting to his wife's was an accident. She had never been, could never become, the inhabitant of such a room as this. Even as he was telling himself this, an inner door opened and a woman came in. She was a complete stranger to him.

She was dressed not too tidily in a loose gown, and her copper golden hair, which to a man more versed in such matters would inevitably have suggested peroxide, was coiled up in fluffy disorder at the back of her head. She was good-looking in rather a showy way, but her face had the pastiness which comes from the habitual use of cosmetics, and her eyebrows were obviously darkened.

"You are Mrs. Montrose, I believe?" he said. "My name is Maxwell. I am sorry to say that I have called to bring you some rather bad news."

She looked at him anxiously.

"Well, what is it?" she said. "I don't know you, do I? Are you from Madame Melisse? Because, if so, it is no use bothering me. I haven't got"——

He stopped her.

"No; I live in Cornwall," he said, "and I found a letter from you on a man who met with an accident near my house."

"What? Vincent Lee?" she exclaimed.

"Yes! I am sorry to tell you that the accident was a very serious one—in fact, he is dead."

She flopped into an easy chair, and looked at him for a moment in dazed sort of way. He was much relieved to find that she did not scream or show any signs of fainting.

"Dead!" she repeated. "Him dead! Oh, my! Good gracious!"

"He was shot," Mr. Maxwell explained.

"Who shot him?" she asked quickly.

"The man escaped," he answered. "We do not know who he was."

"Poor Vincent!" she murmured. "Poor old chap!"

"I gathered," Maxwell continued, "from the letter which I found in his possession, and which it became my unhappy duty to examine, that you and he were upon somewhat intimate terms. I thought it best, therefore, to bring you the news myself, I am sorry to be the bearer of it."

She looked at him with a grim smile upon her lips.

"You needn't be," she said.

"I—I don't quite understand," Maxwell said, puzzled.

"Didn't I speak plainly?" she asked. "Well, is this plain enough: It isn't bad news at all, and I'm glad he's dead. I'm glad someone had the pluck to shoot him. I sometimes wonder that I didn't do it myself! I have felt like it many a time."

Maxwell was shocked, and his face showed it.

"Oh, you perhaps didn't know him," she went on. "I did. He was one of the wickedest men that ever breathed. He did evil for the love of it. I knew him, years ago—when things were different. I sometimes think that he only kept on with me for the pleasure of taunting me with misery—for the pleasure of seeing me suffer. Oh, he was a bad man."

She was crying now, but it was for herself—not for him. Maxwell remained silent. He was heartily sorry that he had come. He was too horrified to say anything.

"He came to see me," she went on, "now and then, because he knew that I hated him. It amused him. If I had cared for him he would never have come to me. It was his way. I am glad that he is dead. He will do no more harm. God knows how he will answer for all he has done already."

She sprang up from her easy chair, and walked up and down the room with clenched fingers.

"You don't understand, perhaps. You look like a good man. There are some in the world, thank God. I am not good—and it was his fault. You don't understand the side of life to which I belong. It is the underneath side. It is splendid to think that there are some men who loathe it. You look strong and manly and good. Have you a wife?"

"I had," he said softly. "I have lost her."

"What did you say your name was?" she asked him suddenly.

"Maxwell—Roscombe Maxwell," he answered.

Her face lit up with a strange excitement. She looked around at the closed door. Then she came close up to him.

"Did you kill him?" she whispered.

He started a little at the abruptness of the question.

"I? No. Why do you ask that?"

"He was your enemy."

"I did not know it until after he was dead, or he would never have set foot over my threshold," he answered. "He called himself Vincent Lee."

She was obviously disappointed.

RESPECT your job as a Home Maker and plan for it as a business man would. This does not add to the work but when well established it greatly lessens the anxieties and increases the satisfactions. Most housekeepers would be glad to systematize their work if they had a workable plan put up to them.

Think—what would a business man do? He would plan to save time and labor. The housekeeper must also do the same. To avoid surprises that are apt to knock things out of joint, put the plans for the work on paper. It becomes very interesting once it is mapped out. Plan for the day and for the week and once they are made, stick to the plans.

Order all staples in advance and record every purchase. This is not difficult because very soon a housekeeper sees that these may be ordered not oftener than once a week and there is no hesitation because you have records to turn to which remove any doubt regarding amounts to be bought. A special arrangement must be made for purchasing such perishables as milk, ice, fresh fruit, lettuce, etc., but keep a card for each.

A food card for registering each commodity such as the one illustrated above is full enough for the ordinary household. At a glance the cost per month can be secured, for totals are always registered. Go into it as fully as you wish, writing the name of the food in the upper right hand corner and using a different colored index card. Study some system, and when you secure one that suits your case stick to it.

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.

The Real Prince and the Real Princess—Part I.

PRINCESS ANETA'S stepmother was not fond of her because she had a daughter of her own she wished to marry to a Prince, and while her daughter, whose name was Ritta, was pretty, she was not as beautiful as the Princess, so the stepmother always found some excuse for getting the Princess Aneta out of the way whenever a Prince was a guest at the palace.

One morning as the King and Queen were eating their breakfast a messenger came with the news that Prince Otto was on his way to the palace with his attendants to pay his respects to the Princess.

The Queen knew that the only way she could put her daughter in the place of Princess Aneta was to use some trick and, being very clever at that sort of thing, said to the King, "O that we might find some way of proving that the Prince really loves the Princess before we give her to him."

The King said that he wished they might, but that he felt sure the Prince would love Aneta, as she was so beautiful.

The scheming Queen smiled and said, "If your majesty would leave it to me I am sure I could arrange it so we would be sure he was marrying her for love and not because she is a Princess, for, of course, Prince Otto does not want your wealth—he is so rich himself. It is a Princess he wants for a wife, but he must first prove his love."

"I shall be very glad if you can prove it," said the King. "What is your plan?"

"We will dress my daughter in the royal robes and let her receive the Prince," said the Queen. "The Princess shall stand close by dressed as an attendant and as she is so much more beautiful than my poor daughter the Prince will, of course, have eyes for no one else, which will prove he would love her if she were not a Princess."

The King smiled with delight at this clever idea and said at once it should be done, so without saying a word to Princess Aneta the Queen called her daughter and told her to dress herself in the robes of the Princess and be ready to receive the Prince Otto.

"He will have eyes for no one but a Princess," said the Queen, "and even if he does see Aneta he will never think of marrying her. You shall yet be a Queen, my love. Now, go and dress."

Ritta did not need a second bidding, for she wished as much as her mother desired it to become a Queen, and Princess Aneta, who was used by this time to being ordered about by her stepmother, meekly gave up her royal robe to her stepsister and dressed herself in the clothes of one of her attendants.

Now it happened that Prince Otto was as clever as the Queen, though he was not bad at heart. He only wished to be married for love, and not because he was a rich Prince. So when he was near the palace he changed clothes with one of his servants—a handsome fellow—and made the servant ride on his horse into the palace grounds.

Tomorrow I will tell you what happened when Ritta met the Prince and thought him the real one.

HOME-MADE CEMENT

WHEN metal kitchen utensils spring a leak at an inconvenient moment and there is no ready-mixed cement in the house, make a good substitute as follows:

Mix a little white of egg with fine coal or wood ashes until it makes a thick paste. Put this over the hole on the outside of the utensil and hold over heat until the paste bakes hard.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By Helen Rowland.

JUDGING from the things a man fancies he is going to do with a raisin, prohibition must be the fairy godmother of invention.

The hardest thing about having your own loving husband try to deceive you is to keep from hurting his pride by letting him know that he hasn't succeeded.

Once upon a time a lover began his sonnets, "Fair Lady;" Later they began, "Sweet Girl!" then "Oh, You Kid!" and now it's "Dear Old Thing!"

Why is it that a successful professional woman so often treats her husband as though she thought of him as her better one-half-of-one-per-cent?

No, Geraldine, money won't buy love, but it will buy you a husband and a divorce—which is about all some people ever seem to get out of the average "love match," anyhow.

Being "married" is largely a state of mind. Some men are mentally and sentimentally bachelors forever—no matter how often they go through the wedding ceremony.

A man is like a pigeon. Give him plenty to eat, a comfortable house, and the freedom of the whole wide world to fly about in, and he will never desert you—for long.

Age has only one heartache—the bitter knowledge that it can no longer feel the heartaches we suffered from in youth.

The Jealous Wife

By Sophie Irene Loeb

Woman's Happiness Comes From Holding Her Husband by Heart Strings, Not Apron Strings

MANY letters come to me from wives who get suspicious of their husbands. They allow their feelings to run away with their better judgment and usually make mountains out of mole hills. In most of these cases there has been very little cause, but they have aggravated the situation to such an extent as to make a breach which was difficult to overcome.

One such an instance that might cause trouble if too much is made of it is embodied in the following letter:

"Will you please tell me if I am right or wrong? My husband having just returned from his home town, where on business, he met one of his old girl friends. She has given him her photo.

"He has shown it to me. She looks very nice.

"Now this has made me feel strange. While I think only of my husband and he does of me, this seems to hurt me. Am not jealous of him, never having any cause to be, and love him too much. He wants the picture, but I don't think that he ought to keep it."

I would say to this woman something like this:

In the first place, the girl friend of the husband was foolish and silly and thoughtless to give the man her photograph. But the very fact that he brought it home and showed it to his wife, and, as she states they are true in all to each other, it would seem there is little reason, as yet, for her to be suspicious of anything more than the commonplace renewal of an old friendship.

I think the worst mistake such a woman could make would be to ask her husband to destroy the picture in such other way to show resentment. Such an act might very readily aggravate the matter and cause an estrangement that might have been averted.

After all, marriage is largely a matter of tact, tolerance, and tenacity. Sometimes a trifling thing like this if persisted in and magnified will cause either a husband or a wife to turn to the friend about whom there has been a quarrel and thus cause trouble that had never been anticipated.

With a little tact and tolerance this wife can treat the matter of the picture in a friendly way and let it go at that, until something more serious is experienced.

By the tenacity of her great love for him she can hold that which is hers much more readily by displaying a gracious and kindly spirit toward his old friends rather than by showing him jealousy that is perhaps unwarranted.

CARAMEL flavoring is delicious and can be made at home, which is preferable to paying the present high prices for flavoring extracts. Put one cup of sugar in an iron saucepan and heat until well browned, stirring constantly. As caramel burns easily it is well to continue the stirring after removing the dish from the fire and until all danger of burning in the hot dish is past. Before the mixture hardens add one-fourth cup of hot water and cook until it is the consistency of thick syrup. Bottle it for use in custards, ice cream and other desserts.

A cheap vegetable dish is made up of creamed carrots and the peas left over from a former meal. If there is any left use it for next day's soup.

You can peel an orange quickly if you soak it in hot water for five minutes.

When the tan shoes become muddy rub the stains with slices of raw potato. When dry, polish in the usual manner.

A Dozen Advance Styles in Spring Hats

"UP in front and down in back" is the slogan which the Milliners' Association of America is applying to the new spring fashions in hats. These girls were selected with the utmost care for their hat-wearing propensities. The public will not see these hats until Feb. 4, when they will be exhibited publicly at the Millinery Show in New York. These hats are fashioned of horsehair, oilcloth, patent leather, celluloid, Arabian grasses woven into straw and varnished. There are some blacks and African browns and grass greens, as well as pastel shades. The crowns will be soft and shaped like a balloon; collars and handbags to match.

Dempsey Will Appeal to Court if Slacker Charges Continue, Manager Asserts

In Letter to Jimmy Bronson, Manager of A. E. F. Champion Martin, Jack Kearns Warns Him to Discontinue Propaganda That Is Injuring Titleholder's Reputation.

By John E. Wray.

WHEN Bob Martin, heavyweight boxing champion of the allied armies, meets Jack Dempsey, world's titleholder, at some future day not yet agreed upon, there will probably result a fight that, for sheer desperation, will rival Custer's last stand.

Charges connected with the attitude of the American Legion posts toward Dempsey, aggravated by Martin's manager, Jimmy Bronson, unquestionably have contributed to arouse animosity in both men. If they should enter the ring before the subject has had opportunity to die away it will result in a FIGHT of the old school, wherein sportsmanship will hide its head and the desire to do bodily harm will flame up in the respective adversaries.

The situation is a peculiar one in that although Dempsey was permitted to fight Willard for the world's championship with scarcely a word said against him, now, at this late day, the A. E. F. soldiers, and American Legion Posts, acting independently, are passing resolutions condemning Dempsey and endeavoring to prevent his half-million dollar event with Carpentier.

Bronson, as told in previous issues of the Post-Dispatch, has been circulating letters stating that the legion is trying to arrange a Martin-Carpentier contest, to substitute for the Dempsey title event.

Kearns Threatens Legal Action.

Manager Kearns, for Dempsey, has written to Jimmy Bronson ordering him to desist and charging him with using the name of the American Legion, with selfish ends in view. He threatens legal action. Kearns' letter in part reads:

"Your action is the most outrageous ever attempted by the manager of a rival fighter. Real sportsmen do not have to adopt those methods and if there are any more moves like that on your part I will be forced to take the proper legal action.

"Dempsey followed the dictation of his Government and acted according to the instructions of his draft board and the chairman of said draft board, John D. Hogan, states over his own signature that Dempsey was more valuable to the field in which he was placed than if he were carrying a gun. I must insist upon immediate assurance from you that you will stop at once the propaganda, which you have instituted as an individual member of the American Legion, to bring nation-wide condemnation upon Jack Dempsey and to use the American Legion merely and solely for your own personal profit and gain and to capitalize for your own selfish interest the American Legion."

With Hogan's statement in view, it would appear that some of the publications bandying the word "slacker" too freely in connection with Dempsey, may have some difficulty in explaining why it is not libelous.

Martin Would Box Dempsey.

As to Bronson and Martin, there is a seeming justification for Kearns' charge of selfish motives. The best evidence of this is that Bronson told the Post-Dispatch that he would train Martin for a bout with Dempsey—with the very man, in other words, who is supposed to be unfit to enjoy the fruits of a world's championship.

In Bronson's mind it would be all right for Dempsey to get a $200,000 purse for fighting Martin, but it would be all wrong if the champion made a fortune by meeting Carpentier.

However, the Dempsey-Carpentier fight is not near at hand. Unexpected causes of delay have arisen and it is possible articles of agreement will not be signed for several weeks—perhaps months—and that the bout will not take place within nine months.

With this possibility in mind, a Buffalo (N. Y.) club is trying to schedule a contest between Harry Greb of Pittsburg and Jack Dempsey for May 30. Although Buffalo is in a State that does not permit boxing publicly, the old club system is successfully operating there.

Greb has already signed for the bout and Kearns is considering the match. Dempsey should take on a few contests before he meets Carpentier to get his "hand in." Greb is a light-heavyweight. It is doubtful if he would weigh over 165 or 170 pounds for Dempsey. He will therefore approximate Georges Carpentier in size. In activity he would probably surpass the French champion. Thus the bout would give the title-holder a workout of exactly the sort he needs—a pursuit race.

American Legion Will Take No Action as to Dempsey's War Status

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 21. ANSWERING a letter from Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight boxing champion, requesting that the American Legion take steps to prevent criticism of Dempsey's war record, Franklin D. Oller, national commander of the legion, yesterday wrote Mr. Kearns that it was not considered a function of the American Legion to pass on the exemption of men from military service during the war. The letter follows:

"The national headquarters of the American Legion contemplates no action in reference to the subject matter of your letter of Jan. 14.

"It is not a function of the American Legion to review acts of the Government during the war in connection with the classification of men subject to the selective service act, or to review the claims of any individual who finds it necessary to justify his exemption from military service."

SPORT SALAD by L. C. Davis

Old Songs Made New.

WHEN the worms begin to turn,
And my coppers start to burn;
When for you my heart doth yearn,
To you I will return.
Then my bonnie blue-eyed lass
I will fill myself a glass,
And I'll drink to you
With a heart that's true
When the worms begin to turn.

Tad Jones will serve as head coach at Yale without compensation. And if he makes good he'll probably get a bonus of 20 per cent.

"Fyfe Sold to National League." If Fyfe doesn't make good he'll probably be drummed out of the league.

The White Sox want more money this year. They wanted more last year, but the Reds wouldn't let 'em have it.

If Jack Dempsey had an overseas cap to throw in the ring he would stand ace high with the American Legion.

HOW COME?

Fight managers always refer to their fighter as "we." In spite of the fact that the manager runs no risk of having his "I" knocked out.

Ten years ago Babe Ruth was a homeless orphan. Every time he thinks of that he makes a home run.

About the first thing Sunday would do would be to try and put a crimp in Sunday baseball.

There is Sunday baseball and Sunday baseball.

Billy used to play Sunday baseball until he saw the possibilities of the sawdust game.

Minor Leaguers Scrambling for St. Louis Castoffs

Owners in City Daily Trying to Land Surplus Talent From Cards and Browns.

Because of the scarcity of minor league ball players, managers and owners of teams in the smaller circuits are visiting St. Louis almost daily with the view of coaxing surplus talent from the Browns and Cardinals. Yesterday three minor leaguers were in this city. They were H. J. Benson, owner of the San Antonio club; Jack Hendricks, manager of Indianapolis, and Bob Coleman, Mobile leader.

Hendricks was successful in that he landed Herman Bronkie, veteran third sacker from the Browns. Bronkie is a former A. A. star and probably will cover the far corner for Indianapolis.

The Cardinals also announced a release, Jakie Miller, youthful outfielder, being sent to Wichita Falls of the Texas league. Miller was with the Knot-Holers last spring, but was sent to Mobile for further seasoning. With the Cardinals again releasing him, Coleman was anxious to get him back, but was unsuccessful in his efforts.

However there is a chance that Coleman will receive some other rookies from Rickey.

Owner Benson of the San Antonio club, who visited the American Association meeting, stopped over in an effort to get exhibition games. Business Manager Bob Quinn gave him a tentative list of dates and it is probable that several of these will be accepted. Assistant Secretary Clarence Lloyd of the Cards said there was a good chance of the Cards playing several games with the Bronchos.

Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals departed on a trip yesterday, but is expected back in a few days. The jaunt is of a baseball nature, but how important was not announced.

SOCCER OFFICIALS TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

Winton Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer League, has called a special meeting for tonight, when final plans for the playing of the fourth round U. S. F. A. cup game between the Ben Millers and the McKeesport (Pa.) eleven will be made. It is probable the contest will be staged Feb. 1.

Next Sunday the Ben Millers will oppose the Innisfalls in the second and feature game, while the Screw Co. battles the Scullins in the opener.

McCARTHY AND HANSON TO MEET IN ALTON BOUT

Battling Leo McCarthy of St. Louis will box Jack Hanson of Alton in the feature bout of the boxing show to be given at Alton by the American Legion Post on Jan. 29. Frankie Dwyer and Leo Oaner will meet in the semiwindup. A preliminary and a battle royal also are on the card. Tommy Sullivan will referee and Duke Sheehan will serve as announcer.

Both Hanson and McCarthy were members of the 138th (St. Louis) Infantry.

Ruth Can Surpass Cobb's Batting Mark, Ed Barrow Declares

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. ED BARROW, manager of the Boston Red Sox, dropped in at the American League office today for a few moments, and, as usual, "Babe" Ruth was the subject of comment. In discussing a report from California that the home run king had decided to choke up his bat and go after Ty Cobb's batting percentage of .400, Barrow said:

"More than once last season I begged and pleaded with Ruth to 'choke up' his bat, confident that in this way he would improve his batting 50 per cent, but it did no good. He simply could not withstand the temptation to take a long hold and a full swing, in the hope of another home run.

"All the good resolutions in the world will not change that fellow. Let him go up to the plate with one or more men on the bases and the fans roaring for a home run, and he'll forget them—I mean the resolutions—and go back to a healthy swing. I honestly believe he is capable of heading the batting list in the American League, even above Ty Cobb, if he used a little more science in his hitting."

Bob Martin Stops Moran in 3 Rounds

A. E. F. Heavyweight Champion Sends Rival to Met With Heavy Right to Jaw.

DES MOINES, Io., Jan. 21.—Bob Martin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion, added another knockout victory to his string here last night, when he stopped Jack Moran in the third round of a slug-fest. It was Martin's second victory over Moran via the knockout route, he having stopped him in the third round in a contest at St. Paul two months ago.

Moran slugged freely with Martin until near the close of the first round, when a solid right to the jaw sent him to the mat, the bell saving him from a knockout. Moran made a determined stand in the second round, but a right to the jaw put him down for the full count in the next session.

In another bout Joe McGowan of Kansas City, a former navy champion battler, stopped Carl Leonard in three rounds. The men are lightweights.

Y. M. C. A. Defeats Japris.

Municipal basketball followers were surprised last night when the Y. M. C. A. basketball five gained a 19 to 17 victory over the Japris at the Washington University gymnasium. The Alpen Braus defeated the Weekes, 31 to 17, in the other contest.

Pete French of the winning team was high scorer in the feature contest, with three field goals and three free throws.

Reynolds Throws Mahmout.

Dr. C. W. Bassett, M. A. A. Athletic Director, Resigns

Physician Who Quits After 14 Years' Service Says Work Interfered With Practice.

After 14 years service as director of athletics of the Missouri Athletic Association, Dr. C. W. Bassett has resigned from his position and is no longer connected with that organization in an official capacity.

Dr. Bassett submitted his resignation last month, stating that he would be unable to continue his duties because of their conflict with his practice as a physician. The resignation went into effect on Jan. 15.

His place is taken by Karl Bauer, who has served as swimming coach of the M. A. A. for the last three years. Bauer replaced Tom Whitaker when the latter departed for the Pacific Coast. Since then he has been in charge of the swimming pool.

The athletic department of the M. A. A. hereafter will be supervised by Bauer and his assistant, Oscar Wurtz. Wurtz will instruct classes in gymnasium work and games.

The passing of Dr. Bassett means the departure of the last member of the old M. A. C. regime which fostered representative athletics. The former director was in charge of such nationally-recognized contests as the 26-mile marathon, the 10-mile river swim, and the annual indoor track and field carnival. Famous M. A. C. track, swimming and water polo teams were organized under his direction.

AMERICAN GIRL AND BRITON DEFEAT FRENCH MIXED DOUBLES TEAM

CANNES, France, Tuesday, Jan. 21.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the American tennis player, and J. G. Ritchie, the English veteran, today defeated Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French champion, and M. La Barran, by a score of 6—1 and 4—3, in the open tennis tournament which is being held here this week. Before the second set was completed Mlle. Lenglen was forced to retire through indisposition.

Former Champion Hurdler Dies

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., Jan. 21.—George A. Chisholm, former intercollegiate champion hurdler, died of pneumonia at his home here yesterday. He represented Yale at the university track meet in England in 1910 and was a member of the Olympic team in Sweden in 1912. He was engaged in the jewelry manufacturing business here.

CASPER LEON, LEADING BANTAM IN THE 90's, ILL FROM GAS POISONING

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Casper Leon, 47 years old, who was well-known as a bantamweight pugilist a score of years ago, is in a Harlem hospital in a serious condition from gas poisoning. He was found unconscious by the proprietor of his rooming house last night.

Casper Leon was at one time one of the world's greatest bantams. In 1891 George Dixon, then bantamweight champion, vacated that title to enter the featherweight ranks. Both Jimmy Barry and Leon claimed the crown. Barry ended the matter by knocking out Leon in 28 rounds, with two-ounce gloves, at Lamont, Ill., on Sept. 25, 1894.

Leon also met Patsy Haley, Eddie Carry, Spider Kelly and Dave Sullivan. He was a native of Palermo, Italy, and came to this country as a child.

ROVERS BEAT WANDERERS SEVEN IN HOCKEY GAME

The Rovers defeated the Wanderers, 6 to 2, in the hockey match played at the Winter Garden last night. The teamplay of the Rovers was one of the features of the contest. Andy McCreery and Jack Llonberger of the winners were the stars of the contest.

The lineups:

Rovers (6).	Position.	Wanderers (2).
Gifford (0)	Goal	Gibbs (0)
Matner (0)	Point	Smith (0)
McCreery (2)	Cover point	Knapp (0)
Llonberger (1)	Rover	E. Smith (0)

Australians Beat Britons and Keep Davis Tennis Cup

Competition Ends With Antipodean Stars Winning Four Out of Five Matches.

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 21.—Gerald Patterson, the Australian tennis expert, defeated A. R. F. Kingscote of Great Britain in their singles match today in the Davis Cup tennis tournament, the score being 6—4, 6—4 and 8—6. This contest was begun yesterday, but was postponed on account of rain after each player had won a game.

This victory insures the retention of the Davis Cup by Australia.

In the other singles match today Anderson, the young Australian star, defeated A. H. Lowe of Great Britain, 6—4, 5—7, 6—3, 4—6 and 12—10.

Of the five matches played the Australasian stars captured four to the Britons' one. Kingscote scored the only victory for the English by defeating Anderson. Norman Brookes, 42-year-old Australian veteran, played in the doubles only.

Yeatman Beats Principia.

Yeatman High had but little difficulty in scoring a 35 to 12 victory over the Principia quintet on the latter team's court last night. Walter Roettger, center, scored 13 points.

NEBRASKA'S RETURN TO VALLEY CONFERENCE IS OPPOSED BY GRADUATES

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 21.—University of Nebraska alumni residing at Omaha have filed a formal protest with the university regents against the prospective application of the Cornhusker School to return to the Missouri Valley conference.

Chairman Brown of the Regents and Chancellor Avery plan to go next week on a tour of the conference schools in connection with the proposed return to the valley organization.

LEONARD AND DUNDEE WILL BATTLE FEB. 9

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight boxing champion, and Johnny Dundee of New York will meet in an eight-round bout in Jersey City Feb. 9, it was announced last night.

The pair were to have met at New Haven in a 20-round bout to decision on Jan. 16, but the authorities interfered, classing the contest as a "prize fight." No decisions are permitted in New Jersey.

Basket Games Tonight.

Four games are scheduled to be played tonight in the Junior Municipal Basketball League at Mullanphy gymnasium. They are as follows: King's Highway vs. S. W. A. C.; Neighborhood A. C. vs. Wagners; Prendergasts vs. Y. M. C. A., and Youngs vs. Concordia.

COOGAN INJURES HAND; SOUTH BROADWAY CALLS OFF ITS BOXING SHOW

Herman Heitzenroeder, match maker for the South Broadway A. C., announced yesterday that the show schedule to be held tomorrow night had been postponed because of an injury to Mel Coogan, the Brooklyn lightweight, who was to meet Arlos Fanning in the feature bout.

Coogan's hand was injured in a recent contest with Willie Jackson, and rather than take a chance on a substitute, the South Broadway officials called off the show.

The next S. B. A. C. show is scheduled to be held Feb. 3, it was announced.

COLLEGE HOCKEY LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON JAN. 30

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—Delay in the completion of the rink has necessitated the postponement of the opening of the intercollegiate ice hockey season and the rearrangements of the schedule. All of the games are to be played in this city and it is expected the new rink will be ready for the first contest on Jan. 30. The opening match will be between Yale and Pennsylvania.

The remainder of the schedule, as far as completed, follows: Jan. 31, Princeton vs. Yale; Feb. 14, Yale vs. Harvard; Feb. 20, Yale vs. Pennsylvania; Feb. 24, Princeton vs. Pennsylvania; Feb. 28, Princeton vs. Harvard; March 1, Pennsylvania vs. Dartmouth; March 2, Princeton vs. Dartmouth.

M'KENDREE COLLEGE FIVE WINS FROM CONCORDIA

The Concordia Seminary basketball five dropped its second contest of the season, when the McKendree College team of Lebanon, Ill., gained a three-point victory here last night. The score was 17 to 14.

The local team got off to a good start, scoring six points before the visitors got their bearings. The Illinoisans then started to find the basket and left the floor at the intermission leading, 11 to 10.

The Concordians were unable to shoot accurately during the second period and scored only four points. Concordia will meet St. Louis U. on Jan. 28.

Tunney Stops Nelson.

University City Five Wins.

University City High School defeated the Ferguson High School basketball team yesterday afternoon, 36 to 6, taking the lead in the conference title race. It was the winners' second straight victory. At the end of the first half the score was 22 to 0.

Piker Lawyers Win.

The prelegal students won the Washington University intramural basketball championship by defeating the Architects, 14 to 6, yesterday afternoon. A large silver trophy goes to the winning team.

Princeton Swimmers Win.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Princeton defeated Columbia, 29 points to 24, in a dual swimmers' meet here tonight. The Tigers won the water polo contest, 6 to 0, breaking the tie for first place in the Intercollegiate Swimming League. Each team had won three games previously.

O'Dowd Knocks Out Murphy.

STOCKS FIRM DESPITE LOW EXCHANGE RATES

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"With another extremely dull stock market, it remained for the foreign exchanges again to exhibit the really significant movement of the day. The rapid decline in rates, which proceeded with continued violence today, brought the London and numerous continental exchanges to a lower level of depreciation than any heretofore witnessed. This is in itself a sufficiently striking development, when it is recalled that plans for financial aid to be extended to Europe by America are at least as far advanced as they were when exchange rates experienced their severe break last December.

"In the meantime, however, our exports have been going forward in enormous volume; actual arrangements for providing long credits have been made in only a fragmentary way; while scarcity of money, higher interest rates and discussion of possible action by the central banking authorities to force a curtailment of loans, have provided a highly practical reason why exporters should throw their bills on the market for what they would bring, rather than to continue to seek banking accommodation.

"Sterling exchange, after declining 8 cents in the pound yesterday, to $3.65¼, broke further to $3.61½ today; the previous 'low record' being the $3.64½ of last December. It was possible to obtain 12.3 French francs, or 12.05 Belgian francs, or 14.12 Italian lire to the dollar, against yesterday's price of 11.78 for francs, 11.80 for Belgian and 13.86 for Italy; par in all cases being 5.18⅛ to the dollar. German marks sold for the first time at less than 1½ cents each.

"Reflecting the movement of the exchanges, fine gold in London was quoted 1 1-3 shillings to the ounce, a premium of approximately 33 per cent over the mint's fixed price for the metal.

"Shortage of railroad cars, the Iron Age remarks in its review of steel market conditions, has actually become a greater handicap to the manufacturers than 'low performance' of labor. In other words, products turned out under considerable difficulties are piling up at the plants, awaiting shipment. The scarcity of steel and high manufacturing costs have led the 'independents' to discuss a possible return to prices realized in war time, which are $11 or $12 a ton above the present schedule, but, in this connection, it is noted that there has already been a considerable drop in orders for export.

"Railroad shares on the Stock Exchange were unmoved by the day's Washington dispatches describing a virtual deadlock among the House and Senate conferees on the railroad legislation. As a matter of fact, it was hardly to be expected that the market would seriously regard a professed inability to agree on the labor clauses of the pending law. Disagreement over the provisions for determining and limiting railway income, consolidations of systems and the like, is easier to understand, when the outside public, the large owners of railway securities and even the officials of the various lines have been unable to reach a common ground of understanding. At the present moment, however, for the committees to report back to their respective bodies that they are unable to agree would be a serious blow at congressional prestige."

FINANCIAL ITEMS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation declared an initial quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on the new common stock, payable Feb. 15 to stock of record Jan. 30. This is equivalent to a 16 per cent annual basis for old stock, as stockholders recently exchanged their holdings of old stock, $100 par value, for new stock of no par value in the ratio of four for one.

Waltham Watch Co. of Boston has declared a dividend of $2.50 a share on the common stock, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 20. This is the first dividend ordered on the common since Jan. 1, 1914, when 1 per cent was paid.

Considerable importance is attached to the rumors coming from Washington to the effect that the conferees on the Railroad Bill might eliminate entirely Section 6 of the Cummins bill, which calls for a 6 per cent guarantee on railway investment, this coming at virtually the same time that it was announced that the chairman of the railway executives has asked for a conference between the members of that body, the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, and the transportation committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, with a view of reaching an agreement on the rate-making provisions of the pending law. There is considerable uncertainty in financial circles over the failure of the parties interested in the matter to come to an agreement, in view of the nearness of the date for return of the roads to their owners.

LIVESTOCK

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Jan. 21.—Today's estimated livestock receipts: Cattle and calves, 5000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 1200; horses and mules, 1000.

CATTLE—Market on cattle was in better condition today. While steers were a little late going to the scales, prices were steady and butcher cattle and all classes of cows were 15c to 25c higher with brisk action. Nothing strictly good in the beef line was offered. Vealers sold up to $18.50. Cattle market closed steady at a decline from early advance.

COTTON OFF 60 POINTS IN NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The cotton market was weak and unsettled during today's early trading, owing to Liverpool cables, unfavorable trade reports from Manchester and scattering liquidation. The opening was steady at a decline of 11 to 35 points, and active months sold 25 to 55 points net lower before the end of the first hour, with January relatively easy under liquidation promoted by notices representing several thousand bales. That month sold off to 37.95c, while March declined to 36.05c and July to 32.33c. Further declines in foreign exchange rates were an unsettling feature, and Liverpool was a considerable seller here during the early trading.

Reports of a weaver strike in Manchester and private cables claiming that Manchester spinners were well covered with raw material seemed to stimulate selling later in the morning, and there were also reports of freer selling by the South. March broke to 35.95c and July to 32c around midday, with active months selling about 45 to 72 points net lower, but there was some trade buying on a scale down and prices showed rallies of a few points early in the noon hour.

Reports that a state of siege had been declared in some sections of Italy owing to disturbances connected with the railroad strike increased the nervousness of the afternoon market. Moderate rallies met increased offerings, with March ruling around 35.84c and July 32.05c during the middle of the last hour or about 55 to 60 points net lower.

NEW LOW RECORDS ON FOREIGN EXCHANGE MADE

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The most important feature of the foreign exchange market was the general reports of the absence of buyers in the market, making it hard to effect sales of even moderate amounts at substantial losses from previous low records. Sterling fell sharply from the opening, and in the afternoon demand was down 4 cents to 3.61½. French also suffered a further severe decline, checks on Paris dropping to 12.03, and Italian declined to 14.12 for lire checks. Marks checks and cables sold as low as 1.49. Copenhagen checks declined to 17.00 and Belgian to 12.05, all new records. Today's closing rates of exchange on all the principal foreign markets were as follows: Sterling demand, 3.61¼; sterling cables, 3.61¾; bankers 60 days, 3.57½; bankers 90 days, 3.55½; commercial 60 days, 3.55½; commercial 90 days, 3.54¼; France checks, 12.03; France cables, 1.01; Belgium checks, 12.03; Belgium cables, 12.03; Germany checks, 1.55; Germany cables, 1.62; Austria checks, .32; Austrian cables, .33; Holland checks, 37 5-16; Holland cables, 37 7-16; Italy checks, 14.10; Italy cables, 14.08; Swiss checks, 5.56; Swiss cables, 5.54; Stockholm kroner checks, 20.40; Stockholm kroner cables, 20.55; Christiania kroner checks, 18.70; Christiania kroner cables, 18.85; Copenhagen kroner checks, 17; Copenhagen kroner cables, 17.15; Spain checks, 18.75; Spain cables, 18.80; Buenos Aires, 102.

CORN MARKET IS STEADY DESPITE LIGHT TRADING

There was a very light trade in the early market here today. Prices opened fractionally over yesterday's close; then lost the advance. Hog prices were irregular, and Chicago had 540,000 bu of corn, against 392,000 bu last year. Weather was cold over the crop belt, and is increasing feeding demands. Foreign news was without effect on values.

Oats futures were steady with corn but the market was quiet. Receipts were moderate and export and domestic demands are absorbing the arrivals. There is little if any public interest in the speculative market at present, however.

Corn futures were firm to ½c to 2½c higher in the late market, owing to higher cash prices. Oats were steady.

The Snow-Bartlett Frazier January livestock report shows a decrease of nearly 5,000,000 hogs as compared with a year ago, and a decrease of over 2,000,000 cattle, other than milch cows. Reports are almost unanimous in their showing of dissatisfaction among hog raisers and a disposition to sell brood sows and definitely decrease brooding for a spring pig crop. The losses to feeders of both hogs and cattle during the past six months have been very severe, and the feeding industry is going through a period of discouragement.

Chicago wired: "It appears that the embargo on the New York Central and refusal of some other Eastern roads to accept freight is because of heavy snow storms which have disarranged traffic. We assume, therefore, that the embargo is merely temporary."

Clearances of wheat today: 383,000 bu; corn 17,000 bu; oats none; flour 73,000 bbls; wheat and flour 667,000 bu.

Minneapolis spring wheat was 5c to 10c higher; but winter was slow sale.

Chicago cash corn was 2c to 3c higher; cash oats were 1c higher.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

JABBED JAGS.

In cases of dipsomaniacs, crazed by lack of alcohol, some physicians have injected small doses of whisky as a sedative.—News Item.

When grandfather found his potations
Were stopped at the source of supply,
Because of a well meaning nation's Decision to keep people dry,
The elderly toper's condition
Awakened his children's alarm,
And therefore a kindly physician
Injected a jag in his arm.

At first he was pleased with the feeling
That followed a sedative shot,
His gait was a little bit reeling
Which cheered the old man quite a lot.
It lightly disposed him to laughter
In quite the familiar old way.
And it brought the same consequence after,
He got the same headache next day.

But grandfather wasn't contented
Mere drunkenness wasn't enough.
He sat round the house and lamented
The wonderful taste of the stuff.
"These buns that they give you by measure,"
Said he "never get very far.
My boozin' don't give me no pleasure
Onless I stand up to a bar."

So grandfather quit the physician
With never a quaver or qualm.
And now he accepts prohibition
With utterly stoical calm.
The way the old fellow forsook it
Has suddenly led me to think
That not booze, but the way that you took it
Was the fun that you got out of drink.

TIME TO START SOMETHING.

If D'Annunzio comes to the United states we'll pass him right along to Mexico, with power to act.

LITTLE CHOICE.

It is difficult to tell venison from beef these days. Both are dear meat.

We Guess Not.

"I understand you served on a submarine during the war?" asked the man with his foot on the brass rail.

"Yes, I did," replied the man in sailor clothes.

"Do you like the work as well as on a cruiser?"

"Well, I didn't have to scrub the decks as often on a submarine."—Yonkers Statesman.

How He Earned It.

"Supposing I give you your supper," said the tired-looking woman, "what will you do to earn it?"

"Madame," said the wanderer, "I'd give you de opportunity of seeing a man go t'roo a whole meal without finding fault wid a single t'ing."

The woman thought a minute, and then told him to come in, and she'd set the table.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Mere Mediocrity.

"I used to think I possessed the artistic temperament—the sacred fire; but I was mistaken. I'm just one among the millions of common people."

"You have no right to say that! You have done some splendid things—things that you could not possibly have done if you had merely been one among the millions of common people."

"No, you're mistaken. I'm just an ordinary, everyday man. Why, my wife has lived with me for 11 years without ever once thinking of getting a divorce."—Pittsburg Press.

On the Defensive.

Oke: Would you be satisfied if you had all the money you wanted?

Owens: I'd be satisfied if I had all the money my creditors wanted.—Boston Transcript.

If Congress wants to regain its popularity it need only pass a bill giving housewives mandates for their cooks.—Kansas City Times.

The Obliging Scot.

A Scottish emigrant on his arrival at Montreal stopped for a moment to examine a coat hanging in front of a clothing store, when the proprietor asked him if he would not try on a coat.

"I dinna ken but I wad," responded the emigrant, consulting his watch, and he went in and set to work. No matter how often he found a fit, he tried on another and another and another till he tried on about 30. Then, again looking at his watch, he resumed his own garment and walked off, saying:

"Weel, I've lost time, nae doot, but hang the fellow that'll no' obleege anither when he can!"—Scottish American.

Saved Simoleons.

"I have saved eight dollars today."

"That so? How?"

"They had beefsteak on the bill-of-fare, and I took a ham sandwich and a glass of milk instead."—Detroit Free Press.

An Accomplished Fowl.

"Mercy! How that bird swears!" exclaimed the would-be purchaser. "What would my husband say?"

"I dunno, ma'am," replied the dealer. "But whatever it was this 'ere parrot could repeat it right over after him."—Kansas City Star.

"Your boarders seem to eat and run, Mrs. Hashbeans."

Millions Need Pepto-Mangan

In Many Homes Better Health Is Simply a Matter of Better Blood

Pepto-Mangan Improves Blood

Are you tired and weak and "blue?" Do you say to yourself, "What's the use of living? What do I get out of life, dragging through this drab existence in this unhappy way?"

You don't feel well and you don't know why you have so little energy to do anything, and you get all tired out before it is done. There are millions in busy America that have such feelings now and then, and they are to be pitied. But there is help. Unless some serious malady is at the bottom of their trouble, a few weeks of Pepto-Mangan will work a wonderful change. Pepto-Mangan puts new vigor into the blood, and the blood is the life fluid. With plenty of rich, red blood coursing through one's body one is pretty likely to feel good and vigorous and be strong and look hearty.

Go to your druggist and ask for "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," be sure to say "Gude's." "If "Gude's" is not on the package it is not Pepto-Mangan. It is put up in both liquid and tablet form. Tell the druggist which you prefer. There is no difference in medicinal value.
